SENT BACK TO MANHATTAN

WILL FILE ACTION TODAY

Jersey City Authorities Issue Statement Telling Why They Barred Convicted Orator.

The Jersey City authorities last night refused to permit Victor L. Berger, under twenty years' sentence for violating the espionage law, expelled from Congress, and recently re-elected from the Fifth Wisconsin District, to speak there. He was escorted by the police to the ferry, the bell in the engine room jingled "full steam ahead," and Berger sailed back to Manhattan.

Having noticed that the Socialist leader had twice spoken in Manhattan, the members of the Socialist Educational Club, 256 Central Avenue, Jersey City, decided to summon him over to deliver a message last night. Frederick Schwarting, a State organizer for the party, was assigned as Chairman, and he got out a number of advertisements telling Jersey City what was due.

It happened that one of the advertisements caught the eye of Charles Francis X. O'Brien, Director of Public Safety. He immediately wrote a letter to Richard C. Battersby, Chief of Police, directing him not to permit Berger to speak. In his letter, Commissioner O'Brien said that Berger was found guilty of violating the Espionage act, and that he had been expelled from Congress.

"Sunday night," wrote Mr. O'Brien, "Mr. Berger delivered an address in New York, in which it is alleged he said the Constitution of the United States was a 'piece of paper.' It is also alleged that he said it would not be long before a Socialist was made Governor of Wisconsin. He is also alleged to have said: 'I leave this message with you; whether I go to prison or Congress, I will carry the flag of revolution with me.'

"It can readily be seen, therefore, with Mr. Berger's record of conviction of one of the most serious charges against the Government, and his continued preaching of revolution and the destruction of American institutions, that he is a dangerous individual. I take it that as he is against law and order and that as his appearance and speaking here tonight might lead to serious results, it is in the best interests of government that Mr. Berger be not allowed to deliver a public address in Jersey City tonight.

"At present the United States Government is conducting a campaign against those who have been plotting against our Government and rightly has deported a number of them to other countries where they may carry on their propaganda. This country must not be tainted with or desecrated by the principles which Berger espouses, and so far as Jersey City is concerned we will never be so affected.

"I believe this step is absolutely necessary to sustain the action of the Jersey City boys in the war. To allow Berger to speak here would not only be an affront to the 20,000 boys of Jersey City who gladly and unselfishly entered the world war, many of whom now sleep in foreign fields, but it would continue to promote the general unrest now prevalent throughout the country."

Armed with their instructions, the police under Chief Battersby and Inspector John Cody arrived in front of the Socialist meeting place. They refused to allow anybody to enter the hall, but permitted a number to make their way to the rooms of the Eleventh Ward Socialist Club and pay their monthly dues.

Berger and Oscar Ameringer, an associate editor of The Milwaukee Leader and affectionately dubbed by Berger "my assistant prophet," went over to Jersey City by way of the Lackawanna Ferry. They took a Central Avenue trolley to Hutton Street, half a block from the meeting hall. The police were advised as to the progress of the socialistic approach, and when the pair alighted, Chief Battersby and his men were in the offing. Berger, swathed in a heavy gray overcoat, and Ameringer, in a trapper's fur cap, headed for the hall.

"Hello, Mr. Berger," said Chief Battersby, "you'll not be permitted to speak here tonight, and you must leave the city at once."

"Who are you?" demanded Berger, and he was told.

"I will hold you personally responsible for this," declared the Socialist.

"All right," said Battersby. "I'm responsible."

"I'll sue you for this," continued Berger.

"Go ahead, sue as much as you desire," remarked the chief, "but you must leave the city at once."

A big police limousine was standing near by. Berger looked at it. Ameringer conferred with his superior for a moment, and then said he guessed Berger would go home, and that he would promise to the meeting and tell them about it.

That settled it; Berger climbed into the car, Ameringer followed suit. Bat-

Rhode Island for Amendment; Suffrage Also Wins in Kentucky

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 6.—The Federal Woman Suffrage amendment was ratified by the Legislature today.

The ratification resolution passed the House by a vote of 80 to 3, and a few minutes later was adopted unanimously by the Senate.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 6.—Ratification of the woman suffrage amendment was completed by the Legislature this afternoon. The House of Representatives voted 72 to 25 and the Senate 30 to 8 to ratify the amendment.

With Rhode Island and Kentucky added, the number of States which have ratified the Suffrage Amendment is now twenty-four.

KENDRICK OFFERS NEW TREATY PLAN

Submits for Small Democratic Group Compromise Proposal Said to Have Bryan's Aid.

HITCHCOCK NOT CONSULTED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Senator Kendrick of Wyoming, in behalf of a group of Democrats who had not consulted Senator Hitchcock or Senator Underwood on their move, offered today to Senator McNary of Oregon, a Republican mild reservationist leader, a set of peace treaty resolutions drafted with a view to forming the basis of a compromise.

The plan was said to be in part the work of William J. Bryan, and to have his hearty support. Senators Kendrick, McKellar of Tennessee, Swanson of Virginia, and others helped to prepare it. A copy of the proposals was handed to Senator Lodge.

The sponsors of the plan ventured the belief that forty-four Democrats would support it with their votes, a claim which was immediately subjected to analysis by the mild reservationists, and found, in their opinion, to be unfounded. They quickly established the fact that no such number of Democrats had been canvassed on the question. In fact, aside from those Senators directly concerned in the movement which resulted in the formulation of the program, no Democrats could be found today who had seen the so-called Bryan proposal, or who had been asked to support it.

In claiming forty-four votes for the reservations, Senators of the group said they had excluded only Senators Hitchcock, Underwood and Reed from the probable supporters. They created the impression that they had not consulted Senator Hitchcock or Senator Underwood because they wished to proceed without complicating their proposals with the Democratic leadership fight. As to Senator Reed, he is a Democratic irreconcilable.

Perusal of the proposals by individual Republican Senators convinced them, they said, that a number of changes must be made before the so-called Bryan plan could be made acceptable. They hoped, however, reservations declared, that the proposals contained the essentials of a compromise.

Changes Proposed in Draft.

The reservations amend the preamble by eliminating the requirement for definite acceptance by three of the principal allied powers.

In respect to withdrawal from the League practically no change is made in the Lodge reservation, except that the concurrent resolution of Congress provided for in the Lodge program as notice of withdrawal is altered to a joint resolution, giving the President the last word on this question.

On the Monroe Doctrine the change proposed is the elimination of that clause in the Lodge reservation which reserves to the United States the sole right of interpretation of the doctrine. The proposed reservation retains the provision that the League of Nations shall not have power to impair the doctrine. The new version is considered much less offensive to foreign nations by its sponsors.

The proposal eliminates a number of Lodge reservations entirely, including those relating to matters which require legislation by Congress in any event. Those omitted include the ones relating to the naming of American members of commissions and representatives in the League, the appropriation of the American shares of League expenses, and limiting the power of the reparations commission to interfere with American commerce with Germany without Congressional assent.

The Shantung reservation is modified by removing from its final clause all reference by name to China and Japan.

Instead of refusing American assent to the labor section of the treaty, the draft proposes that the United States shall assume no obligation nor be bound in advance by decisions of the International Labor Tribunal.

A softening of the Lenroot reservation on voting power is proposed by modification of the wording, but there is no essential change in the principle.

Wait to Hear From Wilson.

TWO AMERICANS SLAIN BY ROBBERS NEAR TAMPICO

F. J. Roney and Earl Bowles Found Murdered in Mexican Oil Field.

LANSING DEMANDS JUSTICE

TO FOLLOW UP THE CASE

Men Were Supposed to Have Oil Company Funds—Total of Oil Employes Killed Now 17.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The murder of two more Americans in the Tampico district of Mexico was reported officially to the State Department today and was followed by the cabling of instructions to the embassy in Mexico City to take the matter up with the Carranza Government.

When a high official of the Government was asked today what would be the next step in the Mexican situation he replied that it would depend largely on developments in Mexico. After it had been advised of the murder of the two Americans the State Department made this announcement:

"A Tampico dispatch to the Department of State announced today that F. J. Roney and Earl Bowles, Americans, were murdered near Fort Lobos, an oil loading station between Tampico and Tuxpam, Mexico, and that their bodies were discovered Jan. 5. The men were employes of the International Petroleum Company. It is reported that the men were suspected of having in their possession pay funds of the company.

"The State Department today cabled instructions to the American Embassy at Mexico City to immediately urge the Mexican Government to issue orders promptly to put into effect every possible measure for the apprehension and punishment of the murderers, and the embassy was directed to report specifically to the Department at the earliest possible moment the action taken by the Mexican Government in the cases. Similar instructions were sent to the American Consul at Tampico with a view to immediate action by the local authorities.

"The department has called on the consul to report further details regarding the murder.

"The Department of State has received a dispatch from the American Consul at Mazatlan reporting that Harry V. Learnard and Harry O. Martin, members of the crew of the U. S. S. Pocomoke, arrested on a charge of assaulting a Mexican citizen, have been sentenced to two months' imprisonment, but that the sentence dated back to Nov. 12 and that their release accordingly should be effective Jan. 12."

The death of Gale B. Porter, an American employe of the Penn-Mex Oil Company, operating in the Tampico region, has been reported to the authorities in Washington.

Porter was killed accidentally, the report says, as he was returning from a dance at Lima, near Alamo, in the Tampico district. One of his companions fired several shots from a revolver supposedly in the air. One of the shots accidentally struck Porter in the back, killing him. Porter's home was in Fullerton, Cal.

Both Men Were Texans.

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 6.—The American employes of the International Petroleum Company, murdered by bandits near Port Lobos, Mexico, were from Texas. They were slain on Monday, according to information received here today.

F. J. Roney was a Houston oil man and Earl Bowles was formerly with the Gulf Refining Company at Beaumont.

A telegram to the Texas Company from a representative in Tampico merely said Roney was killed by bandits on Monday at Port Lobos. A similar message was received by the Gulf Refining Company. Bowles was prominent in Texas oil affairs in the Spindle Top days.

Representatives in New York of the International Petroleum Company, while admitting yesterday that they had received details of the murder of Roney and Bowles, declined to make them public.

From other sources among Mexican oil interests it was learned that a relative of one of the dead men received a telegram stating where the body could be found. The reason for declining to discuss the killing, an oil man said, was "because of fear of reprisals on others of our employes still in Mexico."

"Roney and Bowles," the oil man said, "make seventeen Americans (employes of American oil companies operating in Mexico) who have been murdered in the last few years.

PARIS, Wednesday, Jan. 7.—Descamps, manager for Georges Carpentier, wired James Coffroth, manager of the Tia Juana race track, last evening accepting the latter's terms for a championship bout between Carpentier and Dempsey in America.

The only exception taken was relative to the length of the battle, Carpentier being unwilling to fight over fifteen rounds and favoring ten rounds.

The decision to accept Mr. Coffroth's offer of a $400,000 purse came after a long consultation with French promoters, in which the latter expressed their inability to meet the offer of the American.

"This talk of a forty-five-round fight is stupid," said Descamps last night. "If the championship cannot be settled inside of fifteen, then neither Dempsey nor my boy is worthy to be champion of the world."

Descamps offers to split the purse fifty-fifty, claiming Carpentier is as big a drawing card as Dempsey, whether the battle is staged in America, England, or France. French promoters were disheartened by the spirited bidding of Americans and have given up the idea of holding the fight in this country, one saying: "The Americans knocked us out before we entered the ring."

HARDING LASHES AMERICAN REDS

Senator Denounces 'Worst Disloyalists and Effective Conspirators Masking as Citizens.'

BUTLER ASSAILS AGITATORS

Gen. Wood Unable to Speak to Ohio Society, but Wires 'Steady' Is Watchword.

Members and guests of the Ohio Society at its dinner in the Waldorf last night had opportunity to listen to two who have been mentioned as favorite son candidates for the Republican Presidential nomination—Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, of New York, and United States Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio. Moreover, the guests heard a message from a third avowed Republican aspirant, for Major Gen. Leonard Wood sent a letter of regret, in which he devoted himself to the topic of the evening, Americanism.

George W. Perkins, as President of the society, presided, and the Republican contingent of the diners were of a strongly Progressive flavor. About the crowded tables and even in the galleries thronged with women there was some gossip as to the absence of General Wood, who wrote to George W. Perkins yesterday his inability to attend, owing to "closing up the situation at Gary," and to preoccupation in rounding up the Red element.

"Steady," Says General Wood.

Mr. Perkins, with the coming of coffee and cigars, proposed a toast to President Wilson, a silent one to Theodore Roosevelt and a third to the women in the galleries. Next he read General Wood's message, which said:

"I regret exceedingly that the pressure of public business here prevents my being present. Moreover, I am just closing up the situation at Gary and am somewhat occupied in doing my part in rounding up the Red element. In other words, it is a case of duty first.

"It seems to me that the watchword today is 'steady.' We must do all we can to give a square deal to both capital and labor, to push forward good business and increase production. We must also make a much more serious and thorough effort to Americanize the immigrant who comes to us.

"I found throughout the disturbances at Gary, at Omaha and in the coal fields that these aliens were well supplied with the literature of destruction and that they had barely been touched by Americanizing influences.

"If I could be with you I should take advantage of the opportunity to impress upon those present the necessity of promptly getting rid of the alien or naturalized Red, either by deportation or proper legal procedure, and of emphasizing the vital importance of the maintenance of law and order, respect for property, and the rights of the individual.

"The time has come to wake up and demonstrate that this country is going to be run by Americans, under the Constitution, without fear or favor to any class or group.

"With renewed expressions of regret that I cannot be with you,

Harding on the Constitution.

Senator Harding traced the early coming of "the soul of nationalism" into Americanism, called the Constitution the "Ark of the Covenant of American liberty, the very temple of equal rights," and said that the sacredness of the document has not been so much forgotten as too little proclaimed, continuing:

"Apparently we have held the freedom of speech which the Constitution guarantees more sacred than the guaranteeing instrument. I have come to think it is fundamentally and patriotic-

DINNER TO BECOME PRESIDENCY FORUM

TWELVE SPEAKERS ON LIST

Each to Address Both Sections of Banquet—Wilson's "Important Word" Guarded.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Aspirants for the Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket will declare their views on national political issues at the double Jackson Day dinner to be held at the Willard and Washington Hotels on Thursday night, following the meeting of the party's National Committee here.

There will be twelve speakers at each section of the dinner. Eleven men and one woman are on the list.

In addition to the "important word of greeting" which President Wilson will send, a rather long letter from William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, will be read. Chairman Homer S. Cummings received this letter today. Mr. McAdoo's inability to attend the dinner, he said, was due to the necessity of his presence in Tulsa on legal business.

The strong intimation from the White House that President Wilson's letter would be of intense importance was emphasized today by directions given to guard it from premature publication. Although the dinner will begin at 6 o'clock Thursday evening, copies of the letter will not be available to the press until its reading has been started. Efforts to obtain advance copies in confidence for subsequent release were unavailing.

When the letter is read, just before the beginning of the speechmaking, about 8 o'clock, copies will be given out at the Willard and the Washington and at the White House. Officials of the White House declined to assent to any other arrangement.

Double Talks by Party Leaders.

Each of the twelve speakers will speak at both sections of the dinner. The first six, who speak at the Willard, will go to the Washington and deliver their remarks there after the first six on the Washington program have gone over to the Willard.

The speakers, in the order in which they will appear at the Willard, are to be: Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, Governor John J. Cornwell of West Virginia, Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, James W. Gerard of New York, Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, Secretary Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, Representative Champ Clark of Missouri, Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Peter Oleson of Minnesota, Senator Atles Pomerene of Ohio, Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, and William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska.

Mr. Bryan, who will speak fourth at the Washington, will be the last speaker at the Willard.

The dinner was to have been held at the Willard only, but when the pressure for seats became so great arrangements were made to have an overflow dinner at the Washington, which is in the same block as the Willard. The impression spread that the Washington Hotel section of the dinner would be a secondary affair, in that all the distinguished personages invited by the National Committee had been assigned to places at the Willard tables, but members of the committee said today that this was incorrect.

Ex-Speaker Clark, Mr. Bryan, Attorney General Palmer, Mrs. Oleson, and others who are well known, will take their dinner at the Washington. Vice President Marshall will be the principal guest of honor at the Willard section.

More Than 1,000 Killed in Couztlan, Mex., by Earthquake, and Scores in Other Towns

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 6.—Coustlan was destroyed by Saturday's earthquake, with 2,000 casualties, including more than 1,000 dead, according to official reports given out here tonight by Presidential military headquarters from advices received from officers in the Vera Cruz centre of disturbance.

The entire garrison at Teocelo was killed or injured. The dead numbered thirty, and the injured sixty.

The water level at Port Barranca del Agua rose twenty-five meters.

Virtually all the roads in the surrounding district were flooded or destroyed, according to the reports.

At least a dozen towns and villages in the State of Vera Cruz have been totally or partly destroyed. Of Calcahualico, with 200 inhabitants, natives report nothing left except a pit filled with debris, which cannot be approached.

The earthquake area extended about sixty miles on the eastern slope of the volcano of Orizaba. Beach came not only from crumbling homes and churches, but from floods in hitherto peaceful streams swollen by black, sulphurous waters, which swept settlements along their banks.

It is believed certain there were many casualties at Balmaral, Chichuicatl, Jalapa del Marques, Tlacotepec and Tenampa, which were partly or entirely destroyed.

EUROPE DOESN'T NEED AID SHE ASKS, HOOVER DECLARES

TIME TO CARRY OWN BURDEN

NO GROUND FOR HYSTERIA

What Countries Require Is to Get Back to Work—Propagandists Attacked.

Herbert Hoover, on his way East in connection with relief work in Europe, yesterday telegraphed to his headquarters in this city a statement in which he took emphatic exception to opinions of "European propagandists," both concerning the volume of Europe's financial needs from the United States and the contention that the great bulk of these needs cannot be met by ordinary commercial credits.

Mr. Hoover's statement in full follows:

"I disagree emphatically with the statement being circulated by European propagandists, both as to the volume of European financial needs from the United States and as to their suggestions that the great bulk of these needs cannot be met by ordinary commercial credits and that therefore our Treasury needs to be further drawn upon for new loans.

"Aside from some secondary measures by our Government, the problem is one of ratification of peace and ordinary business processes, and not one of increasing our burden of taxation. Our taxes are now 600 per cent. over prewar rates. We simply cannot increase this burden. Rather, the problem is one of early reduction.

"By secondary measures I mean that some dozen cities in central and southern Europe need breadstuffs on credit from the Grain Corporation to prevent actual starvation, and that the Allies are asking for temporary delay in paying interest on our Government loans to them. The Allies cannot pay this year, in any event. The actual situation varies with every country in Europe, and generalities are not worth print paper. The European neutral countries have made money from the war, and have asked no favors, and given none.

"Outside of interest to the Allies, Great Britain states that she wants nothing but commercial credits. These she can always obtain if she puts up her ample collateral assets in South America, China, &c. France also has unpledged foreign assets that would cover most of her important needs.

Other Nations Should Help.

"It would also appear that the 70,000,000 people of prosperous nations who have not suffered in the war should also aid in European relief. The American people are now finding $7,000,000 a month in charity for feeding 3,000,000 children and fighting disease. If we contribute the bread supply on Government credit to these starving cities plus business credits, we will be doing our share of world responsibility.

"If we do undertake the solution of the bread question by our Government, our action will benefit and protect the other nations of Europe from infection of anarchy and chaos. Poland is the sole shield of Europe from Bolshevist invasion. If we extend this help it should be upon consideration that the stronger nations in Europe will do their full part in many directions. Many people of Europe are not at work. For instance, their coal production is less than 70 per cent. and their economic demoralization is in a great degree due to this alone. Only they can remedy it.

"Our Government has a large surplus of wheat flour acquired by it under the wheat guarantee. In the ordinary course we should hold it for cash from foreign nations. We could solve the bread situation in the dozen critical centres in Europe if the Grain Corporation were to sell about 15 per cent. of our surplus wheat and flour on credit to meet these acute situations. The difference between these credits and cash is the difference between starvation and existence to them. These plans require no new appropriations from our Treasury and no additional taxes on our people, but they do require an understanding in Europe that this country is nearing the time when it must cease to carry the economic burden of Europe except through charity and ordinary business processes set up under proper security.

No One Is Threatening Italy.

"The position of Italy is difficult; but with demobilization of her army and her navy her needs would be less. So far as I know, no one is threatening her with war. It is possible that some of her larger cities may need breadstuff assistance beyond the ability of commercial credits. Germany could pay or secure commercial credits if the reparation commission would allow her to mobilize and use her domestic resources and her unpledged foreign assets until she gets further on her feet. The East Baltic States have enough food except milk for their children, and we are taking care of this.

"Bulgaria, Greater Serbia, Rumania, South Russia, and Turkey (except Armenia) have a surplus of food this year and can export it. If they control the

New Army Bill May Make Pershing Chief of Staff

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Incorporation of language in the Army Reorganization bill which Senate Military Sub-Committee members said would make General Pershing Chief of Staff is under consideration by the committee, but Chairman Wadsworth said tonight that a decision had not been reached. As drawn, the tentative provision would make the "General of the Army" Chief of Staff. Under a provision adopted by the committee, "the General of the Army" would head a board of general officers to select officers for staff duty. Senator Wadsworth said he hoped to report the bill to the full committee on Friday.

DVINSK RETAKEN FROM BOLSHEVIKI

VAST BOOTY IS CAPTURED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

RIGA, Jan. 6.—The latest news from the Headquarters Staff is that the Lettish forces have everywhere reached their objective, the Dvina River, in the first phase of the operation for the recovery of Letgalen. The town of Dvinsk cut off in the angle of the Dvina River was occupied yesterday without difficulty by the combined Lettish and Polish forces and a large quantity of stores and material was captured, including an armored train. The number of guns, machine guns, and prisoners is not yet known, but is stated to be considerable.

The startling ease and very slight losses with which this operation was effected bears out my contention as to the weakness of the Red forces against well led, trained and disciplined troops, which the Letts certainly are.

From what I have seen myself and been told regarding the Esthonian and Yudenitch fronts, I am convinved that from a military standpoint the Bolsheviki, in the west at any rate, are mostly bluff. Their opponents fall by their own weakness, disorganization, and disintegration. Not knowing the Bolshevist strength, on the other hand, I have been told by allied officers who have been here much longer than I have, that there exists a considerable force of Red shock troops—real Communists, estimated at from 50,000 to 100,000 strong, whom the Bolsheviki keep in reserve, but do employ when needed. These are said to be seriously to be reckoned with as fighting material.

Anti-Aircraft Gunners Expert.

Airmen, too, who bombed Kronstadt have told me that the anti-aircraft shooting there was as good, though naturally of less volume, as anything they had known in France, and officers of the English destroyers spoke highly of the shooting from the Kronstadt and Tsarskoe Selo batteries.

There may be a deal of truth in all this. The Russian fleet went Communist from the outset and may be said to form the backbone of the Bolshevist régime. But, on the other hand, the English destroyers took chances before Kronstadt which they would never have taken but once before Heligoland. Sometimes they were "straddled" by the Red gunners and sometimes a shell inflicted casualties and did some damage, but if they had tried the same game at Heligoland they would have been blown out of the water ten times in the first ten minutes.

There are stories, too, that the frontline Bolshevist troops are mere "cannon fodder," held in place by the presence of the Communist reserves behind them with machine guns trained ready for the first sign of flinching. We heard the same twaddle about the Germans in the early stages of the great war, but it was not by those means that Germany held her military end up over four years. Here and there, in a case of panic, it is possible that troops were shot down by their own comrades—I know of one case personally—but as a regular principle of warfare it is impossible.

Anyway, it will be interesting to see whether any of these famous Red reserves will make their appearance against the Letts, who have announced openly in the Riga press that the operation begun is "for the liberation of Letgalen."

Denikin Officer's Revelations.

Meanwhile, lest it seem that I have been too harsh in my strictures on the Denikin-Kolchak army, let me quote extracts from a letter written last Summer by an officer on Denikin's staff to a colleague with Kolchak. I do not say that there are not brave men in these armies, or good detachments, but I do say that their efforts are nullified by military disorganization and internal jealousies, if not worse, and above all by faulty administration of territory occupied. The officer in question evidently believed that Kolchak's end of things was being better managed than Denikin's. It was a pious hope which events and details of the behavior of Kolchak's staff in Omsk have unfortunately made vain. He says:

$200,000 FUND FOR RADICALS

LUSK SOUNDS A WARNING

Chairman Says Arrests Up-State Have Merely "Scratched the Surface" of Treasonable Plot.

The Federal drive against radicals locally gained rather than lost force yesterday, and with hundreds of Department of Justice men out touring the city last night it was announced that the raiding would continue until the last man named in the original 3,000 deportation warrants had been arrested.

Topping the day's activity was a sudden descent on the office of Novy Mir, the organ of Communism. Fifteen persons were nabbed as they were about to open a meeting. Children from the neighborhood, attracted by the raid, ransacked the office and gleefully destroyed a great deal of radical literature. Dr. Victor Pachacksky, alias "Dr. Paige," an associate of Trotzky, was caught in this raid. A naturalized citizen, he wants to go back to Soviet Russia, and agents last night said he would get his wish.

Coping with a radical element that had been thoroughly frightened by the successive raids, the agents last night succeeded in executing only a score or so of the deportation warrants. In every instance, except one, the warrants were served simply. The exception was a raid on an apartment at 1,483 Vyse Avenue, the Bronx, where agents aided by two army captains broke in on a meeting. The Federal men arrested five of the nine men gathered there and let three women go. Shortly after midnight the agents, having searched the apartment to the last cranny, were questioning the men.

Fighting back at the Federal attacks, liberal and radical organizations yesterday consolidated to raise a fund to aid and defend those taken in the raids. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn of I. W. W. notoriety was put in charge, and she announced that $200,000 had already been pledged.

Senator Clayton R. Lusk, Chairman of the Lusk Committee, investigating seditious activities in this State, declared that 20,000 alien members of the Communist Party of New York State openly sought the overturn of the Government by force. He declared that evidence had been obtained proving that the propagandists were subverting even Sunday schools as channels for radicalism.

More Reds at Ellis Island.

Fifty-eight new arrivals reached Ellis Island yesterday, according to Byron H. Uhl, Acting Commissioner of Immigration, who added that seventeen were from this city. Preliminary deportation hearings were continued, twenty-five cases being heard. The results of the trials were not available yesterday. The only incident in Ellis Island's radical colony yesterday was an unsuccessful attempt of Gregory Weinstein, chief aid to Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, Soviet Russia's "Ambassador," to resist the process of taking a photograph of him.

The raid on the Novy Mir at 113 East Tenth Street was conducted by Special Agents Frank Francisco, Anderson, Giovanni, and Gegan, assisted by a squad from Police Headquarters.

Fifteen persons were seated around a table and just about to begin a Communist Labor meeting. The agents produced warrants and, identifying those sought, placed the meeting under arrest. Later, at the Department of Justice headquarters the names of eight of those caught were given out. According to the Federal officers, they were: John Dudark, 24 years old of 12 West 121st Street; Annie Manson, 24 years old of the same address; John Wattman of 544 Claremont Parkway, the Bronx; Gabriel Bushkoff of 99 Seventh Street; Deofin Chepuk, 1,939 Bergen Street, Brooklyn; Vosil Wasilvetch, 303 East Thirteenth Street; Volodia Bychkoff of 106 East 101st Street, and Dr. Victor Pachacksky of 303 East Fourteenth Street, who is also known under the name of "Dr. Victor Paige."

The most important of those bagged, according to the agents, was Dr. Pachacksky, who was connected with the revolutionary movement in Russia in 1907, and was exiled to Siberia.

The doctor, who gets his title by virtue of being a dentist's mechanic, said that he got out of Siberia by bribing his guards. He escaped into Germany, thence going to South America. According to his story, as repeated by the agents, he went to Switzerland in 1914, where he worked with Nicolai Lenin. He came to this country with Trotzky in 1916, and went out as a radical lecturer.

All of those caught in the raid were taken to the Federal headquarters, where they were questioned, before being tagged for Ellis Island. According to the agents all of the prisoners admitted that they were aliens and that they were members of the Communist Party. One of the Government questioners who conducted the examination of Dudark and Miss Manson branded them as radicals of the wildest type. This agent's story was that both the prisoners boasted that they were true Russians and that they would gladly take up arms to overthrow this Government. Also, it was said, they admitted belief in the theory that assassination of public officials was justifiable. Miss Manson was removed last night from the Park Row headquarters to the Clinton Street Station to spend the night, prior to being sent over to Ellis Island today.

Taken on Monday Night.

It was stated that Chief Flynn's raids of the night previous had netted sixty-three radicals, seventeen of them being dispatched to the deportation colony yesterday. A partial list of those who were ferried to Ellis Island is: I. Naiditch, address unknown; Nathan Schuk, 100 Monroe Street; Harry Rosenhause, 28 Market Street; Abraham Fleishman, 60 Hester Street; Oscar Tyverowski, 1,567 Fulton Avenue, the Bronx; John Viscum, High Street, Hastings-on-Hudson; John Freeberg, 114 West 127th Street; Halvich Cenufry, 230 Fifth Street; Michael Udich, 74 West 118th Street; Boris Diesilo, 535 East 115th Street; Hyman Flatkin, 1,326 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx; John Weisman, address unknown; Adolf Schlessler, 470 Concord Avenue, the Bronx; Roma Bluegrass, 740 East 149th Street; Ernest Jagerman, 470 Concord Avenue, the Bronx; Edward Rullies, 536 East Seventy-ninth Street, and Charles Rosenthal 1,490 Avenue A.

A reinforced staff was busy all day yesterday and far into last night sorting and classifying the vast amount of literature and correspondence seized in the raids. It was indicated that when the Lusk Committee resumes its sessions in this city, next Friday morning in the City Hall, the inquiry would delve into fresh fields. Incidentally, the agents were busy last night on a list of 1,000 Communists obtained in the raid on Novy Mir. The list, it was stated, contained names of leaders throughout the country and also their particular qualifications for agitation.

Plans for the relief of radicals now in the hands of the Government authorities have been placed in control of the Workers' Defense Union. Co-operating with this central organization are the National Civil Liberties Bureau, the Communist Party, the Communist Labor Party, the Political Amnesty League, and the Russian Red Cross organization. It was decided yesterday to pool the financial resources of all organizations to provide the fee for a lawyer of national prominence. The objects of the consolidation as stated yesterday are:

1. To collect funds and supplies to clothe those detained on Ellis Island, the fund to be extended to provide for new arrivals.

2. To provide legal aid for those who want to fight deportation. This will include the collecting and furnishing of bail. It is pointed out that only Liberty Bonds can be used as bail in these cases.

At a meeting held in the afternoon a Comforts Committee was elected, with Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Eleanor Fitzgerald, and Mary Marfdin on it. A Legal Committee was chosen, to consist of Roger N. Baldwin and Simon Schachter. Among those at the meeting were Harry Winitsky and Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, representing the Communist Party; Miss Flynn, Fred Biedenkapp, and Schachter for the Workers' Defense Union; Roger Baldwin for the National Civil Liberties Bureau, M. E. Fitzgerald, representing the Political Amnesty League, and Harry Weinberger, attorney at 261 Broadway, appearing for the deportees.

In his interview, Senator Lusk said:

"More than 20 000 alien enemies in the Communist Party of New York State alone are openly organized for the overthrow of the Government by force and violence under the direction of Bolshevist leaders in Russia. In addition to these there are the Communist Labor Party and other revolutionary organizations working actively to accomplish the same ends, as well as many other bodies which agree with their principles and encourage their activities without participating openly in them.

"The arrests already made in this State on the charge of criminal anarchy and for deportation hardly scratch the surface of the situation. There are revolutionary organizations throughout all parts of the State. These organizations have been permitted to reach such proportions that, in my opinion, the only way that they can be destroyed is for the loyal citizens in each community to perfect such organization as is necessary and co-operate with the Federal, State and local authorities in uncovering and prosecuting these traitors on much the same lines as they organized and worked during the war to uncover and apprehend traitors and gave their support to the Government in that crisis.

"The raids in this city on Saturday night," he continued, "on the radical newspapers, The Communist World, Der Kampf and Robitnik, struck at the very fountain head of Communism. It was through these lurid sheets that the leaders of Communism attempted to gain converts and spread their doctrines of class struggle and revolution.

Senator Lusk asserted that millions of men and women in various parts of Europe engaged in anarchy and revolution against all Governments were communicating with their relatives and friends in America who were being converted to practice similar tactics here.

Summing up the results of the committee's raids up-State, he said:

"In addition to the material seized, upward of sixty prisoners were taken and held on the charge of criminal anarchy. A very large quantity of radical, incendiary and obscene literature was taken. The raid made in Buffalo, Rochester and Utica were simply a continuation of the raids made by the police, State troopers and representatives of the committee in New York City."

There was a cinema disturbance at Ellis Island when Government men tried to get the luncheon scene. Forty-nine reds were assauling the Island's substantial bill of fare when the camera started to click. With yells of anger the reds charged the movie men. They were getting a fine close-up of a Petrograd mob scene when a woman red's right fist landed on one of the movie men's eyes. Five Department of Justice men hurried to the rescue, and quiet was restored until the soup was served. Commissioner Uhl warned the reds that any more of that spirit would result in restrictive measures.

Three men who were arrested on Federal warrants in the Bronx were taken to Police Headquarters early this morning. They described themselves as Morris Snitzsky of 1,488 Vyse Avenue, Edward Rosenfeld of 1,711 Hoe Avenue and Jacob B. Aronoff of 614 Coster Street, all of the Bronx. The three men will be taken to the Department of Justice offices this morning.

WILLING TO BE DEPORTED.

400 New England Radicals Agree to Go to Russia.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The 400 alleged radicals gathered in Federal raids in New England last week gave voice today to their desire to accept deportation without a legal battle. Meeting in the yard of the House of Correction at Deer Island, where they are being held, they discussed their plight and then, with cries of "Long Live the Soviet," agreed to go to "free Russia," described by one of their spokesmen as the "land of true liberty."

Kaplan, a leader in the last Lawrence textile strike, said the prisoners would demand that they go as political prisoners, in care of the Russian Ambassador, and be transported in Russian ships, preferably with the red flag flying.

"There are eighty ships ready to come here for us," he said.

$1,000,000 TO DEPORT REDS

Commissioner of Immigration Asks for Special Grant to Take Care of Army Rounded Up.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—A deficiency appropriation of $1,000,000 to care for the deportation of dangerous radicals taken in the country-wide campaign against those Reds has been asked of the House by immigration officials, it was learned today. Anthony Caminetti, Commissioner of Immigration, appeared before the Appropriations Committee to urge early action, in order to enable the Bureau to employ additional Inspectors and other employes to care for the greatly increased number of suspects.

The proposed fund of $1,000,000 is included in a total of $1,450,000 which the Immigration Bureau asked for. The total fund is distributed over the following items: For regular immigration cases $300,000, for enforcement of deportation of anarchists $1,000,000, for deportation of ordinary alien cases outside of those arrested in the campaign against the "reds" $150,000. The fund of $1,000,000 is expected to carry the special deportation work up to July 1.

Representative George S. Graham, author of the Sedition bill, prepared by a sub-committee of the House Judiciary Committee, today amended the bill in Section 1 so as to make certain that treason therein defined did not go beyond the constitutional definition of treason. This was the only change made and the bill was reported to the full committee.

The Judiciary Committee will meet on Thursday and promptly report the bill. Every effort will be made to rush the measure through the House while the agitation against the Reds is at its height. Another reason is the inadequacy of the present laws, which prevent the Department of Justice proceeding against the so-called "parlor socialists."

Santeri Nuorteva, "Secretary of the Russian Soviet Government Bureau," declared tonight that Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, the so-called "Soviet Ambassador to the United States," was hiding in Washington. While Nuorteva was making this statement on the second floor of a hotel, agents of the Department of Justice sat waiting in the lobby. It is expected that Martens will soon be arrested and held subject to deportation proceedings.

In a defiant and bitter statement Nuorteva asserted that "the frantic man-hunt" carried on by the Department of Justice was an attempt to prevent peace with Soviet Russia, and to keep Martens and Nuorteva, from appearing before the sub-committee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Friday. Nuorteva, who is a Finn, accused "official forces" of trying to suppress "the truth about Russia."

He said that if afforded an opportunity to appear before the sub-committee, which will investigate Bolshevist activities in the United States, he and Martens could refute entirely "the hysterical lies" told about their work in this country. At the same time, he charged that Government officials here feared an expose of the Bakhmeteff Embassy, which he said had "squandered $30,000,000" loaned by the American Government.

Direct charges were made by Nuorteva that Department of Justice agents had become "agents provocateurs," and that in this capacity the Department of Justice detectives had even gone to the extent of having planks inserted in the Communist Party platform so that that organization could be prosecuted. Nuorteva said he "could prove" this to the Senate sub-committee.

Further, he charged that American Secret Service men had helped to "plant" what he called "celebrated bomb plots." Nuorteva again swore he was ready to prove this, and added that some officials were anxious to keep "these facts" from being known.

Following the presentation of his prepared statement to newspaper men, Nuorteva submitted to a lengthy interview, in which he reiterated his accusation and touched on other aspects. In the course of his talk he denied that the Soviet representatives had conferred with the representatives of "Free Ireland" now in this city, including Eamonn de Valera, who speaks here tomorrow night.

"The whole situation is this," said Nuorteva. "It is the chief desire of Mr. Martens and myself to appear before the Senate sub-committee. If the Department of Justice arrests us before that opportunity is afforded, we cannot appear. I am ready for anything. We do not object to going back to Russia. If this Government does not want us, all it has to do is say the word, and send us away."

Announcement was made today by the Department of Labor that Ellis Island would be large enough to hold aliens detained for deportation if all of the space on the island could be used. The announcement disposes of the idea that army camps such as Camp Upton would be required.

Officials of the Department of Justice tonight denounced as "an unqualified lie" the statement by Nuorteva that the department intended to try to prevent the appearance of Martens and Nuorteva before the Senate sub-committee.

The statement issued by Nuorteva was said to be an attempt to gain publicity, and to place the two men in the attitude of martyrs. It was said that such statements would neither "stop nor delay" the department in making prosecutions of radicals in this country.

ASSAILS AMERICAN REDS.

Gov. Sproul Would Give Them "More Notoriety Than They Desire."

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—Governor Sproul, speaking at the annual dinner of the Philadelphia group of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association here tonight, said he was in full accord with Attorney General Palmer in undertaking "the most complete and comprehensive effort in the history of the Republic to rid the nation of its enemies" and in letting all know that the "national organization is not a helpless governmental jellyfish which cannot defend itself against the parasites who would destroy it."

"There are right here in this neighborhood," the Governor said, "some people of old American stock whose mental perversion takes the shape of encouraging enemies of the republic. These social prunes, wind dried and heat wrinkled, have taken up these doctrines as a fad and with the hope of acquiring some sort of notoriety as a part of the revolutionary cult. If the District Attorneys of the State will do their full duty they will get more notoriety than they desire.

"But strong as our feeling may be in this direction, we must not talk recklessly or inconsiderately of conditions about us. It will not do to call every man a 'Red' who wants to better his social condition and that of his family and who asks for higher wages and better working conditions."

AMNESTY PARADER ATTACKS HIRSHFIELD

WITNESSES BLAME POLICE

Deny That Fifth Avenue "Walk" Was for Reds, but Was for "Political" Prisoners.

A public hearing into the breaking up by the police of the "amnesty" parade up Fifth Avenue on Christmas morning was begun yesterday by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, by order of the Mayor.

Miss Fannie Witherspoon, one of the leaders of the League for Amnesty of Political Prisoners, the organization that put on the walk, characterized Commissioner Hirshfield's manner as "most unpleasant," and said that "at times he adopted the tactics of a bully."

The witnesses called were Miss Witherspoon, Joseph Stein of 359 Seventy-ninth Street, Brooklyn real estate dealer; Miss Tracy Dickinson Mygatt of 23 Bank Street, a playwright; Arthur S. Leeds, a silk merchant, and the Rev. Clarence V. Howell of 304 East Forty-second Street, a Methodist Episcopal clergyman, and the flag bearer of the "walk."

How the parade started at the Church of the Ascension was told by Miss Witherspoon. At Twenty-sixth Street and Sixth Avenue Miss Witherspoon said three policemen came out and waved their arms.

"Take that damned thing off," she said one of them remarked to Miss Mygatt, indicating the placard she carried.

Miss Witherspoon said the placardeer protested and the policemen, who "were enormously tall," then "very roughly and rudely tore the placard off."

The witness said that the purpose of the demonstration has been to protest against the further incarceration of "political prisoners," and when Hirshfield pressed here as to what she meant by "political prisoners" she said prisoners who had been convicted of violations of the selective service law and the Espionage Act, including Eugene V. Debs, Kate Richards O'Hare, and Rose Pastor Stokes.

One of the first things the Commissioner sought to get from Mr. Stein was his opinion with regard to the Red deportations. Mr. Stein declined to answer these questions on the ground that they were not relevant. During Stein's examination several of the walkers protested against the line of questioning. Miss Witherspoon and Alice Riggs Hunt leading the objectors. Commissioner Hirshfield replied that he had a right to inquire into the motives of the walkers and also as to their personal opinions in order to ascertain whether they held opinions which might affect any recommendations which he would be likely to make.

Miss Mygatt, in outlining the reasons for the walk, denied that the league had staged the affair in the interest of Reds, or that the organization had anything to do with radicals of that type.

Atwood C. Wolff, an attorney of 605 Newark Avenue, Jersey City, appeared at the hearing and declared that he was an ex-soldier and was present to testify as a witness against the walkers, if called.

After Hirshfield had adjourned the hearing until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning Miss Witherspoon sent a letter to the Mayor, protesting against what she termed the Commissioner's action in "holding a star chamber inquiry into the private views of witnesses and indulging upon quizzing them on all manners of irrelevant matters."

In a subsequent statement the league accused the Commissioner of wasting time at the inquiry "by making long speeches himself about Bolshevism and the revolutionary movement, which he interspersed with personal criticism on the courage and intelligence of the persons before him." In conclusion, the league stated that "if the Commissioner persists in his present attitude we shall simply withdraw from the hearing and denounce the whole affair as a piece of official bad faith."

BERGER 'DEPORTED' FROM JERSEY CITY

torsby got in with the driver, took the wheel and piloted the car to the Lackawanna ferryhouse. A Cortlandt Street boat was just ready to depart, and the Socialists were put aboard and back to Manhattan they went with Battersby staying around until the ferryboat cleared the slip.

Mr. Schwarting, who had been scheduled to preside, declared last night that he would start proceedings against the city officials for their action.

Arriving at the Hotel McAlpin Mr. Berger made this statement:

"I shall sue the Chief of Police of Jersey City to find out if the Constitution of the United States still exists in Jersey City—or whatever there is left of it, as it has been pretty nearly abolished during the war. What are things coming to? What is this new freedom President Wilson has brought us?

"The action of the police was absolutely unwarranted. I, of course, made no effort to resist arrest. I asked him what authority he had for his actions and he answered: 'I don't need any authority.' He had a lot of cops around, whereas I only had two gentlemen with me. I saw that it would have been quite useless for me to oppose his numbers and make any effort to defend my rights. I shall most certainly bring suit, and do so tomorrow morning."

TO HEAR BERGER NEXT MONTH.

Haywood's Case Put Over—Grand Jury Investigates His Bondsman.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Hearing of the appeal of Victor Berger, convicted of interfering with the draft, was set today by the Circuit Court of Appeals for Feb. 19.

The cases of William D. Haywood and fifteen of his I. W. W. followers, convicted of seditious conspiracy, were continued until next week. The release of Haywood after his arrest in the radical roundup has turned the attention of the special Grand Jury investigating radicals here to William Bross Lloyd, millionaire Socialist of Evanston, who furnished the bond for the I. W. W. leader when he was released from Leavenworth and again yesterday. Lloyd, who is Sergeant at Arms of the Communist Party, is said to have boasted that he belonged to the "reddest of the reds."

Several newspaper men who have interviewed Lloyd were called before the Grand Jury today.

RELEASE RAFAEL MALLEN.

Officials at Chicago Say They Have Nothing Against Him.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—While plans were being made today to begin hearings in deportation proceedings against 224 radicals before an Immigration Inspector tomorrow, the Department of Justice officials released Rafael Mallen, formerly a statistician for the Federal Trade Commission, who was arrested last night. Mallen received virtually a clean bill and it was denied that the Government had sought his arrest.

John R. Creighton, Special Assistant Attorney General, gave out a statement, saying that the Government had no evidence that Mallen belonged to any radical organization and that "it appeared to be questionable whether he is not an American citizen, as he appears to have been born in the City of New York."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Federal Trade Commission tonight issued this statement:

"Rafael Mallen, mentioned in press dispatches from Chicago, is not now an employe of the Federal Trade Commission. He has not been in the employ of the Federal Trade Commission for about a year. He was not employed as a statistician, but as a minor clerk whose services were obtained by the commission in strict accordance with the rules for employing clerks in the Government service."

your army has encouraged us greatly as we were in a difficult position, owing to the collapse of the Don Cossacks—Eighth Don Corps—in our centre. The enemy outnumber us very greatly, and though Kuban and Terek volunteer Cossacks are fighting well, they are very tired, and need rest. The Caucasus, too, is not quiet, and Georgia has begun hostile action against us.

"But we still remain convinced of final victory, and have had considerable success at various points, destroyed several enemy regiments belonging to the Bachmut group, taken over forty guns, &c. On the whole front, except for the Don Cossacks, we are doing pretty well.

"The rear is beneath all criticism. The routine and bureaucracy are worse than the old régime and there is a great number of Generals who obstruct everything. There is no strong control, which is most needed, no leading hand, but a policy weak and wabbly. My friend—who carries this letter will tell you all about it, as it is inconvenient to put it on paper.

"Envy and jealousy play a great part. The people whom we knew at headquarters (presumably the old Russian General Staff) are just the same as of old. They have learned nothing from the ruins of our poor Russia. In the full sense of the word the old régime is re-established. It is just a hasty renovation of the old machine with the clumsy addition of weak support. No one cares a thing about the new—nay, they fear to think of it.

"With regard to our 'noble Allies,' only the British remain faithful to us. The French are a gang of Jewish Freemasons, occupied only in speculation, and have at all times delayed the work of restoring Russia. Their detachments in Russia were quite disorganized. I will tell you about their disgraceful flight from Odessa to Sebastopol.

"You must cross the Volga as soon as possible to relieve the pressure on us and the Poles. Try to push forward and take Saratow—this would set things right in the Don district, and we could advance with you. I feel deeply convinced that the light of Russia's new freedom won't come from the south—that is Denikin—but from the east—that is Kolchak. What is needed is a strong régime and determined authority, not playing with words. In politics we are either with the people or against them, either a monarchy or a republic, either a dictatorship or a constituent assembly. God knows what it all means. We are a problem not only for foreigners but for ourselves.

"I believe there is no such routine and bureaucracy with you as with us. You are fortunate. Don't use old forces but fresh, new forces; not only in a military but a civil sense. Most of the people I meet here have great faith in Kolchak as future Governor of all Russia. Denikin doubtless acknowledges him, but there are strong and weak spirits.

"I write this in secret, Dear ——. It must remain confidential."

Start of the Battle for Dvinsk.

January 4 (delayed).—Yesterday was the anniversary of the day whereon the Bolsheviki occupied Riga. The town that had been seething with the most absurd rumors for weeks was almost in a state of panic. The day before allied planes had flown over the main streets and in the evening there were anxious groups asking each other whether they had seen the Bolshevist airplanes.

But on the front it was very different. A few hours before dawn the Lettish Army attacked the Bolsheviki on the southern half of their line—the active zone being about forty kilometers long. The action—whose secret had been wonderfully well kept—was very successful, and the latest telegrams received by headquarters indicate that all objectives were reached on schedule time and the ultimate objectives were within sight.

It is a startling sequel to the signing of the armistice by the Esthonians, and may well make those crafty people wonder whether they were playing the right game after all.

In a dispatch a few weeks ago I referred to the plan of a high Lettish officer for gradual occupation of enemy territory coupled with good civil administration. This is just what is being in practice now on a small scale. It is no secret that the purpose of the whole movement is the freeing of the Lettish Province of Letgalen from Bolshevist rule. But yesterday's attack was only concerned with the sector near the town of Dvinsk. Already a Lettish barrister has been appointed to act as adviser to the Letgalen native who has been appointed Governor for the just occupied region. This administration will be just and democratic, and will be independent of the military as far as possible. Later a similar line will be followed regarding the rest of Letgalen.

If these tactics succeed it will be a valuable lesson to the Allies as indicating to them a much better method than that previously followed with the reactionary Russian generals.

Led by British Colonel.

I am in receipt of the following information regarding the battle. The front of the attack was along the River Dvina. On the right the Baltic Landswehr, under command of the English colonel, E. R. Alexander, were holding a twenty-five mile line on the eastern bank of the river. The Lettish Ninth Regiment, under Colonel Bolstein—a force which had just been rushed up from the German front—formed the center with other Lettish troops on the left. Both the latter bodies were on the western side of the river which they passed across the ice under cover of darkness. The zone of attack was from the extreme right at a point some ten miles north of Dvinsk to the extreme left of the Landswehr, forty miles farther north.

At Dvinsk the Dvina makes a sharp bend directly eastward. This line was held by Poles, who without directly cooperating made a demonstration in support. The Letts preferred to drive north of Dvinsk so as to cut it off in the bend of the river rather than assault directly, as the town was strongly held.

The Landswehr, who are first-class troops, under one of the finest leaders the great war produced, had by noon yesterday crossed the marshes and occupied a line of Red villages along the river Dulna, which was their ultimate objective. Having held the front for three months, they knew the ground thoroughly. I have already mentioned their daily raids, which have given the most valuable information and weakened the enemy morale, and their advance was accomplished with trifling casualties, the enemy being taken by surprise.

The Lettish performance was even more meritorious, as the troops newly brought up from the German front were unfamiliar with the ground, but by 8 o'clock yesterday morning they had captured a line of villages along the railroad north of Dvinsk, smashed a Red armored train sent out against them and taken several hundred prisoners and much material.

They crossed the river in the inky darkness of early morning, rapidly cleaned up the Red posts on the further bank, and moved at dawn to attack the batteries covering the railroad. These were rushed with great rapidity, despite a heavy though inaccurate fire of the Reds. Two counterattacks were disposed of with equal ease, and the railroad was crossed. The advance is continuing toward the River Dulna, their ultimate objective, which, running southeastward is ten or twelve miles further behind the Red front than in the north.

Of course this is but a small affair from the military standpoint, but its moral importance is very great. To begin with, it is the first setback the Reds have had for a long time. Secondly, it gives the lie to rumors of an advance on Riga which were being circulated with the added statement, equally false, that the Lettish troops could not be relied upon against the Reds. Finally, it marks the beginning of an experiment which may point out to the Allies a better way of solving the Russian problem than by the employment of reactionary Russian armies.

If the Letts alone can administer Letgalen successfully, how much more could allied administrators govern such Soviet territory as might be occupied in a big advance.

Bolsheviki Admit Defeat.

LONDON, Jan. 6 (Associated Press).—The Bolshevist army has evacuated the city of Dvinsk, on the Dvina, it is admitted in a Russian Soviet communique received by wireless from Moscow today. The place was abandoned under enemy pressure, the statement says.

The Latvian and Polish armies which are engaged in the campaign in this front continued yesterday their advance along the Pskov railway after the capture of Dvinsk, according to official advices to the Lettish Legation here.

It is expected to open rail communications at once between Riga and Dvinsk, and it was stated at the legation that the first train from Riga to Dvinsk would probably leave Riga today, thus establishing direct communications with Poland.

The population of Dvinsk, the advices state, enthusiastically welcomed the occupying troops.

PORT OF MARIUPOL TAKEN BY BOLSHEVIKI

Panic in Odessa as the Red Forces Draw Near—People Flee in Ships.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The Bolsheviki have captured the port of Mariupol, on the Sea of Azov, in the Government of Ekaterinoslav, sixty-three miles west of Taganrog.

A Bolshevist communication, dated Tuesday and received here this evening, says:

"In the Vinnitsa (Government of Podolia) region we have occupied the towns of Litten, Vinnitsa and Lipavels. In the direction of Kherson we have occupied the station and district of Platikhatki. In the direction of Meditopol (Government of Taurida) we have taken the town of Alexandrovsk.

"We have captured Mariupol (Government of Ekaterinoslav), with large quantities of booty. The enemy fled, partly on steamers and partly along the coast.

"In the direction of Novocherkassk (Province of the Don Cossacks) we have broken the enemy's resistance, and continue to advance successfully to the Tsaritsn region. We have taken Sarepta and a number of villages from ten to thirty-five versts south thereof."

Panic exists among the bourgeoisie of Odessa owing to the approach of the Bolshevist army, according to another statement from the Soviet Government at Moscow. Large numbers are leaving for Constantinople and enormous prices are being paid for passage on steamers.

ADMIRAL BAKHIMEFF SHOT.

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—The Russian newspaper Prisyne, a copy of which has been received here, contains a report of the execution of Admiral Bakhimeff, who fought brilliantly against the German fleet in 1917. The Admiral, says the newspaper, was accused of plotting against the Soviet Government.

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS CAUTIOUS IN CHICAGO

Careful Not to Commit Themselves Prematurely to Any Presidential Boom.

EXPERTS ADVISE WOMEN

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Republican politics, so far as White House candidacies go, is in a state of flux. The party leaders who attended the two-day conference here showed a disinclination to line up. They trooped from Lowden's headquarters to Wood's suite and thence to Senator Harding's advance post, scattering sunshine for one and all, few making commitments.

Behind the scenes some of the observers in the party epitomized the situation thus:

The probability is that no candidate will go into the convention with a majority of the votes. Most of the delegates from strong Republican States with no favorite sons will be uninstructed, and the ticket will be named by the convention itself.

The leaders in general are talking of main requirements in the candidate picked. First, that he be enough of a politician to go along with the party, meaning patronage recognition, &c.; second, that he have enough experience in government to exert a strong hand on Congress and to put through a reconstruction program.

The leaders frankly say that the trouble with the present Republican Congress is lack of leadership within and propulsive force from without. They say the candidates will have to show their qualifications as leaders, and for the present the politicians will lean back and look them over.

At Wood headquarters it was stated that Speaker Gillett had pledged his support to the General. The Speaker will probably be a delegate to large from Massachusetts, and there were intimations that his action had embarrassed the Coolidge movement. But it did not abate the smile of James B. Reynolds, the Coolidge manager.

Some States are ready to follow the lead of Wisconsin, where it has been decided to choose an uninstructed delegation. Governor Phillipp is to run for a fourth term instead of looking for the Vice Presidency. Senator Lenroot is to be opposed again at the primaries by Thompson, the La Follette entry.

In Indiana Governor Goodrich is to be "favorite son" seeker for the Presidency, while Senator Watson is to run for a renomination. Hoosier leaders say that Goodrich is to come out mainly with the view of keeping other candidates from coming in. This will keep the delegation from being split, which will simplify matters when the critical moment comes.

As the leaders who attended the conference seem to view it, the candidates are running at present in the following order: Lowden, Wood, Harding.

On the surface they say, there is more talk for Wood than for the others, but the elements which are lined up with Lowden are held to be perhaps more influential, which gives him a slight lead.

Training Women for the Campaign.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (Associated Press).—Questions and answers were the order at the closing session today of the conference of Republican women from fourteen States of the Middle West. Delegates started for their homes tonight, primed, according to leaders, with information on how to make a Democratic editor print Republican propaganda, how to persuade individuals dissatisfied with primary results to work for straight ticket voting, how to hire halls, introduce and accommodate visiting speakers, collect campaign funds and canvass precincts.

These and many related problems of the professional politician were explained to the women by party experts from the National Committee and from the women's division of the organization. Talks were given on the topics at the morning session, and in the afternoon the experts occupied cosy corners and opened the question boxes for the delegates.

SYRACUSE MAN FOR WOOD.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 6.—George W. Sisson, Jr., of Potsdam, N. Y., Republican leader in Northern New York and President of the American Paper and Pulp Association, today issued a statement declaring in favor of General Leonard Wood as the Republican standard bearer. Sisson says:

"Events during the last two years have been demonstrating the absolute necessity of men of his [Wood's] type to help put the country on a sane and healthy basis.

Day dinner here on Thursday, the program to be followed with respect to the next proposals, if the President does not make all negotiations useless by demanding unqualified ratification, is for the mild reservationists to meet and pass judgment on the proposals, making revisions which they consider essential, and submitting their counterproposals to the antibors.

It is planned that if the exchange of proposals brings the mild reservationists and the group of Democrats to common ground, the Democratic sponsors of the plan are to canvass their own party to learn exactly how many votes can be mustered.

When this information has been obtained the reservationists expect to present the compromise program as worked out to Senator Lodge and ask him to approve it, informing him at the same time how many votes they have.

Should forty-four Democrats in the end be won to some plan to which the mild reservationists could agree, a total of fifty-six votes could be counted for the plan, Senators said, including in that number twelve mild reservationists. That would leave them eight votes short of the sixty-four needed to ratify, and it is conceded that Mr. Lodge holds those eight votes.

One of the chief reasons why they are not oversanguine is the reported connection of Mr. Bryan with the new plan. Democratic Senators today stated frankly that they would not accept Mr. Bryan's leadership, nor help him to gain the leadership of the party. They rather bitterly characterized his recent activity as an attempt to seize the party scepter from Mr. Wilson, and said that no compromise plan in which he was concerned would be accepted. These Senators intimated that they believed a Bryan compromise would be doomed to rejection at the White House, even if the Senate should adopt it.

Mr. Bryan is known to be more ardently in favor of ratification with almost any set of reservations than any Democratic Senator is. Former Governor Folk of Missouri, who was the host recently at a dinner to Mr. Bryan here, told both Republican and Democratic Senators afterward that Mr. Bryan said at the dinner that the treaty must be ratified, with mild reservations if possible, but with the Lodge reservations if nothing better could be obtained.

Mr. Underwood, learning that a new movement was afoot, agreed to withhold for the present his resolution creating a conciliation committee, but stated that if the hopes of the compromisers did not ripen within a few days he would call up the measure. He indicated that the end of the present week should be long enough for the negotiators to show whether they could get results or not.

Senator King, who has written a set of reservations, sought today to gain the support of Senator Lodge for them. Mr. King also asked Senator McNary to consider a revised version of his reservations, which in their original form Senator McNary said he could not approve.

Commenting today on Governor Frank O. Lowden's reply to his letter, Senator Borah said that Mr. Lowden would have to change his views somewhat:

BLOCKS FOURTH MARRIAGE.

Court Orders Mrs. Iring's Third Divorce Decree Set Aside.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 6.—A court order yesterday blocked the fourth matrimonial venture of Mrs. Ora Iring, a beautiful Louisville woman, aged 27, three times divorced, and now the fiancée of O. W. Boner, a wealthy New York manufacturer and clubman.

Judge Kirby, after hearing a report that after obtaining a divorce last Saturday from Walter A. Iring, President of a transfer company, she intended at once to wed Boner, ordered the County Attorney to investigate the three decrees of divorce obtained by Mrs. Iring. When it was shown to the court that the third decree had been obtained on grounds of cruelty, the same basis as her first divorce, he ordered the decrees of Saturday set aside, as Kentucky statutes did not permit a second divorce on the same charge.

Mrs. Iring's attorney at once wired her in New York, where she has been living several months, to forestall her marriage plans. It is said Mrs. Iring and Mr. Bonner, who is President of a milk powder concern, met at Churchill Downs, the famous Louisville race course.

URGE THAT WALLACE SIT WITH PREMIERS

Allies Want Him to Represent America in the Coming Conference.

HE HAS NO INSTRUCTIONS

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—In response to a question Ambassador Wallace told me this afternoon that h ehad received no instructions from Washington as to whether or not he should participate in the diplomatic conference which will begin in Paris Monday. This conference will meet to consider the Turkey treaty, the Russian situation and the Adriatic problems.

It is the wish of Premier Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Nitti that America participate in these conferences as fully as she feels justified in doing. Since the departure of Frank L. Polk and the rest of the American peace delegation Ambassador Wallace has attended the Supreme Council meetings as a sort of spectator, referring to Washington all questions on which the Allies wished America's approval. He undertook this duty on express instructions from Washington, and he believes that those instructions did not cover the meetings which will take place here next week. He hopes for explicit instructions from the State Department before Monday.

Allied diplomats are frank these days in expressing their belief that the present rôle of America in the allied councils is unsatisfactory. It is remarked that there is some inconsistency in America's occupying a position where her approval is essential to many conclusions, but where her plenipotentiary has no power of action, even in details.

As illustrating this alleged inconsistency, it is pointed out that Mr. Wallace has been present at the recent discussions as to arranging the details of the signing of the protocol, and from time to time the opinion of the American Government has been sought. However, when the signing of the protocol takes place Mr. Wallace will not attend the ceremony because America has not ratified the treaty.

The Allies hold that America's concurrence must be had in all three of the big questions confronting the conference which will start next week. It is obvious, these diplomats say, that America must agree to whatever Adriatic settlement is made. The Turkish treaty, too, cannot be drawn unless it suits America, and America's agreement, they believe, is essential to the success of any Russian policy which may be formulated. They hope that Washington will empower Mr. Wallace to sit at these meetings as the exponent of a definite policy on all three questions.

They point out that Mr. Polk, while not possessing full powers, had an Adriatic policy laid down for him and was able to negotiate on this basis, without referring every detail to Washington. So, they said, America could formulate a Russian policy and a Turkish policy and have Mr. Wallace negotiate on the basis of these policies, leaving him free to consult Washington on proposed settlements which might conflict with the American policies.

Should Washington not follow this path, they hope that Mr. Wallace or some other plenipotentiary will be authorized to attend the conferences in order to keep Washington informed of what is being done. Otherwise they fear it will be difficult to be sure of acting always in a manner that will meet the desires of the Washington Government.

Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President, will sit at the Washington board throughout the evening.

Outside of the message from President Wilson to be read at the dinner the greatest interest is manifested in the remarks of Mr. Bryan. It is being said in Washington that Mr. Bryan intends to cast his hat into the Presidential ring again, and his speech may therefore be looked upon as of the variety designated as "keynote."

Some persons arriving in Washington from the West say they have every reason to believe that Mr. Bryan intends to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination. Talk of this character is responsible to a considerable extent for the great demand for tickets for the double dinner.

Chairman Cummins expressed some views today in regard to the Republican accusation that the Democratic National Committee was endeavoring to raise a fund of $10,000,000 for this year's Presidential campaign.

"A statement of that kind," he said, "is a form of political hypocrisy that comes with poor grace from a party that has always had more money than we have had for campaign purposes. Its National Committee has always had more than our National Committee, its State Committees have had more than our State Committees and it has had funds from many sources in addition.

Mr. Cummings said that the primary business to be transacted by the committee would be to fix the time and place for holding the Democratic National Convention, and he indicated that beyond that little of importance would be done. That an effort will be made to have the committee recommend abrogation of the rule requiring a two-thirds vote to nominate a candidate for President is certain, but nothing has come to light so far to show that it is obtaining substantial support.

Rumor of Clash on Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (Associated Press).—As William J. Bryan has been quoted recently as urging at a meeting here with several Democratic Senators that the Peace Treaty be ratified promptly with compromise reservations, it is believed, in some quarters that he will reiterate that stand Thursday night. There are committeemen who believe that the President, on the other hand, may ask in his message that the party go before the country on a platform for unreserved ratification. The possibilities of the situation that might thus be developed were widely and eagerly discussed today by those who had arrived for the big party gathering.

cally American to say there isn't room anywhere in these United States for any one who preaches the destruction of the Government which is within the Constitution.

"This patriotically, if not divinely, inspired fundamental law fits every real American citizen, and the man who can not fit himself to it is not fit for American citizenship."

From resident foreigners he demanded renounced allegiance and faithful citizenship, and went on:

"But we must not accept the overwrought impression that the assault on stable American Government is chargeable wholly and mainly to those of foreign birth who have not sworn American allegiance. The worst disloyalists and most effective conspirators wear the garb of full-fledged American citizenship, and many of them inherited American opportunity at their birth, and turned liberty into license. The ignorant foreigner is more a victim than a conspirator, because he has heard the gospel of revolution when no one preached the blessings of orderly government and the rewards of American opportunity.

"There were exceptions to this crime of negligence, but in most instances the Americans who invited and enlisted foreign activities to swell the man power of industry have neglected to teach the American language, failed to utter American sympathies, forgot to extend American fellowship, and omitted the revealment of the loftier ideals of American citizenship. The grind of the workshop alone is poor culture for that citizenship which makes the ideal republic.

"It is well enough to preach Americanism, and we ought. It is more important to practice it, and we must. In truth, my countrymen, we need practical Americanism in business as well as proclaimed Americanism in politics.

The Senator begged for normal thinking and declared we were slowly getting normal again, saying:

"Many have thought the ratification of the Peace Treaty and its League of Nations would make us normal, but that is the plea of the patent medicine faker whose one remedy marvelously will cure every ill. Undoubtedly formal peace will help, and I would gladly speed the day if we sacrifice nothing vitally American. Yet, as a matter of fact, actual peace prevails and commerce has resumed its wonted way. Normal thinking will help more. And normal living will have the effect of a magician's wand, paradoxical as the statement seems."

The American course is straight, he said, with liberty under the law. Nationalism he defined in these words:

"We do not mean to hold aloof, we choose no isolation, we shun no duty. I like to rejoice in an American conscience and in a big conception of our obligations to liberty, justice and civilization. Aye, and more, I like to think of Columbia's helping hand to new republics which are seeking the blessings portrayed in our example. But I have a confidence in our America that requires no council of foreign powers to point the way of American duty. We wish to counsel, co-operate and contribute, but we arrogate to ourselves the keeping of the American conscience and every concept of our moral obligations. It is fine to idealize, but it is very practical to make sure of our own house is in perfect order before we attempt the miracle of old-world stabilization."

President Butler began by explaining how the development of modern civilization has made the whole country interdependent, and said that this interdependence furnished temptation enough for small, organized groups, situated at strategic points, to agree to withdraw their co-operation, thus exerting such pressure as to compel political action.

"This," he said, "puts American ideals, politics and modes of thinking to a very severe test, for if the habit grows of using concentrated industrial power for the purpose of compelling a political result, America is gone. Thus our chief political problem is so to deal with out industrial problem in terms of Americanism that we shall prove able to resist this new attack and shall demonstrate a new and striking adaptation of our form of Government to changed conditions.

"If we cannot do this, then Government by majorities is finished, and Government by organized minorities has arrived. Say more, this will be succeeded by anarchy which will march straight forward to the pitfalls of hell.

"If America is to withstand this test, we must begin now to apply to our industrial problem modern methods of prevention as we shall not be called upon later to try a, perhaps, impossible cure after the damage is done.

"There is only one way to meet this problem.—We must meet it on its own ground, recognizing it as a problem of human beings, some working with their capital, some with their brains, and some with their hands. And we must see that all go forward under conditions of justice, fair dealing, humanity, and health. We have gone at least halfway when the industrial problem is thus envisaged.

"We cannot ask the American Government or the American people to meet and to confer on equal terms with either capital or labor, though they may so confer with each other; for the Government is always and everywhere supreme. When you yield that principle for the purpose of a temporary peace you are organizing a not distant war."

President Butler closed with a plea for co-operative development and for an era of thrift and work.

Job Hedges talked on American ideals.

FOR WOOD OR HOOVER.

Former Senator Flinn Speaks of Progressive Views.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 6.—General Wood or Herbert Hoover would be eminently satisfactory to the Progressives. Either of these men as candidate would attract practically every Progressive in the country, and would be elected without difficulty, in the opinion of former Senator William Flinn. Just before starting today for Arizona, where he has gone for a three months' rest, Mr. Flinn said:

"The prospects are very good for the election of a Republican president. Of this I am certain. The Progressives want to vote the Republican ticket and they will do it if the leaders of that party act with wisdom."

He added that the Progressives of Pennsylvania would not enter into an organized fight for delegates to the Republican National Convention.

BRYAN LEAGUE FOR GERARD.

Boom of Former Ambassador to be Launched Here Jan. 15.

The Bryan League of New York, which saw service in several Presidential campaigns and which suddenly became active a short time ago in the interest of Mr. Bryan's candidacy this year, switched over yesterday to James W. Gerard. The reason was not given, but it was said to foreshadow the refusal of President Wilson to run again, Mr. Gerard having announced that he would not be a candidate if the President was.

Frank H. Warder, Secretary of the Bryan League, announced that the League had come out for Mr. Gerard and said that the latter's boom would be launched here on Jan. 15 at a dinner at the Waldorf.

"The New York launching of the Presidential boom of former Ambassador James W. Gerard will be made," he said, "by Augustus Thomas before a representation of the oldest families of New York at the Waldorf-Astoria on Jan. 15. Former Supreme Court Justice Augustus Van Wyck will preside. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy and Bishop Charles Sumner Burch will be speakers. Norman E. Mack, New York Democratic National Committeeman, will be the guest of Judge Van Wyck."

The news that the Gerard boom is to be launched in New York City came as a complete surprise to both Augustus Thomas and Secretary Daniels. Mr. Thomas said the only dinner he was going to attend on Jan. 15 was the dinner of the Holland Society and that it had nothing to do with the Gerard candidacy. A dispatch from Washington quoted Secretary Daniels as saying that he had not received an invitation to the dinner and knew nothing about it.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 6.—According to the opinion of Dutch theatre directors the actors' strike in Amsterdam and Rotterdam, which has threatened to become serious, is unlikely to spread, although a few theatres in The Hague were closed last night.

The main grievances of the actors are low salaries, which sometimes are not more than $30 monthly; the regulation of the old age pension fund, and insufficient expense money allowed when touring.

NEGRO CONVICTED OF SLAYING MAID

BOROUGH'S QUICKEST CASE

Brother of Dead Girl Asks to be Permitted to Witness His Execution.

Frank J. Kelly, the negro on trial in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, before Justice Kapper and a jury for the murder of Miss Catherine Dunn, a maid in the home of Clarence Sperry Clark, 1,146 East Twenty-first Street, Brooklyn, on Dec. 13, was convicted last night of murder in the first degree. He will be sentenced Friday to be executed.

As Justice Kapper and District Attorney Harry Lewis, who prosecuted Kelly, were leaving the courtroom after the jury had retired, a young man approached the latter in the corridor of the court, and, extending his hand, profusely thanked the District Attorney for his ability in handling the case. He asked the District Attorney to grant him one favor, that he be given permission to be present when Kelly is put to death.

"Who are you?" asked the District Attorney in surprise.

"I am Joseph Dunn," the young man replied. "I am a brother of Catherine Dunn, who was murdered by this negro."

The District Attorney said later that he did not promise to grant young Dunn's request, as he did not have the power to issue permits of such a nature, but he said he would do his best to get him permission.

The conviction of Kelly marked the quickest handling of a murder case in the annals of the Brooklyn courts. The murder was committed on Dec. 13 and Kelly was arrested on Dec. 20. He was indicted on Dec. 30 and arraigned the next day. His trial was begun on Jan. 5, he was convicted on Jan. 6. He will be sentenced on Jan. 9, just twenty-seven days from the time of the murder.

Kelly took the conviction in the same smiling manner with which he faced trial. He grinned when the foreman of the jury announced the verdict and jested with the deputy sheriffs when he was led away to the Raymond Street Jail to await his appearance in court on Friday. The jury was out an hour and a half, but deliberated only ten minutes. It retired at 6 P. M. and when Justice Kapper returned from dinner at 7:30 he sent word to the jury room to see if the jury had reached a verdict. When he was informed it had the jury was brought into court.

Edward J. Reilly, who defended Kelly, sought to show, principally through a confession made by the latter, that he was under the influence of Emma Robinson, a negress under indictment for the same murder.

MEXICAN NEWS POINTS TO A NEW CIVIL WAR

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President Carranza's grip on the Government in Mexico has been demonstrated in the selection of the Standing Committee of the Mexican Congress, chosen to represent the legislative branch of the Government while Congress is not in session, when the Obregonistas were defeated by a vote of 131 to 92. Details of this action by Congress on the last day of its recent session reached Washington today through official channels. The situation is regarded as significant in showing the strength of Carranza's influence among the Pablistas, followers of Pablo Gonzalez, as well as among his own supporters.

It is regarded as significant also that Aguirre Berlongo, Minister of Government, in whose control the election machinery of the Government rests, declared recently in an interview that, because of the political situation, it was not regarded as expedient to call Congress in special session until after the elections. This is taken to mean, the advices say, that the Governmental machinery will be used to count Obregon out at the elections.

Developments of the last few days in Mexico, it is reported, are leading eminent Mexicans, not associated in politics with any faction, to believe that the elections next Summer will be followed, if not preceded, by a new revolution, for, according to the advices, it is considered certain that the Obregonistas, if they are counted out, will "take to the hills," whereas, it is also believed that, if Obregon were elected, the Pablistas and Carranzistas would unite in taking the field against the newly elected authorities.

Interest is displayed in official circles here in the news from Mexico received today, of the reception accorded the Japanese cruiser Yacumo, which reached Manzanillo, on the west coast of Mexico, on New Year's Day.

The Yacumo is commanded by Captain Usagawa, of the Japanese Navy, who was formerly a teacher of the present Emperor when he was Crown Prince. The Mexican officials and the Japanese colony in Mexico have extended unusual honors to Captain Usawaga and the officers of the ship, according to the advices, and the newspapers pay tribute to the Japanese Government and the visitors.

MEXICO SELF-SUPPORTING.

Cabrera Says She Needs Foreign Capital for New Industries.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 6.—Luis Cabrera, Secretary of Finance, stated today that reports that Mexico was looking for a loan to England had no foundation. Mexico, he said, was not trying to obtain money. With her present income Mexico was self-sustaining. The income for 1920 would be 200,000,000 pesos, with expenses of 170,000,000.

Reports of the last few months show the Federal stamp offices all exceeded their quota in stamps, and the Government is expecting a large increase in taxes this year.

What Mexico needs, said Señor Cabrera, was investments of foreign capital in the republic to start new industries.

FARE BOOST APPEAL READY.

Applications for Eight-Cent Rate to be Filed by Car Lines.

In accordance with directions in the memorandum of Federal Judge Mayer, Job E. Hedges, receiver of the New York Railways Company, Lindley M. Garrison, receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, and James R. Sheffield, trustee of the bankrupt Interborough Consolidated Corporation, the holding concern of the Interborough Rapid Transit, and the New York Railways Companies, have prepared applications to the Board of Estimate for a public hearing to consider the question of giving the companies temporary financial help. The applications are expected to be filed next Thursday.

In his memorandum Judge Mayer stated that fares might be increased to 8 cents until next June 30 by all transportation companies in the city. The applications, it was said, deal with only a few figures relating to underlying bonds and a few other forms of outstanding securities. What the companies are willing to surrender in return for an increased fare is set forth in the same detail as appeared in Judge Mayer's memorandum. It was pointed out by the court that the city was entitled to fair terms such as the surrender of perpetual franchises and the ultimate acquisition by the city of all of the traction properties.

Officials of railroad companies intimated yesterday that they had little hope that the Board of Estimate would agree to a temporary increase of fare. They said that companies in receiverships had enough money to pay expenses for the current quarter and that the need of more fare at once was less urgent than a few weeks ago. The Interborough Company has obtained $3,500,000, and the New York Railways has $300,000 in cash, it was said. The applicants for an increased fare would find the Board of Estimate cold, railroad officials believed.

EUROPE NOT IN NEED OF AID ASKED

import of silk stockings, perfume, and other non-essentials, they can procure their other imports or at least live until they do it on a business basis. Hungary could feed herself if Rumania would return the cattle and grain she abstracted last Summer.

"We are, therefore, left with Finland, Belgium, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Austria to consider. Austria is the sorest point in Europe and while she must be fed this Winter the Allies should be made to realize that any assistance from us is upon condition that she is free to make such political associations as will take her out of a perpetual poorhouse.

"Most European statesmen naturally desire to please their people by borrowing from our Government to revive prosperity over night, but to my mind the one essential thing for all these countries which cannot provide for themselves out of normal commerce is to feed their people over this Winter and defer immediate rehabilitation of this specialized industry until the world recovers sufficiently for them to secure commercial credits and private capital.

"In the food matter, the last five countries mentioned will take care of their agricultural and small town populations out of their crops of last year, leaving the crowded centres to be provided for, and these dozen or so large cities, including Italy's deficiency, affect populations aggregating, say, fifteen or twenty million people. Even these have some resources that, to my mind, are sufficient to take care of their food needs, except bread, together with milk for the children, and the most of the latter is being provided for by charity.

"Therefore the problem, from the point of view of action of our Government, outside the temporary deferring of interest, is reduced to helping out the bread supply of less than 5 per cent. of the population of Europe. This is only an echo of the job that our Government had to undertake in the year ended Aug. 1 last in saving Europe from famine. Therefore no such situation exists as that which confronted us last year at this time and there is no ground for hysteria on either side of the Atlantic.

"While restoration of last year's complete control of supplies in Europe might make things go smoother temporarily, it stifles initiative and does more damage than good.

"We withdrew from Europe at last harvest precisely for this reason—that Europe had to be impressed with the necessity to get back to work and ordinary business processes. The world needs to get away from the notion of governmental help, both internally and externally, and get back to work and to business."

NEW APPEAL BY PAISH.

He Tells Philadelphia Bankers Europe Needs Our Help.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—Sir George Paish made a new appeal to the American people here tonight to prevent a breakdown in foreign exchange and to extend permanent credit to Europe.

Addressing the Philadelphia group of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association, which was attended by many New York financiers, he said that he was in the United States as a private citizen to try to prevent a breakdown in exchange.

He asserted that if the exchange were permitted to break down and anarchy followed, a large part of Europe's population would starve.

He said that in order to "restart and restock Europe, it would take $10,000,000,000.

Fine Imported Shirtings

The first loomed since the war ended!

In our Custom Shirt Shop, we have just assembled from the other side an entirely new collection of fine custom shirtings which are the first to be loomed since the Armistice. During the War English and Scotch looms were virtually idle, and the French looms were destroyed by German vandalism, so that these new shirtings show the originality stimulated by a revival of production.

Come in and take their measure and let us take yours!

Our Custom Shirt Shop is under the direction of men who are expert in the mathematics of the tape, and our shirtmakers know all there is to know in tailoring fit, comfort, service, and fine workmanship into whatever fabrics come to their hands.

SEMENOFF'S ENVOY ASKS AMERICAN AID

"Send Us Machinery Instead of Machine Guns," Says Gen. Iogolevitch.

TELLS HOW TO CURB REDS

"Beat your swords into plowshares. Send us agricultural machinery instead of machine guns. Send us technical men instead of soldiers. Fight Bolshevism with democracy. Allay discontent with prosperity. Quell the disorders of idleness with the peace of occupation."

This is the epitome of the message brought yesterday to the American people by Surgeon General Michael A. Iogolevitch, the special envoy of General Semenoff, who is now in command of all the Kolchak forces in the Far East. The General arrived on Monday, having left Siberia a month ago. He is here, he says, to tell the American people and especially Government officials, the truth about Eastern Russia, to show them how they can bring democracy and peace to that unhappy country, and not lose all they send, money and lives, but to reap a rich return, materially in a wealth of raw products, and spiritually, in millions of sterling friends.

General Iogolevitch and General Semenoff are Cossacks, who are not numerically in the majority, General Iogolevitch points out, but he says they are the dominant people. They are very democratic, the General insists, and it is because they understand and appreciate the democracy of America that they appeal to this country to aid them in their stand against the Bolsheviki.

"In the first place," the General said yesterday, "let it be understood that there has been much misrepresentation of General Semenoff and of his relations to Admiral Kolchak. The former is a young man, only 29 years old, a brave officer who has been wounded several times while fighting against the Germans. He has won the highest honors and decorations from the old Government and when Kerensky was in power, he sent the General to Siberia to organize the various Mongol nationalities into fighting units. He has had his differences with Kolchak, but the misunderstanding no longer exists. It was provoked by jealous monarchist officers who did not get the power they thought they deserved.

"Kolchak now realizes that Semenoff is the one man who can lead the people, and while the Admiral remains administrative head of the Government, Semenoff commands all the armies.

"The country is rich beyond telling in resources, but the instruments for working them are lacking. So we say to you, 'Send us agricultural machinery and send us technical men, and not only will you be sending us peace along with it, but we shall return it to you manifold, in leather, wool, skin, hides, furs, and minerals, but, much more, we shall return it to you in friendship.'

AMERICAN ARTISTS PROTEST

French Excluded Ten Paintings Chosen for Luxembourg Exhibition.

A protest against the action of the French Administration of Fine Arts in withholding from exhibition last October in the Luxembourg Museum, Paris, certain paintings by American artists, will be sent to the French authorities, it was announced yesterday by William A. Coffin, President of the Committee for the American Art Exhibition at the Luxembourg Museum.

This action is the result of a letter of remonstrance sent to a committee member by seven of the ten artists whose pictures were excluded. A total of 125 paintings had been selected by the American committee for the exhibition in Paris and it was understood that all of them were to be hung in the Luxembourg Museum.

Mr. Coffin's opinion was that the scheduled paintings probably were not hung because they did not harmonize with the rest of the exhibition. However, he continued, he felt that a protest should be made, as it was alleged that discrimination had been practiced against a representative group of American artists. News of the exclusion was recently brought to the American committee by its General Secretary, E. T. Rosen, on his return from Paris.

THOMPSON ABUSES LEAGUE.

Chicago Mayor Calls It "Hellish Scheme" in Letter to Senators.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Declaring the League of Nations to be a "hellish scheme to deprive us of our freedom," Mayor William Hale Thompson today petitioned the Senate to declare that a state of peace exists without ratifying the Peace Treaty in its present form.

The Mayor's letter, mailed tonight to each member of the Senate, reads, in part:

"Approval of the League's Covenant would, in my opinion, not only undermine the sovereignty of the American people, but also involve the United States in un-American foreign entanglements, in shameless violation of the wise foreign policy established by President Washington.

"In my opinion, the Covenant of the League of Nations, with reservations, is equally as vicious and tyrannical as it is without reservations. Without reservations the Covenant of the League destroys American sovereignty in the open with one blow; with reservations the Covenant of the League destroys American sovereignty under cover, by piecemeal.

"I therefore respectfully petition you to give the people the opportunity which so rightfully belongs to them to vote on this un-American proposal."

START SHIP LINE WITH BAR.

New York and Milwaukee Interests Fit Fleet to Ply to Havana.

QUINCY, Mass., Jan. 6.—The installation of a bar, with the regulation brass and mahogany fittings, on the after deck of the former steamer South Haven, now being refitted here, disclosed today plans of New York and Milwaukee financial interests for a new fleet of fast steamers between Southern points and Havana, Cuba. Work on the steamer, which has been rechristened the City of Miami, is being pushed night and day in order that the vessel may be plying over its new route before the end of the month.

Before its purchase by the Navy Department for war service the South Haven was one of the steamers on the great lakes, where she was known as "The White Flier."

Another steamer purchased by the same interests is expected here soon, according to yard workmen. It is understood that about $300,000 will be spent on each vessel, and that they will maintain a night service from Miami to Havana.

Income Tax Made Easy

A firm of prominent lawyers have perfected the simplest, quickest and most easily understood method of calculating an income tax so far discovered. It is in the form of a little series of practical questions.

Any person whose time is worth taxing can save money by using it.

The method is embraced in "Made Easy" Questionnaires—No. 1, individual; No. 2, corporation (income tax); No. 3, corporation (excess profit tax). Whether you your auditor or your attorney make out your returns you'll find that with the "Made Easy" Questionnaire your report can be made out in half the time and the way is made plain on many money saving angles.

MAN'S DESPONDENCY COSTS THREE LIVES

Father Suicide by Gas, While Wife and Son Inhale Fumes in Sleep.

INFANT DAUGHTER SAVED

Five Other Gas Poisoning Deaths—Dealer Kills Himself Because Daughter Was Jilted.

Out of work and despondent, Eli Hazaisk, 35 years old, committed suicide, the police say, by inhaling gas, at his home, 185 Snediker Avenue, Brooklyn, some time yesterday. The escaping gas also caused the death of his wife, Sarah, 25 years old, and their son Harry, 6 years old. A two-months-old baby, Ida, who was found snuggled in her mother's arms was revived and is now out of danger in the infants' ward at the Kings County Hospital.

Leaky gas stoves and heaters used during the cold weather were responsible for the deaths of three other persons in the city yesterday, and there was one more suicide case. Ten persons were overcome by gas, but recovered.

John H. Sanderson, a special officer, and his wife were burned to death in a fire which burned to the top floor of a four-story tenement at 607 First Avenue early yesterday morning. Their bodies were found lying on a set of bedsprings on the kitchen floor, and fire officials believe they were overcome by escaping gas before the fire started. A hole was found in the tube connection of a gas heater left burning in the kitchen.

Gas escaping from a jet that had been turned on accidentally caused the death yesterday of Frank Marteinek, 64 years old, of 124 East Third Street. Neighbors summoned Dr. Hewes of Bellevue Hospital, but the man was dead when the physician arrived.

Louis Kobach, 66, a former clothing dealer, inhaled illuminating gas through a tube connected with a jet at his home, 78 Canal Street, and was pronounced dead by Dr. Monteith, summoned from Bellevue Hospital. According to relatives and the police, Kobach committed suicide because his eldest daughter, Anna, was jilted by a former suitor, who seized from her hand a diamond ring which he had previously given her at their engagement party. In Essex Market Court Herman Dunair, 51 East 107th Street, was held in $1,500 bail for examination today on a charge of grand larceny preferred by Anna Kobach. She charges that he, her former suitor, slipped a ring from her finger, saying, "I'll see you again." Dunair, who is said to have a jewelry establishment of his own in Brooklyn, did not keep his appointment, the plaintiff alleged.

O'Connor Wins Suit Against Butler.

Supreme Court Justice Davis yesterday granted the application of Thomas V. O'Connor, as President of the International Longshoremen's Association for an injunction restraining Richard J. Butler and William J. Smith from using any stationery or other matter bearing the insignia of the international association, or from representing that they are members of the organization. The suit arose out of the refusal of Butler and Smith as officers of locals 865 and 915 of the longshoremen's organization to permit their members to return to work following the mediation of the strike last Fall, for which reason the locals were dropped.

ADMIRAL JELLICOE VISITS ANNAPOLIS

PARTY LEAVES FOR HAVANA

Will Board Cruiser There for South Africa or England—His Destination to be Given Later.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 6.—Admiral Jellicoe visited the Naval Academy today and told the 2,000 midshipmen that the peace of the world was assured as long as the navies of the United States and Great Britain maintained their present co-operation and comradeship. The midshipmen gave a rousing "four N" cheer for the British sea fighter, which the Admiral acknowledged smilingly.

The Admiral spoke of the honor he felt in meeting the "budding officers of the United States Navy—that great navy which has been so closely bound in comradeship with my own."

The Admiral said that the march past of the regiment was one of the most impressive sights he had ever witnessed, and that its accuracy and spirit had been typical of the efficiency of the American Navy. The Academy history, he said, was larger and older than any institution of the kind in the United Kingdom.

In closing he urged the middies to give their best effort to maintain the traditions of their institution, service, and country.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Admiral Jellicoe left Washington late today for Key West, en route to Havana.

Admiral Jellicoe and his staff officers declared that Annapolis would rank with any institution of its kind in the world. The Admiral was particularly pleased with the type of young men composing the student body.

At Havana, the cruiser New Zealand is waiting to take the party either to South Africa or England, the destination to be announced later.

Miss Waldo Alleges Breach of Promise by F. M. Brown, Lawyer.

A complaint was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday in a suit by Miss Elsie Eleanor Waldo against Frederick Melvin Brown, a lawyer, to recover $250,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage. The summons in the case was served in 1915. Since that time the plaintiff has changed lawyers, and two orders granting permission to serve the complaint after the legal time had expired have been granted. Frederick Melvin Brown is a member of the law firm of Butler, Brown, Wyckoff & Campbell and is an expert in admiralty law. It was said at the office of the firm yesterday that Mr. Brown is in Washington on legal business.

Miss Waldo alleges she met Mr. Brown first in 1905, and until 1907 saw him frequently. In the latter year, she says, he courted her and in 1908 asked her to marry him. She says he then asked a year's postponement of the marriage because his engagement was "fraught with so much happiness that he hated to break the spell." She alleges finally that for various reasons the wedding was twice postponed until 1913, when he left New York. She learned later that he had married Mabel Eloise Stokes of Watertown, N. Y.

ACT ON EVICTION DECISION.

Dispossess Notices Served Under Five-Day Clause—Tenant to Fight.

The recent decision of Judge Lehmann in the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court that under the terms of a lease given to Mrs. Jeanne Lorraine by the Waitt Construction Company, the landlord might dispossess a tenant within five days without stating upon what grounds he found the tenant undesirable, was followed yesterday by the serving of a dispossess notice upon Don Carlos Buell, Secretary to Justice Peter A. Hendrick, who recently successfully defended in the Municipal Court two dispossess cases under somewhat similar leases. Two tenants of the apartment house where Mr. Buell resides and who are members of the Morningside Association also received similar dispossess notices.

Mr. Buell held yesterday that the decision had been generally misinterpreted and that it did not hold that the landlord need not prove as a fact that he deemed the tenancy undesirable.

Propose to Increase Stock.

Stockholders of the Sonora Phonograph Sales Company, at a special meeting called for Jan. 20, will vote on a proposal to increase the stock from $5,000,000 to $7,250,000, by the issuance of $1,250,000 8 per cent. cumulative preferred shares. They will also vote on changing the corporate name to the Sonora Phonograph Company.

CALLS BLUE SKY LAW REPORT A 'PRAYER'

Swann's Aid Says It Is Plea to Allow Predatory Interests to Continue Pillage.

BUCKET SHOP OVERLOOKED

Would Leave Public at Mercy of Wall Street Sniper, Kilroe Declares.

In a report on fraudulent methods in Wall Street, made yesterday to District Attorney Swann, Edwin P. Kilroe, in charge of the Bureau of Commercial Frauds of the District Attorney's office, declared that the report of the Governor's Commission on Blue Sky Laws was a "prayer" to allow the predatory Wall Street interests to continue their pillage without hindrance. In arriving at his conclusions and recommendations, Mr. Kilroe said he had answered 1,400 letters and investigated personally 1,600 complaints.

If the Interstate Commerce Commission fixed the monetary loss through commercial frauds at $600,000,000, it is the opinion of Mr. Kilroe that $400,000,000 of that amount was lost through dishonesty here. He recites some of the cases of stock frauds that came under his notice. Under the law as it now stands, he said, the District Attorney is almost powerless and the investing public without protection.

The Governor's Commission which Mr. Kilroe criticised was made up of such men as A. Barton Hepburn of the Chase National Bank; Albert H. Wiggin of the Chase National Bank; Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, and William H. Porter of J. P. Morgan & Co.

"I have carefully analyzed this report," said Mr. Kilroe, referring to the commission's report made to Governor Smith on Dec. 24, "and in my opinion it is a prayer to allow the predatory Wall Street interests to continue their pillage without let or hindrance. I trust that the Governor will not be deceived or the Legislature misled by this appeal. To follow the recommendations of the majority report would be a step backward and would leave the public unprotected and at the mercy of the Wall Street sniper; it would accelerate discontent at the unfair distribution of wealth and add to the progress of Bolshevism and socialism and throw a cloak of protection around the so-called 'promoters' and 'underwriters' who, by superior cunning and lack of conscience rather than by honest labor and production, are annually extracting vast sums of money from the investing public.

"In the majority report the committee overlooked two of the greatest evils in Wall Street—the 'bucket shop' and the lack of protection for collateral put up by investors.

"I cannot agree with the committee when they say that the blue sky laws have worked unsatisfactorily in other States; while it is true that there are some crooked dealers in the States where blue sky laws are in effect, yet their numbers have been greatly reduced and some protection has been given to the public.

Mr. Kilroe recommends that Stock Exchanges be licensed and placed under governmental control and that they should keep a careful record of all their transactions. Brokers and dealers in investment securities should also be licensed, and he is of the opinion that the New York Curb Market should be driven off the street as a public nuisance. Each broker and dealer should, in his opinion, be made to keep records that should be put down within twenty-four hours of each transaction and should go into details, and that there should be a penalty for false or neglected entries.

After urging a Federal blue sky law to regulate dealers from other States doing business by mail, telephone, telegraph, or any other interstate means of communication, Mr. Kilroe said:

"Since the war the business of selling worthless stocks has grown to enormous proportions. The evil has now reached such proportions that the productive integrity of the nation is menaced.

WOULD JAIL OWNER NOT SUPPLYING HEAT

Lockwood Committee Has Housing Report Ready for the Legislature.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 6.—Failure on the part of landlords to provide ample heat and proper janitor and elevator service for their tenants will be made a penal offense if the Legislature accepts recommendations embodied in a preliminary report soon to be submitted by the Lockwood Committee which has been investigating the housing problem and rent profiteering.

Senator Charles C. Lockwood of Kings, Chairman of the committee, on his arrival at the Capitol tonight said that he would urge remedial legislation to meet the housing problem early in the session. Such legislation would be supplementary to measures enacted by the Legislature at an extraordinary session last June on recommendation of the Lockwood Committee.

ROOM IN PARIS HOTELS NOW.

50,000 or 60,000 Tourists Can Find Accommodations Soon.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Housing difficulties in Paris are being overcome, and the hotels are no longer overcrowded? According to a statement by the President of the Private Hotel Association, from 35 to 50 per cent. of the rooms of hotels in the organization are now available, both in Paris and in the provinces.

A few hotels still occupied by the Government will be released from control soon. It will be possible to accommodate from 50,000 to 60,000 tourists in the near future.

LEGION OPPOSES MONUMENT

Former Soldiers Favor a Building as a War Memorial.

Sentiment in the American Legion with regard to the city's proposed war memorial favors generally a building of some sort rather than a monument, it was learned yesterday. With about 50 per cent. of the posts in the city heard from on the State Headquarters' call for a referendum, opinion is said to be divided about evenly between a building in Pershing Square and buildings for the use of the legion as the best expression of the memorial. The result of the referendum, it is expected, will be sent to the Mayor's Committee on the Memorial, of which Rodman Wanamaker is Chairman.

TROLLEY RAMS BUS, 12 PERSONS HURT

MANY CUT BY BROKEN GLASS

One Victim Goes to Hospital—Police Reserves Called to Handle the Crowd.

Twelve persons were injured, one seriously, last night when a city motor bus was rammed by an Ocean Avenue trolley car at Marcy and Lafayette Avenues, Brooklyn. The vehicles came together with great impact and the crash brought a large crowd to the scene of the accident.

The trolley, in charge of Motorman Carl Hoffman, was going south on Marcy Avenue and was well filled with passengers. At the junction of Lafayette Avenue, the bus, owned and operated by Joseph Arrsche of 321 Hopkinson Avenue, came along. In the bus were about thirty passengers. Before Arrsche could recover from swerving to avoid a collision with a passing automobile, the trolley crashed into his machine.

The bus was turned completely over on one side. Windows were smashed and several seat cushions were thrown twenty feet. With the first crash the passengers in the bus became panicky, and even as the machine keeled over a rush to the door enabled many to get out. The dozen, including several women, were caught and were either cut by falling glass or bruised.

Policemen on traffic duty turned in an emergency call for ambulances, and the first hospital to respond proved to be the Jewish Hospital in Williamsburg. Three surgeons treated the injured. The most seriously hurt was Albert Karst of 428 Van Buren Street, who was removed to the hospital suffering from a fractured left arm. The others injured were taken to their homes.

The report of the collision and the debris scattered in the street attracted a crowd of several thousands, including many who halted at the transfer point and missed cars in an effort to see what the trouble was. Reserves were finally called out and dispersed the crowd. On the ground that the collision had been accidental, the police did not make any arrests.

ISSUES DRASTIC ORDER TO SAVE NEWSPRINT

Authority Given Canadian Controller to Seize Supply for Home Publications.

OTTAWA, Jan. 6.—The Governor General signed an Order in Council today authorizing the Minister of Customs to refuse export licenses to manufacturers of newsprint paper who refuse to comply with any order of the Controller of Paper.

Another Order in Council empowers the Paper Controller to requisition and distribute to Canadian newspaper publishers any newsprint paper which a manufacturer has refused to deliver on the order of the Controller. Manufacturers will be compensated for any such seizures at a price fixed by the Controller. Penalty for noncompliance with the Controller's order is fixed at $500 a day for a period not exceeding ten days.

The pulp wood supply in Canada is large, but much of it is inaccessible for commercial purposes, according to a report of the Commission on Conservation, made public today. An enormous annual destruction by the bud worm is reported.

Quebec, 200,000,000 cords; British Columbia, 355,000,000; Ontario, 200,000,000; New Brunswick, 33,000,000; Nova Scotia, 30,000,000. There is little information available concerning the supply in the prairie provinces.

Losses from bud worm are so enormous that they far overbalance the annual growth in Canada and the United States, the report states.

PREVOST HELD FOR MURDER

Warrant Issued for Cousin of J. Stanley Brown's Widow.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Jan. 6.—At the request of Attorney General Groesbeck, who is conducting the Special Grand Jury investigation into the slaying of J. Stanley Brown, a warrant was issued today for Lloyd Prevost, cousin of Brown's widow, charging him with first degree murder. Prevost has been in custody without a warrant since last week.

DR. ETTINGER SEES PEACE IN SCHOOLS

Superintendent Believes Board of Education Will Now Work in Harmony.

TALKS ON FINLEY'S DECISION

School Survey Independent of Superintendent Now Regarded as Unlikely.

The decision of State Commissioner of Education John H. Finley, upholding City Superintendent of School William L. Ettinger in his controversy with the Board of Education, proved upon a reading of the full opinion as received from Albany yesterday, to sustain every contention of the Superintendent, and directs the Board to revise its by-laws to conform with the State Education Law. The position of Mayor Hylan during the row which has raged for some time, has been that the Board of Education was the supreme power in school affairs, and that "Ettinger should be put to work," but the State Commissioner, from whose decision there is no appeal to the courts, declares that the Superintendent is the "chief executive officer," while the duty of the Board is to lay down broad policies.

While the decision does not mention the school survey, which Dr. Ettinger declared was so devised as to usurp his powers, it is assumed that the decision as to by-laws will logically preclude the conduct of a survey independent of him. A decision of the Court of Appeals gives the Commissioner of Accounts power to investigate the finances of the Board, but does not give him authority to delve into pedagogical matters.

"The decision lays down with admirable clearness," Dr. Ettinger said yesterday, "the general principle that a lay Board of Education of seven members is not empowered by the statute to supersede the professional staff in matters of educational and business administration; and that the Board of Education, although clothed with very great powers which the State Commissioner of Education enumerates in detail, must function with the Superintendent of Schools, who is the chief executive, not only of the board, but of the school system.

PRISONER SAVES DETECTIVE

Grapples with Escaped Convict Making Knife Attack on Policeman.

Inside a motion picture theatre on Broadway yesterday they were showing a wild-west picture. A Sheriff had caught a hold-up man and was returning with him to camp. They were attacked by Indians, and the Sheriff took the handcuffs off his prisoner and together they defended a water hole in the bad lands. The bandit fought so well that the Sheriff allowed him to go free.

Outside the theatre, Detective Sergeant George McGann of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, was passing with a prisoner, James Smith, charged with forgery. The detective noticed a young man who stood in the entrance of the theatre lobby. The man answered the description of a convict named William Loomis, who had escaped from Auburn Prison.

The police officer walked up to the young man and was about to place him under arrest when the youth drew a knife and lunged at McGann. The detective's prisoner jumped upon the man about to attack the detective, and McGann snapped a pair of handcuffs on him. He proved to be the escaped convict.

More than 2,000 persons, who had not passed to witness the scene, gathered. After order was restored the audience wanted to see how it ended and followed McGann and his two prisoners to the Forty-seventh Street Police Station, where Loomis was locked up. Smith was then taken to the West Side Court, where he was held in $1,500 bail.

BIG DEMAND FOR NURSES.

Work of Henry Street Settlement for Year is Reviewed.

The work of the past year at the Henry Street Settlement was reviewed last night at a meeting of directors of the institution at the Cosmopolitan Club. Among those present were Jacob H. Schiff, Dr. L. Emmet Holt, Paul Warburg, Leo Arnstein, Paul D. Cravath, Herbert Lehman and Felix M. Warburg. Lillian D. Wald, head of the Settlement, presided.

Miss Anne W. Goodrich, director of nurses, said that requests for nurses constantly were coming in from all parts of the three boroughs covered by the Settlement's nursing service. At no other time except during the influenza epidemic, she said, was there such a demand for the services of the Henry Street Settlement nurses. Miss Wald said the institution had trained 176 nurses for public health service. They included graduate and undergraduate students.

Miss Cobb Not Accused.

In an introductory reference to testimony at the investigation into the conduct of the State Reformatory for Women and in the headlines published in THE TIMES of Dec. 13, it was stated erroneously that an inmate and a guard swore that Miss Helen A. Cobb, the superintendent, struck her in the head with a bunch of keys and dragged her around by the hair. As appears in the body of the article, the testimony of the inmate and the guard was that this alleged cruelty was inflicted by the disciplinary officer and not by Miss Cobb.

Their adoption of Yellow Chassis Trucks has made the Republic, in six years, the largest manufacturer of motor trucks.

The very volume of sales and re-sales is evidence of Republic superiority, and owners' cost-data proves longer life and better performance at lower cost.

The plain figures do prove these facts; and they come from more than 60,000 owners.

Your own hauling interests urge you to see the Republic Exhibit, at the National Truck Show, this week, and to inform yourself about Republic records.

Whatever your haulage problem may be, we will be glad to discuss it with you, without obligation, and give you the benefit of the experience of 60,000 Republic owners.

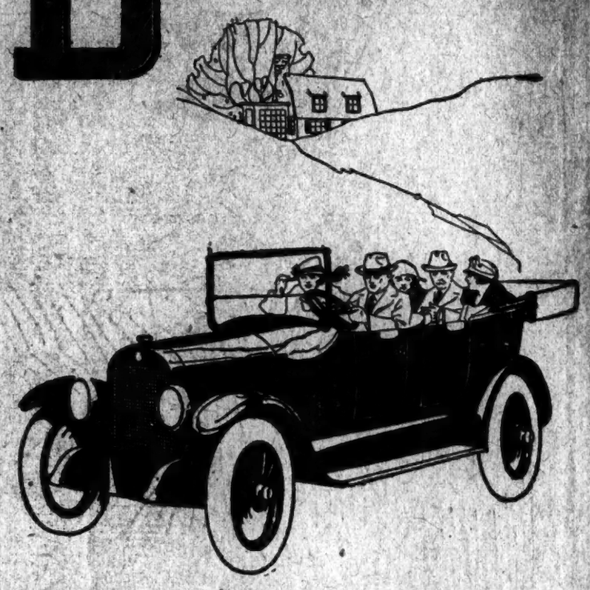
DORT

Quality Goes Clear Through



The good qualities for which the Dort has become known nationally are the direct results of a consistent manufacturing policy.

The design of the Dort is deliberately simplified because simplicity, as you well know, means freedom from trouble.

The car is built throughout to be as fully accessible as possible so that ordinary attention can be given any part with ease and dispatch.

And painstaking care is given each step in production so that every Dort may measure up to the high Dort standards of excellency and economy in performance.

Were it less good in any detail it could never have built up such a fine name for itself in every community.

The complete circle represents the cost of insurance, at standard manual rates, of a large Massachusetts manufacturer. As shown by the division lines, this manufacturer has saved 55% of these rates, under the Liberty Mutual Special Service Plan. This is typical of the saving possible to practically every large manufacturer or contractor.

This Large Manufacturer Saved Over Half the Cost of His Workmens' Compensation Insurance

HOW was this saving accomplished? Was it the usual insurance inspection service—the safety recommendations?

Was it the efficient medical service?

Was it the prompt and fair settlement of accident claims?

All these factors of insurance service helped to some extent.

Was it the cash dividend of 30 per cent which this manufacturer received each year on his policy?

That, of course, was helpful too. But it was not alone this customary type of insurance service—or the dividends—that could make this saving. Some other companies give similar service—other mutual companies pay dividends.

This big saving was made through the Special Service Plan of the Liberty Mutual. A plan which other insurance companies do not use. A plan for which there is no extra charge.

This Special Service Plan is not a set plan—not "cut and dried." It differs in each case.

It was applied to meet the individual working conditions of this manufacturer.

It is a plan so practical—so far-reaching in its effect—that, working under the plan, this manufacturer reduced his accidents by over one third—

He reduced his labor turnover—

He made working conditions safer and better for his employees—

He increased the efficiency of his working force—resulting in a saving perhaps greater than his insurance cost.

Over 4000 carefully chosen manufacturers and contractors are taking advantage of this Special Service Plan—such organizations as the General Electric Company; Fred T. Ley & Company, Inc.; Hugh Nawn Contracting Company; United Shoe Machinery Company; United States Glass Company; Curtis Publishing Company; The New Home Sewing Machine Company.

Wouldn't you like to know how the Special Service Plan can be applied to your business?

AUTO MEN PREDICT 1920 CAR SHORTAGE

MAY PRODUCE 2,000,000

Uncertainty of Labor Conditions and of Markets Has Increased Manufacturers' Difficulties.

More automobile Presidents and executive officers from the leading factories in all parts of the country than have been seen in New York for many months were here yesterday to visit the passenger car and motor truck show and to attend the annual dinner last night at the Hotel Commodore of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. In discussing whether the production of passenger automobiles this year would catch up to the demand practically every factory head at the dinner thought that the shortage would continue for more than a year.

A. R. Erskine, President of the Studebaker Corporation said that the passenger car output for 1920 would exceed 2,000,000. How far beyond that figure it might go would depend upon the readiness with which steel and other materials could be obtained. It is this recognized difficulty in obtaining material that has led nearly all of the manufacturers to curtail their tentative estimates of three months ago by a liberal margin and the most optimistic figures do not go above 2,250,000 passenger cars.

Edward S. Jordan, President of the Jordan Motor Car Company, said that the car shortage at the present time is close to 1,000,000 cars. Alvan Macauley, President of the Packard Motor Car Company said that the Packard factory was preparing to double its capacity this season, due to the steadily increasing demand.

"The greatest problem which most makers have to face," added Mr. Macauley, "is to produce the regular quality with the unskilled labor available. American ingenuity in machine production has done wonders in stimulating output, but the motor industry cannot get away from the fact that skilled men can produce a better product than unskilled laborers."

"Although we may make more than 2,000,000 cars in 1920," said W. C. Marmon, head of the company making the car bearing his name, "there will be no surplus. If it were merely for cars for pleasure use, the problem could be easily solved. The great majority of the passenger cars are wanted, however, for the necessities of transportation, one of the vital needs of the country, and it is this factor that is giving such an impetus to the use of motor trucks and smaller vehicles."

Attendance at both shows reached the high mark of the week yesterday. Inquiries led most of the exhibitors to state that the demand for closed cars is greater than in any former year, and it in this particular type that the most acute shortage exists. At the Buick booth it was said that reasonable deliveries for the new sedan might be expected early in the Spring.

The new six-cylinder Reos attracted considerable interest, and its five-passenger sedan contains many improvements. The Moon sedan, with the wire wheel equipment, shows fine streamline body lines, and in its 118 wheelbase chassis makes it a very roomy car. Other attractive sedan types are the Jordan, Mitchell, Peerless, Maxwell, Chalmers, Liberty, and Kissel exhibitions.

At the motor transportation conference in the Eighth Coast Artillery Armory in the Bronx, where the commercial vehicles are displayed, S. M. Williams, Chairman of the Federal Highway Council of Washington, urged the importance of better road construction. He advised all motorists to work for the passage of the Townsend National Highways bill in Congress.

The Motor and Accessory Manufacturers' Association, of which more than 200 members have exhibits in the Palaces, will hold its annual dinner tonight at the Hotel Commodore. The annual conference of the Society of Automotive Engineers began yesterday in the Engineers' Society Building, and will close with the annual dinner tomorrow night at the Hotel Astor.

SINGER FACES DEPORTATION

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 6.—Charles Baklanoff, noted baritone of the Chicago Opera Company, was arrested today on a deportation warrant signed by Secretary of Labor Wilson, charging him with improper conduct with Vera Amazer.

Recently she appeared before Charles F. Clyne, District Attorney, in the Federal Building, and told how Baklanoff had brought her to this country from Russia and how they traveled around together, living as man and wife. She recently learned he already was married, she said.

At an immediate hearing, held before Immigration Commissioner Harry E. Landis, the case was continued. Bail for Baklanoff was fixed at $1,000. He furnished the bond and was released.

Drug Import Restrictions Modified.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Narcotics and salvarsan, neosalvarsan, and all substitutes therefor may be imported from all countries except Soviet Russia without individual import licenses under a ruling announced today by the War Trade Board section of the State Department. AMPLE POWER READY

The perfected Dual Valve Six engine gives the Pierce-Arrow great responsiveness. So much less effort and time are needed to control the actions of the car, it seems as if automobile and driver were one. The car responds more quickly; it steers with a lighter touch; its gears shift with less effort. All the contacts between the driver and the car are closer, easier and swifter.

Pierce-Arrow is a car that can be driven with a facile hand. No brute force is needed to start, guide or stop it; boundless power is in leash waiting the word to be off, but checked, changed or stopped with equal ease.

HOW DECKER'S AIDS SUCCEEDED IN SPAIN

BUT DID HELP ALLIED CAUSE

Get in Touch with Sentiment Which Ambassador Had Not Reached, Says American Who Was There.

Rear Admiral Benton C. Decker, who asserted that the work of his staff had prevented Spain from entering the war against the Allies and that his staff did this "in spite of the opposition of the Ambassador," is entitled to credit for changing the attitude of Spain from unfriendliness to one of benevolent neutrality, though not for keeping Spain out of the war, according to a well-informed American who has in Spain at that time.

The controversy between Ambassador Joseph E. Willard and Admiral Decker, according to this observer, arose from the fact that the acquaintances and relationships of the Ambassador were among Spaniards of high position and social prominence, and these usually leaned in favor of Germany. Admiral Decker and his subordinates, on the other hand, carried on a campaign among the liberal and intellectual classes and the body of the people, who were already pre-disposed in favor of the Allies, though lacking in the means to voice their sentiments and make their influence felt.

Admiral Decker's charge that he met with "opposition" from the Ambassador in his work in Spain was made in an official letter to Secretary Daniels, protesting against the alleged insufficiency of recognition in the bestowal of medals of the work of his men, the effect of which, he said, had been "to keep Spain from entering the war against us at the time of the enemy's March offensive of 1918, also a reduction of the submarine activities off the coast of Spain."

"I saw a good deal of that situation," said the observer referred to, "and of the feeling which existed between the Ambassador and the Naval Intelligence officers, and also heard a great deal from Spaniards. The feeling in Spain was that the Ambassador had particularly tried to be in the good graces of the socially elect of Spain, of the court, of the military party, of the aristocracy. That party was rather pro-German, or, if not exactly pro-German, it was anxious that the world should not be thrown into a situation where democracy ruled supreme. They wanted to hold on to their rank and privileges and were naturally anxious for an outcome under which the old order of things would continue and that the new order should not come in with sweeping victories. They were not pro-German because they loved Germany, but because they did not want the war to end in such a way as to hurt the interests for which they stood.

"That was the crowd with which Mr. Willard was particularly in contact, and as he liked them and wanted to be liked by them, he didn't get in such close contact with the liberals, the intellectuals, the advanced people of Spain, who were naturally very much pro-Ally. These elements in Spain complained a good deal that the American Ambassador, representing supposedly a free and democratic nation, did not do his full share in giving aid to the free-thinking Democratic parties of Spain, and did not foster the relationship between them and America.

"At that time the party with which Mr. Willard was particularly on good terms happened to be the party which was certainly not pro-Ally, and things which could have been done to mobilize liberal sentiment for the Allies and America were perhaps neglected.

"This was the situation which the Naval Intelligence officers found when they took hold. Most of the press was against us, and such news as was given out was stale and ineffective. The Naval Intelligence staff believed that by legitimate propaganda and by dissemination of more American news a good deal could be done to change the sentiment prevailing in Spain. While the sentiment of the majority of the newspapers was against us, the majority of the people, and I think a very large majority, was for us. But it had not had an opportunity of expressing itself.

"Admiral Decker and the men of the Naval Intelligence staff did get in touch with the liberal forces of Spain, did do all they could to influence in a legitimate way the public opinion of Spain by getting America properly represented, and did succeed in bringing about a decided strengthening of those influences which were pro-American and pro-Ally.

"I don't for a moment believe that Spain ever really intended to enter the war against the Allies. She neither intended to do so, nor could she have done it. She had not the equipment, it was not in her interest, and public opinion was too much divided. Admiral Decker, I think, overestimates what was accomplished. But the Naval Intelligence staff did do a great deal of good work in emphasizing the side of the allied and American case."

GIRL'S CHARGE BEFORE JURY

Merchant Accused of Attack on Riverside Drive Still Absent.

The Grand Jury of which Charles M. Baldwin, 80 Madison Avenue, is foreman, began yesterday an investigation into the case of the "prominent merchant" who, it is alleged, attacked a seventeen-year-old girl in his Riverside Drive apartment. The merchant is still in the West and with him is an equally well known man, who was his companion on the night when the now complaining witness was entertained. District Attorney Edward Swann was anxious yesterday to interview John C. Hackett, former secretary to Police Commissioner Enright, and former Police Inspector Edward P. Hughes, who were alleged to have been in the office of the merchan now under charges when detectives went to the office.

The District Attorney said that he called up Mr. Hackett's hotel and found out that he was not there. It was said that he had checked out and it was not known when he would return. Mr. Hughes was also absent from the city.

The investigation is said to have a double purpose for it remains to be found whether a felony was committed by the assault on the girl and also whether there was a misdemeanor in informing the man wanted that detectives were were after him. The complaining witness and her older companion, who was also entertained at the Riverside Drive apartment, and one other witness were before the Grand Jury.

The case will be continued today.

TWELVE INDICTED FOR ALCOHOL PLOT

UNCONSCIOUS FROM DRINK

Police Believe Wood Alcohol Was Given to Man Robbed in Long Island City.

The Federal Grand Jury yesterday indicted twelve men on charges of violating the Wartime Prohibition law. Eleven are under arrest, and the arrest of the twelfth is expected soon.

Four of the indicted men were arraigned in the Federal Court in Brooklyn, and seven others will be arraigned in Manhattan today. The men indicted were: Lucio Belli, New Haven, Conn.; Cosimo d'Ambrosio, 362 Carroll Street, Brooklyn; Salvatore Esposito, 120 Mulberry Street, Manhattan; Carmine Licensiato, 111 Mott Street, Manhattan; Adolph Panarelli, 311 Bleecker Street, Manhattan; Luigi Puca, 111 Mott Street, Manhattan; John Romanelli, 271 Third Avenue, Brooklyn; Samuel K. Saleeby, 84 Court Street, Brooklyn; Nathan Salsberg, Hartford, Conn.; Edward G. Ware, 190 State Street, Brooklyn, and William H. Woller, 405 Tenth Street, Brooklyn. The name of the twelfth man, still to be arrested, was not made known. The indictments charged the men with entering into a conspiracy to sell methyl alcohol for beverage purposes.

Pleas of not guilty were entered yesterday in Brooklyn by Romanelli, Saleeby, Ware, and Woller. George Gordon Battle, who appeared for Saleeby and Ware, urged Judge Chatfield to reduce their $100,000 bail, and counsel for Romanelli and Woller made similar pleas, but Judge Chatfield said he did not feel justified in reducing the bonds. The attorneys were given until Jan. 12 to make any necessary motions in the case.

A liquor that the police believe was wood alcohol was given to a man last night by robbers who relieved him of $125. Wasil Pritula, of Van Alst Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street, Long Island City, told the police that after leaving a saloon in company with two other men one handed him a bottle. He took a drink and became unconscious. When he awoke his money was gone. So were the men. The police detained two men, who gave their names as Harry Radomick, of 608 Ninth Avenue, and Andrew Stupak, of 705 Ninth Avenue, who were held in $1,000 bail for examination tomorrow in Long Island City Police Court on a charge of taking Pritula's money.

MAETERLINCK NOW A "G. S."

Degree of Good Sport Is AWarded by Hunters Fraternity.

Maurice Maeterlinck, exemplar of belles lettres, was awarded another degree last night by the Hunters Fraternity of America, whose guest he was at dinner in the studio of A. A. Anderson, at Sixth Avenue and Fortieth Street. The poet may now write after his name the initials "G. S." The letters stand for "Good Sport," and the big game hunters stoutly averred that because of recent experiences the poet was a "good sport."

It was all in the evening's program that the speakers had to lead off by disclaiming prowess in the hunting field. Robert Erskine Ely referred to Mr. Maeterlinck's elusive hunt for "phonetic English" at the Carnegie Hall lecture in these words: "Until your lecture in Carnegie Hall we honored you as a man of letters. Now we honor you as a man. Another man after such an experience might have hurried to take passage for home. But you propose to remain here and continue your lecture tour. There isn't a better sport here than you are."

Percy Mackaye told of a conversation with Kid McCoy, whose boxing and philosophy Mr. Maetrlinck has said he holds in high esteem.

"You know, I didn't think much of poetry until recently," McCoy told Mackaye. "But now I think Shakespeare must have been a pretty good man in the ring. Homer, too. I had the pleasure of boxing with a poet some time ago. His name is Maeterlinck. He's a good boxer and a mighty good sport."

Turning to the Belgian, Mackaye said, "Welcome to the man who has shown us the poetry of boxing."

A. A. Anderson, President of the organization, acted as toastmaster. In a brief address in French Mr. Maeterlinck thanked the fraternity, and through it the people of New York for their hospitality, and praised the architectural effects of the city.

Union League Honors Secretary.

A complimentary dinner was given last evening by the officers of the Union League Club to its retiring Secretary, Henry Cole Quinby, who has served the club in this capacity for six successive years. Samuel W. Fairchild, ex-President of the club, presided. A loving cup was presented to Mr. Quinby, upon which was inscribed the names of the hosts, as follows: Charles E. Hughes, Samuel W. Fairchild, Joseph H. Emery, James Wilkinson, George T. Wilson, Henry W. Hayden, William H. Remick, Gilbert G. Thorne, John W. Herbert, Charles A. Fowler, Walter E. Frew, Benjamin B. Odell, Frederic J. Middlebrook, Gates W. McGarrah, Bertram H. Borden, George W. Hodges, J. Sinclair Armstrong, William C. Breed, Charles Elliot Warren, Harry A. Cushing, Hugh N. Crystal for the whole year at January sale prices

LIKE Christmas and New Year's and the Fourth of July, Ovington's sale of china and table crystal comes but once a year.

Table crystal has been reduced from 10 per cent to 40 per cent from previous prices. China, dinner sets only excluded, is 20 per cent lower than it was.

These prices provide a purchasing opportunity that we cannot foresee in the near or even distant future.

WHEN A MAN MARRIES
THIS QUESTION ARISES

Does he agree to provide for his wife as long as he lives, or as long as she lives? Of course she understood perfectly the arrangement was for the duration of her life, or she wouldn't have married him. Still, we meet men now and again who say, "Oh well, if I die let her go to work." Such as these should put in an extra supply of Palm Beach Suits just before they pass away—they'll need 'em.

For the man who wants to succeed, enjoy life, have a contented mind, secure his own future, and provide for his family, what more could be desired than a

The NEW SERIES HAYNES BROUGHAM

LORD BROUGHAM was a man who esteemed luxurious comfort—therefore he called in a master coach-builder and had him make the first carriage of the type which gave the world the name "Brougham."

Despite the many other styles of such vehicles, there never has been a more desirable conveyance for its purpose, and therefore in the new series Haynes five-passenger Brougham we have revived this extremely handsome, easy-riding, socially desirable example of the coach-builders' art.

Its wide doors, its lounge-like rear seat, its every convenience and perfection of detail, both appeal to and satisfy the critical taste of the experienced.

It is a notable feature of the Haynes exhibit at the automobile show. We cordially invite you to see it.

The Haynes, America's First Car, now exhibited by the Government at the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., was invented, designed and built by Elwood Haynes, in 1893.

"DO-IT-ALL" TRACTORS PLOW ON THE LEVEL. With one wheel in the furrow the tractor is not tipped sideways, but is level. Both bull wheels are adjustable up and down. They not only plow on the level, but they give you better clearance when cultivating by elevating the tractor away from the ground. It not only gives you better plowing, but increases the life of the tractor. THE "DO-IT-ALL" weighs 900 lbs. It pulls a 10-inch plow. It has 6 H.P. on the belt power enough to pull a 4 ft. hay mower or a riding lawn mower. There is a big opportunity for live-wire dealers who have an organization to sell tractors. Here is the biggest proposition on the market, and the dealer must measure up to the proposition. If you wish to farm in an up-to-date manner buy the "DO-IT-ALL" tractor. If you continue to farm you will some day own a "DO-IT-ALL" tractor. You gain nothing by delay. While our production is big, so are our sales. "The Early Bird Catches the Worm." SENATE TO INQUIRE INTO NAVAL AWARDS

Sub-Committee Will Investigate Independently or with the House.

TO HEAR DANIELS AND SIMS

Hearings Will Not Begin Until the House Decides on Course—Opposed by Senator Walsh.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Senate Naval Affairs Committee today by a vote to 10 to 1 ordered an investigation of the awards of navy decorations, concerning which there has arisen a controversy involving Secretary Daniels, the Knight board which recommended certain awards, and high officers of the navy, including Admiral Sims, commander of the American naval forces in European waters during the war.

Senator C. S. Page, Chairman of the committee, was authorized to name a sub-committee of five, empowered to investigate independently or in co-operation with the House, if a similar inquiry should be authorized there. Senator Page will appoint the sub-committee on Wednesday.

Senator King's suggestion was rejected. Senator Lodge then moved the appointment of an investigating sub-committee of five, with full power to go into every phase of the subject, to hear Secretary Daniels, Admiral Sims, members of the Knight board, and any others who can throw light on the subject. This motion prevailed. Senator Walsh, Montana, Democrat, alone opposing it.

The Senate investigation will not start until the House decides on its course. Representative Butler, Chairman of the House Committee, is opposed to an inquiry, it is understood, although other committee members favor it. If the House should decide to investigate, the Senate committee will invite its co-operation and the witnesses will be heard at joint sessions.

Dinner for Retiring Editor.

The staff of The Christian Herald gave a dinner at the Brevoort last night for the retiring editor, Dr. George H. Sanderson. It marks the closing of thirty years as associate editor and editor, and many prominent in the literary world came to pay a tribute to Dr. Sanderson, who in his seventieth year has been made Editor Emeritus. Dr. Edwin Markham read a poem composed for the occasion, and other speakers were Charles H. Sheldon, who wrote "In His Steps," and who is to become editor-in-chief of The Christian Herald; Edward Bok of the Curtis Publishing Company, Judge Arthur S. Tompkins, Admiral Sigsbee, Edward Johnstone of The Associated Press, and Dr. Burrell of the Marble Collegiate Church.

CUBA OFFERS REST OF SUGAR CROP TO US

Menocal Says 2,200,000 Tons Are Available—McNary Criticises President's Course.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Half of Cuba's sugar crop, or about 2,250,000 tons, still available to the United States, and if bought would mean lower prices to American sugar users, according to a message sent by President Menocal through his secretary to Senator McNary, author of the bill extending Government price control of sugar through 1920. In part, President Menocal said in answer to an inquiry from Senator McNary:

"The Cuban Government, conscious of the great convenience and lasting importance of these economic exchanges, put forth every effort to conclude by agreement with the American Government the disposition of the entire output of Cuban sugar for the year 1920.

"The possibility of the United States acquiring a large part of the remaining crop of Cuba's sugar is dependent on the attitude of your Government. There exists here a group of patriotic men extensively engaged in the enterprise of producing sugar. They with many others operating on a lesser scale can be depended upon to respond to any invitation on the part of the American representatives to consider a true price for Cuba's product."

Commenting on the sugar situation, Senator McNary said today: "The President's decision to withhold from the Sugar Equalization Board the authority to acquire the Cuban sugar crop for 1920 comes as a distinct disappointment to those who were active in legislation, designed to be corrective of the present unfortunate sugar situation which was brought about by the refusal of President Wilson to purchase raw sugar last Summer when urged to do so by the Sugar Equalization Board.

"I think a great blunder has already been committed by not entering this market in the Summer or Fall of last year, and now again to hesitate will result in still further conscienceless profiteering by the speculators at the expense of the American people, who have already paid a toll of several hundred millions of dollars on account of the President's mistake."

Mrs. Wise Corrects an Impression.

Mrs. Stephen S. Wise, Chairman of the Adoption Committee of the Free Synagogue Social Service, a resumé of whose report was printed in yesterday's TIMES, said last night that a mistake in emphasis was made in the story. She called attention to the fact that although infant asylums, are in the main good, the personal care that individual children receive there cannot be compared to the attention accorded them by foster parents. In this instance she quoted the late Professor Jacobi, who said, "The more babies you place under one roof the more babies you kill."

ALMIRALL JURY MEETS.

Inquiry Into Rand School Delayed—Four Witnesses Excused.

The Extraordinary Grand Jury, which is investigating criminal anarchy and the "overshadowing crime," held its first session yesterday since Dec. 19. The session was preceded by a conference between Foreman Raymond Almirall and Justice Weeks. There was a rumor that the jury was about to wind up its affairs, but Foreman Almirall would not discuss its possible dismissal. It may be late in the week before he sends a reply to the letter of Governor Smith calling upon the Grand Jury to produce evidence, if it has any, against District Attorney Swann and his administration of his office.

Mr. Swann received a brief note from Mr. Almirall asking him to meet the Grand Jury in his office today. It was understood criminal anarchy will be discussed, and that other points upon which both sides have been at variance will be taken up.

BONNER TUBES
Will Not Deflate

The diagram shows a cross-section of an inflated BONNER TUBE. The crescent shaped tread is two and one-half times thicker than ordinary good tubes. This portion, when inflated, is held under compression by a strip of non-stretchable fabric embedded in the tread. When punctured, the compressed rubber grips the nail tightly and prevents air leakage. If the nail is withdrawn, the rubber "squeezes itself together," completely sealing the hole. This is the self-sealing secret of BONNER TUBES.

DETZER ATTACKS ARMY WITNESSES

DENIES STRIKING MEN

Says Accusers Were Encouraged by Congressmen and Judge Advocate's Office.

Concluding testimony in his own behalf before a general court martial on Governor's Island, Captain Karl W. Detzer said yesterday he believed the charges of cruelty against him were inspired by prisoners coddled by a Congressional Investigation Committee in France and encouraged by the Judge Advocate's office at Le Mans.

"During the period following the Congressional investigation," he testified, "a spirit almost of anarchy prevailed among the prisoners in the guard houses of the A. E. F. Many of the prisoners abused and insulted me to my face, secure in the knowledge that they were prisoners." He denied he ever had struck a prisoner. "Prisoners began to develop the feeling that they were poor, downtrodden heroes," he continued, "and that the M. P.'s, and all officers in fact, were interfering with their rights to be absent without leave at will."

The Congressional Committee investigating treatment of military prisoners in France, following the court martial of Lieutenant "Hard-boiled" Smith, took statements from prisoners, but apparently made no effort to verify their allegations by questioning their officers, said the witness. Regarding his statement of last Monday that he was "framed," Captain Detzer said that Captain John M. Weir, who was in the Le Mans Judge Advocate's office, and who is assistant to Major Kelly, prosecutor in the case, persistently has followed him through the entire proceedings.

"I have no absolute proof of a frame-up," said the accused: "but it is a very peculiar string of events since the latter part of March and the first part of April which linked Captain Weir with me and my office and these criminals that I have handled. That is all."

Captain Detzer said he had been unable to produce records of the 308th Military Police Company, of which he was the commander, in his defense. Application to the War Department, he said, resulted in the reply that the records were lost. The witness said that the last he heard of these records was that they were at Brest with a battalion of homeward-bound troops of which Captain Weir was a member.

The accused attacked the credibility of witnesses who testified against him and said many showed signs of having been coached. Denying the charge by Murray Phillips of Brooklyn that Sergeant Madden had stolen 5,100 francs from him and divided the money with Captain Detzer, the accused officer said:

"I think Phillips is suffering from shell-shock. He testified on the stand that he was wounded thirteen times. After he had seen my picture in the papers and read the stories of the others, I think it went to his diseased mind, and I think he was ably assisted."

"Do you think that all the men who testified here were shell-shocked?" demanded Major Kelly.

"No," said Detzer, "some of them are just rotten."

Cross-examination of the defendant was concluded yesterday afternoon. Lieutenant Thomas Heffernan, Detzer's counsel, said that the defense would rest today after putting two more witnesses on the stand. The prosecution will then introduce several witnesses in rebuttal.

PLAN MERGER OF TICKET AGENCIES

Managers Would Compel Brokers to Limit Premiums to 50 Cents.

KILROE PREPARING APPEAL

Assistant District Attorney Also Framing Another Ordinance Designed to Curb Speculation.

With the theatre ticket ordinance no longer operative, the theatrical managers are renewing their efforts to put a stop to wildcat speculation by means of a merger of the ticket agencies, along the lines outlined in THE TIMES several weeks ago. William A. Brady, who is chairman of a committee of managers who have the plan in charge, returned to New York yesterday from Boston, and a meeting of the managers probably will be called in the next few days.

The managers' plan, which has already been approved by several of the big ticket agencies, calls for the consolidation of the established brokers and the distribution by them of the tickets for the various theatres. This combination would be headed by the McBride and Tyson companies and would include practically all of the other agents. All, however, would be compelled to limit ticket premiums to 50 cents, and the method of distribution would make overcharges easy of detection. The offending broker would then be deprived of his tickets.

Under this system, according to those who have studied it, sidewalk speculators and other fly-by-night dealers would have for sale only the few seats which they could obtain by purchasing at the box office in the guise of patrons. Another f[illegible]e of this plan, as now outlined, wo[illegible]s the elimination of huge block[illegible]ades of seats in advance by the bro[illegible]rs and a consequent lessening of the risk involved.

Assistant District Attorney Edwin P. Kilroe, who prepared the ordinance which limited ticket speculators' profits to 50 cents on a ticket and which Judge Kosalsky declared unconstitutional, was busy yesterday getting ready an appeal from the Judge's decision and in framing another ordinance by which it is hoped to curb ticket speculators. This ordinance will probably be presented to the Board of Aldermen at its meeting Tuesday and will, it is believed, hold ticket sellers from "running wild" until the constitutionality of the present ordinance can be decided. It is now proposed to fix the license fee at $50 instead of $250 and the amount will be further made up by licensing the places in which tickets may be sold.

It is proposed to give the Commissioner of Licenses more power in the matter of revoking licenses. These will not only be more difficult to obtain, but they can be, if the proposals are carried out, nullified for unfair dealing, unfit character, and other causes that will be set forth.

Mr. Kilroe said it was also proposed to require the speculator to stamp on the back of each ticket the price for which he sold it. He said that if the Appellate Division did not give relief recourse would be had to a State tax which would divide with the Federal tax the profit, so that no matter what is charged for a ticket all that will be left to the unfair speculator will be the 50 cents profit which the authorities believe a just figure.

"I think the theatrical managers can solve the problem, but I know they won't. The managers could agree not to sell tickets en bloc to any speculator unless such a dealer would stipulate and provide a bond not to sell at less than 50 cents profit. It is equally certain the theatre managers will not do this."

"The Light of the World" is the name of the eye-filling, pretentious, and entirely tasteless theatrical entertainment which, after a preliminary showing to the gentlemen of the cloth, made, at the Lyric Theatre last evening, its first appearance before the distinctly secular public of New York. It proved to be a very candid and honest bid for the pennies and the pieties which have supported "Ben Hur" through many and many a season in America.

This new play has as its basis a scheme which might have been worked out in a drama of singular potency and spiritual beauty. It employs as its central figure such a village wood-carver as the Anton Lang of Oberammergau, and, during the preparations for the Passion Play which, every ten years, have turned that Bavarian community into a shrine for pilgrims from all the world, it identifies that figure as the spirit of Christ moving on through the ages. To such a one it brings again the faithless friend and the woman taken in adultery and answers in its crude theatrical formula the recurrent question of Christendom: "What would He have done?"

The working out of this scheme in the play called "The Light of the World" is attended by considerable mystery and a few surprises. The mystery revolves around the origin and authorship. The program credits to one Pierre Saisson a play which, when it was on tour last season, was frankly known as the work of two such familiar and indigenous surveyors of Broadway entertainment as Guy Bolton and George Middleton. The disappearance of their names may have arisen from the management's diffidence in billing their show as "A Religious Drama by the Authors of 'Adam and Eva' and 'Poly with a Past.' This, however, leaves the identity of Pierre Saisson" open to considerable doubt, and one is driven to the suspicion that "The Light of the World" is one of those reworked German plays of which the origins are discreetly shrouded these days.

Perhaps a similar discretion governed the decision to move the play from the Bavarian Alps to "a small village in Switzerland near the French border"—the last touch a masterpiece of disguise, which makes it all the more puzzling that the name of the woodcarver should not have changed from Anton to Louis or Alphonse.

It was perhaps too much to expect that the story of the man playing the Christus should have been told with touches of humor and humanness—something to relieve, at least, the unlifelike stiltedness of the old Sunday school lithographs. The playing of the Christus with the dehumanized reverberations and the conventional, eye-rolling sanctity was, perhaps, to have been expected also.

Among the surprises of the play as produced, several linger in the memory. It is to be doubted if any of us foresaw that 1920 had in store for Broadway a play in which the "Rags-are-royal-raiment-when-worn-for-virtue's-sake" lines would give way to the "first stone" speech and the "Father, forgive them, for they know what they do," used here in precisely the same way. The wonder at the boldness of their employment as theatrical tag-lines gives way, however, to the wonder at last night's audience, which applauded each and every one of them to the echo (the gallery leading). There was in that applause the distinct suggestion that to large portions of the audience these lines had the advantage of novelty.

A mild surprise may also be expressed that even the great Pierre Saisson should have felt free to work out the story of the woman taken in adultery by such frankly hokum devices as the overheard conversation. After that you are naturally prepared for "a happy ending," a drama of the eternal misunderstanding and persecution of the Christus, worked out, if you please, to a happy ending.

The production is handsome, the musical accompaniment elaborate and superior, the invisible choirs a pleasure to the ear. The company has its strong and its weak points. Among its strong points may be mentioned Fuller Mellish as an old Jew, Ralph Kellard, who plays the faithless Simon with fine fire and feeling, and Jane Cooper as the bride of Simon. Pedro de Cordoba's performance as the Christus hardly bears comparison in ruggedness, dignity or spiritual force with Walter Hampden's work in the analogous role of "The Servant in the House," although he achieves at the end a striking resemblance to the Christ of many a painting when, robed in white and crook in hand, he makes the last entrance of the play. It was typical of that play and of the highly appropriate audience assembled to see it that upon the entrance there was wild applause for the make-up.

The Brilliant and Distinguished Pianist
will appear in recital at Aeolian Hall on the evening of January 8th

MISS Cottlow is well and favorably known to New York audiences. Said the New York Times, after her recital last year: "A piano prodigy as a child, Augusta Cottlow is one of the lucky few who has fulfilled early promise. Technique is no longer a factor in her case. She has in addition, a keen rhythmic sense, and her phrasing reveals the mature musical thinker."

the wonderful modern pianoforte that has the power to play as the great artists play.

With authorized Artists' Record-Rolls, it repeats with absolute identity the playing of Paderewski, Hofmann, Gabrilowitsch, Novaes and scores of other great artists.

It is also an advanced Pianola, playing any 88-note music roll, and endowing you with a perfect piano technique. The Duo-Art is a piano unchanged for hand playing by its two great additional features.

The Duo-Art may be obtained in Steinway, Steck, Wheelock, Stroud and famous Weber pianos. Grand and Upright Models.

Court Decision or No Court Decision, McBride's Policy Will Remain Unchanged

THE extravagantly high premiums that are being charged for theatre tickets at various offices all over town discourages theatre going, hurts theatre management and therefore impels us to repeat our long established policy to our patrons.

Our fixed charge for service of fifty cents per ticket over box office prices is the cornerstone upon which our business was founded forty-six years ago, and we limit ourselves to that moderate amount.

A recent law fixed that amount as standard. This was our practice long before the law. The law has been adjudged unconstitutional. Our policy is unchanged.

With the high cost of living we, appreciate the theatre-going public cannot afford unreasonable prices for amusement and we want our patrons to know that so far as McBride's is concerned there is now no higher cost of tickets over box office prices than heretofore.

We are the same people who started this business, father and sons, and we propose to continue to deserve the approval of the theatre-going public and the theatre management by standing for a square deal—a square deal to one and all alike—by making theatre-going a real pleasure and not carrying with it a feeling of injustice in ticket buying.

Our policy is to stabilize the business for the benefit of all.

THE BETTER SIDE.

In two provisions of the League covenant there is a power for the permanence of peace that outweighs a thousand times all the factitious apprehensions about trammels upon our independence or impairment of our sovereignty. We mean the provision relating to agreement for disarmament, and that which contemplates the creation of an international court of justice. The people of every nation are vitally interested in disarmament, for the execution of that design would lighten the burden of their taxes. Taxation to pay for the costs of the war ended a year ago will be, in all conscience, heavy enough without adding thereto new imposts to defray the cost of wars yet to come. That there shall be set up a tribunal for the settlement of differences open to adjustment by the processes of justice is the desire of all right-minded men, for every man who has advanced far enough in civilization to approve a resort to the courts instead of to the dueling ground as a means of settling private disputes must admit that disputes which arise between nations are better disposed of in a court of justice than by victory upon a field drenched with human blood.

Without the Treaty and the League we shall not have the benefit of these provisions. These and other potential blessings which the League of Nations would confer upon humanity have pretty much been lost sight of in the long drawn out wrangle which has unconscionably postponed the ratification of the Treaty by the Senate. It is well that they should again be brought into view. A large majority of the Senators, Democrats and Republicans alike, desire ratification of the Treaty and the covenant. Both sides know that that is the wish of the country. The Republicans have had no doubt of it since they heard the practically unanimous voice of members of their National Committee, advising them that the people wanted ratification at once. The "Battalion of Death" was, of course, quite unaffected by the reports of the National Committeemen. But the reasonable Republican Senators, those who occupy middle ground, were moved to immediate action. They have been manfully striving to bring about an agreement. An agreement will be reached, the Treaty will be ratified, there is no doubt about that; but it would be the gravest of all errors for the majority of the Senate to ask, or for the minority to yield, too much. The Democratic Senators are prepared to make concessions, Mr. HITCHCOCK made that very plain by his speech in this city. The safety of the Treaty, however, must be the limit of yielding. We may define our understanding of its provisions, we may with great propriety set forth the constitutional limitations upon our action under it. But any reservation that changes the substance of the Treaty puts it in peril of rejection by other Powers. We do not want two leagues of nations—we want one or none.

It would be of immense advantage to this country and to the world if Senators would turn their attention from the spooks and ghosts which their imaginations have conjured up as they have pored over the Articles of the Treaty of Versailles and contemplate some of its provisions which no man can doubt would constitute a veritable fortress for the peace of the world.

"GYPING" THE PUBLIC.

Judge ROSALSKY'S decision that theatre ticket speculation, as conducted in hotels and agencies, is "concededly lawful" and "is therefore entitled to constitutional protection" is in line with decisions already rendered, notably in California and Illinois. For the present, certainly, the lid is off for those whose unamiable delight is in "gyping" the public.

The statement that the ticket speculator thrives because "the public is willing to pay any excessive price" falls somewhat short of precision. Many hotel transients, whose stay is brief and whose evenings are proportionately precious, are willing to be "gyped." Clubmen who do not decide upon "doing a play" until they meet at dinner and face an empty evening are often of a similar facility, as are hostesses of wealth when arranging a theatre dinner. But they are only an infinitesimal portion of "the public." They are, however, numerous enough to fix upon all a custom which the real public has long and justly resented, and which the managers themselves now recognize as most damaging to the general goodwill by virtue of which alone, in the long run, they thrive. As matters now stand, the public and the managers suffer alike from a condition created by the reckless spenders.

Judge ROSALSKY is much more interesting, and indeed more convincing, when he says that in his judgment the remedy lies in the hands of the managers. Certainly the attempt to redress the wrong by legislation, though repeatedly made with every evidence of sincerity, has brought no relief. If "a contract between the "producing managers and the ticket "brokers to sell at a reasonable "price" could be made and enforced, it would well-nigh solve the problem. It would, of course, be necessary to gain control of the existing agencies; but, as these live only by virtue of purchases made from the theatres, they must eventually fall before a united attack from the managers. The sidewalk speculator is already under ban of the law, and Mr. KILROE is resolute in enforcing it. Only the "digger," or anonymous buyer for the privateer speculator, would remain to be dealt with, and should offer no insurmountable difficulty.

Judge ROSALSKY adds one very important qualification. A combination of managers to control the agencies can be made effective only "if the parties will act in good faith." Many leading men of the theatre are resolute in the determination to stamp out the grasping speculator, but experience has shown that there are always some who fall before the temptation to reap all possible profits while the reaping is good. This much, however, is clear: if relief is to come, it must come from those who control the tickets at their source. The great public is virtually powerless, and legislation has repeatedly failed.

Meantime there is at least a ray of hope. One of the foremost of the ticket agencies has announced that it deplores Judge ROSALSKY'S decision and will adhere scrupulously to the 50-cent premium allowed in the law.

EQUALITY FOR WOMEN.

There is certainly not the least reason why women should not be members of the party committees, now that they are eligible in so many States not only to the right of suffrage but to public office, including membership in Congress. Still, the women "from fourteen States of the Middle West" who have demanded that the Republican National Committee be doubled in number, and that each State be represented on it by one man and one woman, are not acting either in the interest of sex equality or in the interest of their own sex.

It has been understood that the women voters would be women, citizens, and, in the majority of cases, partisans. This proposal is that they should be treated not as voters, citizens, or partisans, but as women; that a line of demarkation should be drawn between the sexes. Nothing worse could happen to the cause of women. As for sex equality, it would be obliterated so far as the effect of this plan could go. The suffragists have demanded to be treated as men are. Now some of them insist on being treated solely as women. That is not equality.

Furthermore, it would place them at a distinct disadvantage. There is a practical side to the question, so practical as to suggest that women who ignore it must be very unskilled in politics and not "knowledgable" in that science. The State delegations at the National Conventions elect their National Committeemen. In doing so they do not elect men because they are G. A. R. men, American Legionaries, business men, workingmen, or members of any other class requiring special consideration or thought to require it. Each delegation picks out the person whom it believes to be best acquainted with the State and most skilled in its politics—likeliest, in other words, to get the vote out and see it cast right, and best fitted to maintain the right relations with the leaders in the other States. That is practical politics.

Now it is proposed to hitch up with this man, this expert politician, picked not according to the interests he represents but according to his proved skill, a colleague who is chosen for no such reason, but solely on account of her sex. If it were a matter of drafting a platform it would be a different matter. But this is a thing having nothing to do with principles, having to do solely with the practical matter of organization and getting the vote out. In this matter an expert is certain, in the nature of things, to have the advantage over an amateur. We hardly suppose that even the most extreme suffragists will hold that, in the majority of the forty-eight States, the women selected for the National Committee will be other than amateurs, and that for the public at large there will be only one National Committeeman, the male member. This will not be necessarily because the woman member is inferior to him intellectually, but simply because she is inferior to him in experience in those matters which go to make up a successful National Committeeman.

Let women enter the two National Committees, by all means, if they are qualified. Let any State delegation which sees a competent and experienced politician among its women voters, one better fitted for the place than some man who might be proposed against her, elect her to the place. But it will be a severe blow to the cause of women if every State is arbitrarily forced to put a woman on the National Committee whether she is fit or not, solely because her name is Jane instead of John.

A SEVERE BILL.

Mr. GEORGE S. GRAHAM, Chairman of the sub-committee of the Judiciary Committee of the House, has introduced a bill for the detection and punishment of crimes against the Government. It is a bill of excellent intentions, and of unconsciously rigid and extra-constitutional policies. It seems to give a definition unknown to the Constitution of treason. Its prohibitions, however patriotic in purpose, seem to go beyond the accepted and natural limit of constitutional definition.

The purpose is laudable; but a certain excess of definition voids the admirable and patriotic intention. The definition, permanent and unchangeable, of treason stands in the Constitution. That it should be changed, that, for instance, the death penalty should be enacted by the United States for so-called "treason" "and for "the death of an innocent person in a "riot attending a movement to overthrow the Government, or to prevent the carrying out of the laws "or decrees of the courts," seems obviously without the jurisdiction of common sense and of the Supreme Court interpreting the Constitution.

Mr. GRAHAM'S bill is excellent in many respects. What he tries to do in it is commendable, but it is not for him, or for the House of Representatives or for the whole Congress, to erect into a crime a new "treason," not consonant, as a matter of fact quite inconsonant, with the Constitution. The prohibition of publications which seek to stimulate forcible resistance to or destruction of the Government of the United States; the erection into a misdemeanor of the public exhibition of a red flag or any other symbol with the tendency to urge or a view to inspire a spirit desirous of overthrowing the Government of the United States—these are praiseworthy objects. Still, in seeking to make a strong and wide net for anarchists and the various workers of disaster for our Government and all our polity of ordered freedom, it is not for the United States to enlarge on the ancient doctrine of treason. That is fixed. It should not be widened or increased, for any temporary reason and even by the best patriotic feeling.

THE WORLD'S OIL SUPPLY.

Drawing attention to the significant fact that last year the United States produced less oil than it consumed and exported, GEORGE OTIS SMITH, Director of the Geological Survey, warns the country that the domestic supply will be exhausted in less than twenty years, unless we "either reserve the "domestic oil fields for American development and thus prevent foreign "acquisition of what is needed at "home, or encourage our capital to "enter foreign fields to assist in their "development, thus insuring an additional supply of oil for our needs."

The alarm has been sounded before, by Senator PHELAN of California and by VAN H. MANNING, Director of the Bureau of Mines. In 1918 the product of the American wells was 356,000,000 barrels, or, to quote the Director of the Geological Survey, "more than "one-twentieth of the amount estimated by the survey geologists as "the content of our underground re"serve." In 1918 our storage oil amounted to about 140,000,000 barrels; and to meet home needs and export obligations 24,000,000 barrels were drawn out. It is true that the United States is the largest oil producer in the world by many millions of barrels, but it is also true that this country uses 75 per cent. of all the oil produced in the world, and that the domestic demand is rapidly increasing. Our new dreadnoughts and destroyers are oil burners, and the American merchant marine may be a failure unless oil is available for the engines of the largest ships. If American aviation, military and commercial, is ever to be in the van of progress, there must be an ample reserve of oil. American automobiles, motor trucks, and tractors cannot always be produced in quantity unless there is gasoline for them, or a substitute. American manufacturing is dependent upon petroleum and its by-products.

Mr. GEORGE OTIS SMITH'S "first method of handling the oil problem," reserving the American fields by legislation, would be only a temporary solution of the problem. Moreover, a considerable area of oil land in the West is owned by British firms and companies whose title is sound and unassailable. According to Senator PHELAN, "the British Empire debars "foreigners or nationals from owning "or operating oil producing properties," and he calls for retaliation by the United States. Of far more importance would be the vigorous competition, not counting cost, of Americans with the Europeans and Japanese to acquire and develop oil lands all over the earth. Among our rivals the British have a long lead with their genius for exploration. In Mexico they own some of the most valuable oil properties, and in Central and South America they have obtained concessions in territory, 18,000,000 acres in area, where there is promise of oil. And British nationals are busy in Persia, Egypt, Turkey, Rumania, Galicia, Syria, Algeria, and French West Africa. Their companies are organized in such a way that no oil is to be diverted from British requirements.

"England's policy," declares Senator PHELAN, "is to control the carrying trade of the world," and it is also the policy of the United States to take a large part in that trade. Then it must enter and keep the field wherever a well can be drilled, and use its far superior financial resources to win in the competition. Today the great oil producing countries are the United States and Mexico. Alarm about the immediate future, so far as this country is concerned, should not be taken tragically. The question that may soon confront the oil-using nations of the world is whether the supply will hold out for another generation when every known well is pressed into service.

THE HIGH COST OF HOME RUNS.

Among the Romans, who had a keen sense of material values, it excited no surprise that in the slave market an expert librarian, philologist, and literary critic sold for less than a winning charioteer or a popular pantomimic dancer. So no one should be surprised when Colonel HUSTON of New York pays $125,000 to Mr. FRAZEE of Boston for the release from contract of BABE RUTH, the Home Run King; even though Columbia had to pay no such sum to the University of Chicago for the release of an eminent professor, nor did the Scots get anything like it for letting a distinguished and beloved preacher of the gospel come to New York. The famous RUTH is a personage of considerable worth to the lessee of his services; and, however much money the New York baseball club may have paid for him, it will doubtless make an adequate profit.

RUTH had a three-year contract with Boston at $10,000 a year, signed in the Spring of 1919, when nobody thought baseball would be a particularly profitable business. As it happened, the year was the best known; and, though the Boston club finished nowhere in particular, all along the road it drew crowds who came out to see RUTH "hit 'em out of the lot," as the phrase goes among those whom Mr. BLASCO IBANEZ would call the "aficionados." Whereupon the Home Run King, having acquired much glory, a zealous manager, and a sense of his own importance, decided he would have to have $20,000 before he would play next year. His employer would have had to pay the ten thousand, no matter how things went; but RUTH could not be pressed into involuntary servitude, even under a contract.

Mr. FRAZEE was probably right in saying that Boston had become a one-man team; for neither RUTH nor anybody else took much interest in what happened, except when the slugger was at bat. The loss of RUTH means a loss in gate receipts, for a time; but if Mr. FRAZEE gets a team that finishes second or third, people will probably pay money to see it perform, even without RUTH.

As for the New York club, it, too, made a good bargain; its chances for the championship, already fairly good, are considerably bettered, and RUTH will draw a crowd in New York seventy-seven times in the year to come, instead of eleven if he came here only with a visiting team. Also, the right-field fence at the Polo Grounds is so close that there has been a suspicion that it was put up for indolent outfielders to lean against; Mr. RUTH ought to beat last year's record by a considerable margin. To be sure, his manager talks largely about how hard it will be for him to leave his Boston cigar store, and what a Palsh-like sum of money will be required to bring him back inside a ball lot; but it takes a good many cigars to show a profit of $20,000 in six months, and he can probably get that for playing ball in New York.

So it seems to have been a good thing all around—for New York, for Boston, and for RUTH. But the whole is sometimes very different from the sum of its parts. Neither club can well be blamed for its part in this affair; but it marks another long step toward the concentration of baseball playing talent in the largest cities, which can afford to pay the highest prices for it. That is a bad thing for the game; and it is still worse to give a valuable player stranded with a weak club the idea that if he holds out for an imposing salary he can get somebody in New York or Chicago to buy his services.

GOVERNOR ALLEN'S PROPOSAL.

Governor HENRY J. ALLEN of Kansas, who took over strip mines during the coal strike and put several thousand volunteers at work to supply the people of the State with fuel, boasts that he knows nothing about politics, and on several occasions he has amazed the politicians by rushing in where they feared to tread. It was certainly not a demagogue who asked the Kansas Legislature on Monday to adopt his program to prohibit strikes and lockouts in cases where necessaries of life were involved and who made this argument in support of his proposal:

> There is no reason why government should not have the same power to protect society against the ruthless offenses of industrial strife as it has always had to protect it against recognised crime. Any minority which has secured control of a product upon which human life depends, and which undertakes for the purpose of affecting wages or profits to withhold that product from the public until the public shall freeze or starve, has in effect superseded government and has arrogated to itself the control of the destinies of human life which government alone may have the power to safeguard.

The Federal Department of Justice asked for an injunction against officers of the United Mine Workers on the ground that the miners were about to violate a contract with the operators which was to run during the emergency of war, specifically until peace was proclaimed, but behind this presentation of the case there was the principle held in leash, as it were, that inherent in government under the Constitution was the right to promote the general welfare by protecting the people from the acts of any combination of men that threatened them with suffering and loss of life. It might be necessary for Congress to give expression to this principle by enacting a law to fit the emergency. Certainly an organized minority cannot be allowed to demonstrate that it is greater than the Government by barring its right to protect the people from starvation and death by cold to which the organized minority, asserting the power to strike, arrogantly dooms it.

Such is the position taken by Governor ALLEN of Kansas. "If allowed to go on," he says, "this destructive "philosophy would wipe out all that "the ages have builded for society." Governor ALLEN believes that the problem of protecting the people by the instrumentality of law can be solved by creating a court of industrial relations to intervene in the event of a stubborn strike or arbitrary lockout affecting the necessaries of life and take measures to provide them for the public welfare. But previous to action by such a tribunal, employer and workmen will render themselves liable to penalties by attempting to limit production and by refusing to perform any duty enjoined by the act. Governor ALLEN'S attempt to blaze the way to industrial peace and the protection of consumers will be watched with sympathy and concern by the people of every State.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

As Told, the Tale Was True.

Everybody should have known, but evidently great numbers didn't, that there was something wrong about the story of young women arriving here from abroad in great numbers, all eager and willing to do general housework for $7 a week. The appearance in print of that glorious tale will doubtless move the injudicious to repeat the familiar psittacism—"You can't believe anything you see in the papers!"—but as a matter of fact the dispatch from Chicago was quite true, for the statement as to the arrival of would-be servants with modest aspirations as to pay was made by the person mentioned and that was all "the paper" presented to view.

Whether or not the person in question spoke with accuracy, or even intended so to speak, is another question, and one which every reader had a right to answer for himself or herself. It didn't take a particularly massive intellect, or more information than is possessed by all who do not lead an existence strangely remote from the world of actuality, to decide that no immigration of the sort described was in progress. Good news, however, is rarely subjected to close scrutiny or careful analysis, and of such news there is so little, nowadays, in the economic field, that it's little wonder, really, there was a wild rush for treasures further away than the bag of gold at the rainbow's foot.

And probably it was not so much servants at $7 a week that were so eagerly sought as servants at any price. At any rate, there are whole armies of American housewives who would think themselves the pampered favorites of fortune if they could get competent "help" for twice that amount.

To Change Is Not to Perish.

According to high metropolitan authority, based on full knowledge of existing conditions in the labor market and of what the steamers from abroad are contributing to our population, not only are there no young women of any nationality here now, or coming here, who will render domestic service for $7 a week, but there never will be any. The only uncertainty, they say, is as to how long private employers are going to be able to get any domestic servants at all, and the chances are that it won't be long.

That seems like a view unnecessarily dark, but it is well to be prepared for the worst—if that is the worst—and to be planning for an age when housekeeping must, and therefore will, be conducted on some new system that either eliminates the domestic servant entirely or gives her a status wholly unlike the one she has had in the past.

Possibly the change will not be the disaster and affliction it seems to be while we are passing through the period of transition. Possibly the present trials and tribulations are due merely to our efforts to perpetuate a method that only worked well—if it ever did work well—in a patriarchal society wherein the social ranks and classes were clearly defined, with the occupants of each either content to remain in it or hopeless of getting out of it. Certainly the old method has been working badly, and ever more and more badly, for many a year, and the day of its utter breakdown seems to be near.

Those who say that the domestic servant's lot is an enviable one from many points of view and that she ought to count herself lucky ignore all the decisive facts—her lot is not envied by anybody and she almost always wants to get out of it. That being the case, why struggle longer to follow a closed or closing path?

Citizenship Based on Marriage.

Among the reforms demanded by the Republican women convened in Chicago this week is one by which the political status—the citizenship—of a wife shall cease to be determined, as now, by that of the husband. This is indeed a needed alteration in the law, for the present situation is in part absurd and in part dangerous.

Many women feel it to be a personal grievance that they should lose their nationality on marrying a citizen of another country, and though there are sometimes manifest advantages for them in gaining a new citizenship in this way, the advantages are based on a theory of woman's social place that is quite out of harmony with modern ideas, and most women—all who are at all "advanced"—would lose such advantages without regret.

A far worse consequence of the law as it is appears when with citizenship goes the franchise. It is obviously wrong that a woman should be allowed to vote merely because she is married to a man who has that privilege by birth or naturalization. In the freest and widest of democracies the franchise is restricted by requirements with which marriage has no relevance, and until a woman can meet, and has met, those requirements—all of them—she should not vote.

The women assembled in Chicago saw this, or they would not have made their demand for deprivation of a privilege now become indefensible.

They Recall Old Time Experiences.

There is some excuse, though probably no real reason, for alarm in the revelation that there are in this city, and presumably throughout the country, more than a few people who are reluctant to give the information demanded of them by the census takers. Now and then this reluctance rises to an out-and-out refusal.

The behavior of such people shows, of course, a lamentable degree of ignorance on their part, and ignorance is a national danger. But there is nothing new in the discovery that ignorance exists, and, after all, it is not so bad to be afraid of the census taker—to fear that he is looking for grounds to impose new taxes, or to enforce military service, or to multiply deportations—as it is to preach subversive doctrines or to encourage and finance others who preach them. And some who know all about the census are doing one or the other of those wicked things.

The African Brontosaurus.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Reading your article in a recent issue under the caption, "Perhaps He Only Dreamed It," expressing the view that it is altogether incredible that M. Capelle, the Belgian traveler, can have seen a brontosaurus in the Congo region of Central Africa, brings to mind the experiences of Paul du Chaillu in the middle of the last century and the rather astonishing discovery of Sir Harry Johnston in the early part of the present century.

It will be recalled that when du Chaillu returned to London after his famous journey into equatorial Africa and reported the discovery of the gorilla and the Obongo dwarfs he was denounced and ridiculed by the scientific world in general and by certain African explorers in particular as a disciple of Munchausen, a monumental faker. Some even went so far as to assert that he had never even visited the interior of the continent. Du Chaillu, however, was not disheartened. He organized a new expedition, returned to Africa, again penetrated the jungles, captured a whole flock of gorillas, and sent some specimens to the British Museum, together with photographs and other proofs of the truth of all he had said. He was vindicated and his learned assailants were completely chagfined.

Scarcely less remarkable was the discovery of Sir Harry Johnston in the year 1902 of the okapi in British East Africa. It seems incredible that so large and conspicuous an animal as the okapi should have escaped the notice of hunters, travelers, and explorers until seventeen years ago, although it must have roamed Africa for thousands of years.

There may be no such place on the earth as that described by Sir A. Conan Doyle in his "Lost World," where dinosaurs and pterodactyls even now triumphantly disport themselves as they did in the reptilian era of long ago, but would it not be well to wait patiently and give M. Capelle time and opportunity to furnish proof of his alleged discovery before we relegate him to the role of one who reports dreams for actual experiences, even if the thing is a severe tax upon credulity?

F. P. BUNKER.
Bronx, New York, Dec. 22, 1919.

TO THE HEIGHTS AGAIN!

Do you remember—it was not long ago—
How near to God your spirit seemed to be?
His cause was yours to fight for, blow by blow;
You would have died to set the peoples free.

And those around you, those who fared afield,
Crusaders were, who sought the Holy Grail;
Your sword was Righteousness, and Faith your shield,
You were of them who in God's name prevail.

Have you forgotten—it was but yesteryear?
You'd conquered self, and climbed a wondrous height
Where souls are purged of littleness and fear—
Where you were armed to struggle for the right.

Do you remember, or have you sunk again,
Into the slough from which you sprang anon,
Devoured by self, contemptible as when
Your petty hopes were all you built upon?

Nay, do not answer! Go search your soul and pray
To Him you served when war took toll of men
That you may find a guide-post to the way
That leads you upward to the light again.

EDWARD S. VAN ZILE.

HIS COOK IS A CHEVALIERE.

But French General Didn't Know It Till He Criticised Her Cooking.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Strange complications have arisen in the relations of the people of France as a result of the World War. Sometimes persons wearing the proudest decorations are found engaged in rather humble vocations, and the fact that they have been honored by their country would probably never become known if on some occasions attention was not called to it.

"You are wrong to speak so severely, my General. I am a Chevalière of the Legion of Honor."

The General was General Gassouin, who controlled the Paris railroad systems when they were taken over by the army, and the Chevalière was his new cook, who had overdone the roast. The General could not believe his ears. He made an investigation and found the new cook had lost her husband early in the war. She became a nurse at the front, where she showed such bravery that the red ribbon decoration was awarded her.

When the war was over she accepted her dismissal from the army medical service without complaint and, having to earn her living, became a cook, wearing her decoration only on Sundays.

"When the General learned the truth he embraced the cook," says the Echo de Paris, which vouches for the story, "and since has not allowed himself to make remarks when any dish has not been a perfect success."

FAVOR NEW PARK ENTRANCE.

Roosevelt Statue Proposed at Sixth Avenue and 59th Street.

Plans to erect a Roosevelt equestrian statue at a new entrance to Central Park from Sixth Avenue and to replace the elevated line by a new subway were discussed yesterday at a luncheon at the Hotel Pennsylvania under the auspices of the Sixth Avenue Board of Trade.

Commissioner Lewis Nixon approved the new Roosevelt entrance to the Park at Fifty-ninth Street, but said that the present state of the city finances and the traction troubles would not warrant the scrapping of the Sixth Avenue elevated for some years.

F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, asked the members not to propose any new project calling for the expenditure of money, saying that the city faced a deficit of $3,000,000 and that War Savings Stamps were even being used to meet actual operating expenses. He believed that there was great extravagance in the operating of the city railroad systems. After discribing the large number of accidents, he said that he believed that there "was something rotten in the legal department of the railroads," and advised that there be a "very careful examination of the management."

Others who addressed the luncheon were C. F. Widner, managing director of the Sixth Avenue Board of Trade; Park Commissioner Gallatin, who said that Central Park did not have one good entrance, and D. L. Turner, Chief Engineer of the Transit Commissioner's office.

HOTELS HAMPER CENSUS.

One Clerk Even Demurs at Accepting Blanks for Guests.

Slacking by guests in the big hotels is hampering the taking of the fourteenth decennial Federal census, according to officials in the Manhattan district. Unless there is an acceleration in filling out the special blanks provided, steps will be taken to compel more speed. The clerk of one hotel refused yesterday even to accept the blanks for its guests and an inspector was dispatched at once to persuade him that the Government's law was superior to his whim.

Manhattan officials said last night that owing to a policy of assigning enumerators who have finished their districts to vacancies in other districts, rather than fill the places of those who report "sick" with untrained substitutes, it might take one or two more than the fifteen days allotted to complete the count, but it was believed this method would afford a more accurate census.

Interpreters were put to work in the Chinese and Italian districts yesterday, and with their help the enumeration went along better than on previous days. The record for enumerations thus far is held by one man in Manhattan, who recorded 800 names in a single day, thereby earning $32. One Manhattan enumerator had her pocket picked yesterday, and lost among other things her identification card. Another was supplied. An enumerator in a Brooklyn Italian district reported that he found but seven citizens among eighty-seven families.

IN MEMORY OF ROOSEVELT.

Hundreds Visit ex-President's Grave and Linger in Silent Prayer.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Jan. 6.—In memory of their former townsman, who died a year ago, more than a thousand persons journeyed to the grave of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today. There they stood, bareheaded, for several minutes in silent prayers for the former President. A score of wreaths were placed on the grave.

The first to go to the plot was Charles Lee, a faithful negro servant of the Roosevelt household. He had driven Colonel Roosevelt while in the White House. As he placed a wreath on the mound tears were in his eyes. At the noon recess of the Cove School, where Roosevelt played as a part of Santa, the pupils went to the cemetery and threw flowers on the grave.

HIGH-PRICED PARIS DOLLS.

Those That Sold for 4 Francs Before the War Now Cost 18.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—High prices rule in the French toy trade, and many a little Parisienne is tenderly caring for a doll which cost a large sum but in other years might have been purchased for a comparatively insignificant figure.

"Toys have never been so dear," said a leading toy dealer today. "Between you and me, however, there have never been so many sold. An undressed doll, which sold for 4 francs before the war, sells today for 18 francs, and dressed dolls, which in 1914 brought 15 francs, now sell for 50."

The dealer pointed out that when a doll sold for 6 francs it cost the shopkeeper 3½ francs; but today he gets 25 francs for what he buys for 8.

HINDUS DENOUNCE DYER.

National Congress Demands His Removal for Amritsar Killings.

AMRITSAR, Jan. 6.—Resolutions demanding that General Dyer, commander of British troops in India, be removed, and that Sir Michael O'Dwyer, British Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab, be prosecuted in connection with the firing on natives here last April have been unanimously passed by the Indian National Congress.

Sir Michael indorsed the action of the British troops in opening fire upon the natives.

Medal for Frederick Law Olmsted.

Frederick Law Olmsted received a medal yesterday from the American Society of Landscape Architects in recognition of his services in city planning. Mr. Olmsted was re-elected President of the society, which held its annual meeting yesterday at the Architectural League, 215 West Fifty-seventh Street. The society's annual dinner was given in the league rooms last evening.

MONDELL URGES ECONOMY ON HOUSE

Reiterates That Estimates Must Be Reduced by More Than $1,000,000,000.

RELATION TO LIVING COSTS

Liberal Appropriations, He Says, Will Nullify Legislative Attempts to Lower Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Frank W. Mondell, the Republican leader, in a speech in the House today urged Congress to observe the strictest economy in appropriations. He did this in the course of the debate on the Indian Appropriation bill, which, he said, called for a sum 25 per cent. below the estimates made by the Interior Department. Mr. Mondell said that economies were demanded to conform to the principles of the budget system approved by the House in the interest of effecting a reduction in living costs and with a view to reducing the threatened deficit.

Unless the most rigid economies were adopted, Mr. Mondell said, there would be a big deficit at the end of the next fiscal year, since the estimates for the next eighteen months amount to $9,000,000,000, with estimated receipts slightly in excess of $6,000,000,000. In the $9,000,000,000 estimate is included a deficit for this fiscal year of $1,500,000,000.

"I have suggested that there must be a reduction in the appropriations below the estimates in excess of a billion dollars if we hope to avoid serious financial difficulties," added Mr. Mondell. "I have tried to emphasize the fact that even with a reduction of a billion—it ought to be a billion and a quarter—in the appropriations as compared with the estimates presented in the book of estimates we shall have accomplished little or nothing if, having effected these economies, we make appropriation for a variety of new items, enlargements, extensions, and pay increases in the public service."

While Mr. Mondell was making his speech the Ways and Means Committee was in session considering whether it was advisable to authorize more loans to the allied Governments and to give material aid to the starving in Poland, Armenia, and Austria. The committee had before it letters from Secretary Glass recommending not only further loans to the Allies, but another proposition that Congress should allow the Allies to fund their notes and make them long-term obligations, to include the interest now due and unpaid.

The committee determined to hear Secretary Glass before acting upon his suggestions. There is much opposition to further loans to the Allies, although it is recognized by members of the committee that this country must aid Europe if trade is to be resumed.

Mr. Glass will appear before the committee some time this week. In the meantime there will be informal meetings of Republican members to decide upon a policy toward revenue legislation. The revenue bill will not be amended in any vital way, and the committee is against eliminating the excess profits tax. There will be some changes recommended by the committee intended to simplify the system of making up tax returns.

HISTORICAL 'REGULARS' WIN.

"Insurgents" Lose First Election Fight in Society in 115 Years.

Although the "insurgents" in the New York Historical Society did not succeed in putting through their ticket at the election of officers held yesterday afternoon they at least enlivened a proceeding which for the last 115 years of the organization's existence has been a mere formality. The record of the society shows that not until this year has there ever been a rival ticket and many of the old members were on hand to deplore the lack of "harmony" and to answer the charge of the opposition that the organization needed "vitalizing."

There were no signs of a division in the organization until the various reports were read while the ballots were being counted. In one of the reports the membership of the society was placed at 819. S. Mallet-Provost, who appeared to be leader of the opposition, remarked that when his side had attempted to communicate with members it had discovered that fifty or sixty of those listed on the membership roll were either dead or missing.

"Well, I'd like to know who they are," said John Abeel Weekes, the President of the society.

Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer, who has been prominently identified with the opposition, mentioned the names of two who she said had been dead for some time.

The regular ticket was elected by a vote of 512 to 79. Those voted in were: President, John Abeel Weekes; Vice Presidents, Walter Lispenard Suydam, William Church Osborn, Walter Jennings, and Francis Robert Schell; Foreign Secretary, Archer Milton Huntington; Domestic Secretary, Arthur Curtiss James; Recording Secretary, Stuyvesant Fish; Treasurer, R. Horace Gallatin; Librarian, Robert Hendre Kelby. The election was held in the building of the society in Central Park West, between Seventy-sixth and Seventy-seventh Streets.

HILLY RENT BOARD HEAD.

Mayor Names Mrs. Oliver Harriman and Albert Sokolski New Members.

Mayor Hylan yesterday appointed as Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering A. J. W. Hilly, a lawyer, with offices at 302 Broadway. Nathan Hirsch resigned as Chairman a few days ago after the Mayor had failed to provide funds for the continuation of the work, although he had a few weeks previously promised adequate support. At the same time William Jay Schieffelin, Chairman of the Citizens Union, issued a statement in which he termed the resignation of Mr. Hirsch a "public calamity."

As the other members of the committee, the Mayor appointed Peter J. Brady, Supervisor of the City Record, and Edward I. Hannah, President of the Central Federated Union. The new members are Albert Sokolski, a real estate dealer with offices at 220 Broadway, and Mrs. Oliver Harriman, who was Chairman of the Food Committee of the Mayor's Committee on National Defense, and has also been on the Committee for Relief in the Near East. Since the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering has been functioning, none of the members other than the Chairman has been active in the work.

RAIL LABORERS TALK STRIKE

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Jan. 6.—The Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop Laborers will not allow the return of the railroads to private control until a general wage increase of at least 25 per cent. has been granted to the 350,000 members of the organization, Allen E. Barker, President of the Brotherhood said today. Refusal to grant the increase, he said, will mean a strike.

"I told the Director General of Railroads that week that unless a substantial wage increase was forthcoming we would order a suspension of work," said Mr. Barker. "At President Wilson's request we put our demands in abeyance last August pending Attorney General Palmer's investigation into the high cost of living. The President said if he did not reduce the high cost of living a wage increase would be authorised, but living costs are still going up."

SULGRAVE MEMBERS HOSTS TO BRITONS

DISCUSS MAYFLOWER PLANS

The Sulgrave Institution, whose purpose is to promote better feeling among English-speaking peoples, gave a luncheon yesterday at the Lawyers' Club, 115 Broadway, in honor of Lord and Lady Glenconnor and the Hon. M. Morton Frewen, M. P., who are here on a mission connected with the tercentenary celebration of the sailing of the Mayflower. About fifty persons attended.

The tercentenary celebration will begin on May 1 in England, and will continue until late in July, when the delegates will visit Holland. American delegates, who go to England to attend the celebration there, accompanied by the British delegates, will sail in a chartered ship on Aug. 5 for Provincetown, Mass., where the celebrations will be continued. The celebrations will be concluded in Richmond, Va., some time in September.

John A. Stewart, who is Chairman of the American committee, presided at the luncheon, and welcomed the guests. After speaking of the preparations for the celebration he introduced Lord Glenconnor, who said, in part:

"Is it not a fact that the British Empire is a league of nations? You have a free, democratic Government here. So do we on the other side. Is it necessary to have a hard, fast legal contract in the nature of a league of nations unless we are suspicious of each other? We have passed together through the furnace of war with all its privations, losses and tragedies. The beginning of the nineteenth century and of the twentieth century has found us at peace. Today we are walking in the same road."

Judge Alton B. Parker, who is Chancellor of the Sulgrave Institution in America, replied to Lord Glenconnor's address. He said that there were reasons, and great reasons, why these two great countries should stand together. America some years ago did not think so; neither did Great Britain, he said, but both have learned since. He said that they had learned that great as America is, and great as Great Britain is, they could not face the world forces alone, but that standing together they could face the rest of the world without fear.

Samuel Gompers declared that the British Government had been remiss because it had not taught the American people officially what they did not know of the heart and soul of Great Britain in going to war. There was any quantity of anti-British propaganda, he said, but the British Government had made no effort to counteract this officially; all that was done was done by private societies or organizations.

Others who spoke included Mr. Frewen and James M. Beck. George W. Burleigh, Chairman of the Committee on Entertainment, announced a dinner at the Hotel Astor on Feb. 22, at which Vice President Marshall and British and Dutch officials would be entertained.

Miss Gerli to Wed J. M. Potts.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gerli of 270 Park Avenue gave a dinner dance last evening at the Hotel Biltmore, at which they announced the engagement of their eldest daughter, Miss Agatha Gerli, to James Meckley Potts of this city. Miss Gerli is a graduate of the Veltin School, class of '15. Mr. Potts attended Columbia University, class of '14. He is a former member of Squadron A. The guests at the affair included relatives and intimate friends.

T. A. Strong Marries Mrs. Beales.

T. Shepard Strong and Mrs. Edith A. Beales were married yesterday at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Fellowes Davis, Jr., 430 Park Avenue, by the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Livingston. Owing to the recent death of the bride's mother, Mrs. Joseph Agostini, only the immediate families were present. On their return from the South Mr. and Mrs. Strong will live at 106 East Eighty-fifth Street, this city.

Dinner for Miss Zillah Thompson.

Mrs. George Thompson gave a dinner last night at her house, 162 East Sixty-first Street, for her daughter, Miss Zillah Thompson, afterward taking her guests to the Ritz-Carlton for dancing in the Crystal Room. The Misses Marie Lamarche, Edith Gould, Grace Hendrick, Dorothy Collins, Helen La Fetra, Wilhelmine Ruperti, Marion Gilford, and Helen Pierce were among the guests.

"Zaza" Next Week's Opera Novelty.

Leoncavallo's "Zaza" will be sung for the first time at the Metropolitan on Friday of next week, with a cast including Mmes. Farrar, Howard, Ingram, Egener, Arden and Quintana, Messrs. Crimi, Amato, Picco, Ananian, Malatesta, Laurenti, Audisio, Reschiglian and Paltrinieri, and Mr. Moranzoni conducting. At next Sunday's concert Cantor Rosenblatt will sing. The ninth week of the opera season will include repetitions of "Marta," on Monday, with Caruso, Garrison and De Luca; Wednesday, "L'Amore dei Tre Re," Muzio, Martinelli, Amato, Mardones; Thursday, "Manon Lescaut," Caruso, Alda, Scotti, and a gala Saturday matinee of "The Blue Bird."

WED SCULPTOR NADELMAN.

Mrs. Flannery a Bride a Week When Her Daughter Married.

Announcement is made in another column of the wedding of Elie Nadelman, the Polish sculptor, and Mrs. Viola Flannery, widow of Joseph A. Flannery, of 612 Fifth Avenue and a daughter of the Countess Naselli, who lives in Rome, by her first husband. The engagement was announced in these columns on Christmas Day.

Mrs. Flannery was left a large fortune by her husband. Her daughter, Miss Viola Flannery, was married on Jan. 3 at her mother's residence to Charles Wright Gutteridge, formerly of Montreal, but now of New York. On that day a member of the Flannery family stated that Mrs. Flannery was ill, and that the bride's uncle, Edward Pearson Flannery, would give her in marriage. Mrs. Flannery had at that time been married just a week to Mr. Nadelman.

Mr. Nadelman, though born in Warsaw, has spent much of his life in Paris, where his work attracted attention for its originality. He is about 38 years of age and has been in this country several years.

THEIR WEDDING FILMED.

Miss Mildred Zukor Marries Arthur Marcus Loew at the Ritz.

The marriage of Miss Mildred Harriet Zukor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Zukor, and Arthur Marcus Loew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Loew, took place yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the Crystal Room at the Ritz-Carlton, the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise officiating. A supper and dance for 350 guests followed the ceremony in the large ballroom.

Motion pictures were taken of the ceremony, reception, and dance. The bride's father is President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, and the bridegroom's father is head of the Marcus Loew Theatrical Enterprises.

Blumenthal-Berinstein.

Henry A. Blumenthal, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Blumenthal of 230 West 105th Street, and Miss Rose Berinstein, a daughter of Mrs. I. M. Berinstein of 216 West 100th Street, were married last evening at the St. Regis by the Rev. Dr. Goldstein. The bride wore cloth of silver with silver lace and a tulle veil held with rose point. Her brother, William Berinstein, gave her in marriage, and her sister, Miss Sue Berinstein, was her maid of honor, in cloth of gold, and Mrs. Samuel P. Bouton, a sister of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor, in turquoise blue and gold. Maurice J. Blumenthal was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Samuel P. Bouton, Lawrence Bamberger, Harold Bouton, Eugene Blumenthal, Max Bramson, and George Smith. A reception and dinner followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Blumenthal will go South for their honeymoon.

ALFRED CORTOT CHEERED.

Stokowski Shares in Applause at Philadelphia Orchestra Concert.

Three cities having combined to give New York as many orchestra concerts this week as European capitals often hear in a season, there was rare tumult and shouting at the third visit of the Philadelphia Orchestra last evening in Carnegie Hall. A change of program had dropped the Schumann concerto, twice heard in four days past, for that of Rachmaninoff, No. 3, played two Sundays ago under sensational circumstances by its composer. The present solo pianist was Alfred Cortot, just from France. Mr. Stokowski also conducted Smetana's overture to "The Bartered Bride" and the Symphony No. 5 of Tschaikovsky.

Mr. Cortot was fortunate in the impressive opening of Rachmaninoff's work, its most Russian division; here the player was a prophet transfigured by his theme, while in embroidered episodes of more sensuous beauty but less significance French taste in turn found its chance to speed the music's appeal. The final outburst of drums brought a demonstration. Cortot rose and shook Stokowski's hand; the conductor joined the pianist in other recalls. Then the crowd saw Rachmaninoff making his way out the length of the hall and a roar of cheers repeated the ovation of a fortnight ago for the composer.

Ellen Rumsey, New Singer, Heard.

Ellen Rumsey, a young Boston singer of vivid personality and true instinct for the stage, as well as the perseverance independently to reach her goal, made a successful concert debut last evening in Aeolian Hall. Her voice is best in middle range, sympathetic, warm and bright in quality, used with intelligence and some skill. New airs in old Italian style, some Brahms in English, a French group, and folksongs, from Russian to Welsh, were too varied a task for her present artistic stature; but she sang many of these well and all with unaffected charm that won her large audience. Harry Spier assisted at the piano.

Allen McQuhae, Irish Tenor, Sings.

Allen McQuhae came from Cleveland yesterday to show New York that he had a tenor voise, and an Irish brogue into the bargain, such as might bring a man fame along with singing "Macushla" and "Molly Brannigan." Lack of control of a naturally fine, suave tone, which lost its quality when he sang loud or high or flew off into falsetto, gave pause to a real enjoyment of the young man's best moments. Among his more ambitious songs were Handel's "Where'er You Walk," Beethoven's "Adelaide," in H. E. Krehbiel's English version, and others by Rachmaninoff, C. G. Spross, his accompanist, and Wilson G. Smith.

LORD CUNLIFFE DIES; FAMOUS FINANCIER

HE NEGOTIATED LOAN HERE

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Baron Cunliffe of Headley, Governor of the Bank of England, died suddenly last night.

Lord Walter Cunliffe, who had been recognized for several years as one of England's leading financiers, was chosen in 1914 to act as Governor of the Bank of England during the first year of the war. So successful was his first administration that when his term expired he was re-elected to succeed himself, establishing a precedent, as no other Governor had served for more than one term. He then served until after the signing of the armistice in 1918, when he retired to become Chairman of a committee of experts to consider post-war problems.

In 1915 Lord Cunliffe visited this country with Lord Reading to negotiate the first British war loan in America. At this time he toured the country explaining to bankers the policies of the Bank of England in connection with war loans and other business connected with the war. At the Peace Conference Lord Cunliffe was one of Lloyd George's advisers, and was appointed on May 26 as a member of the reconstructed Committee on Reparations.

Lord Cunliffe was 65 years old. He was educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge. His financial career began as a member of the firm of Cunliffe Bros. In 1895 he was appointed a Director of the Bank of England and served in that capacity until 1911. He was also a Director of the Northeastern Railway Company. In 1911 he was appointed Deputy Governor of the Bank of England and served in this capacity until 1914, when he was elected Governor.

The committee of financial experts of which Lord Cunliffe was Chairman studied financial conditions after the war, and in the Winter of 1918 issued a report stating that they saw no reason for changing the principles of the Bank of England. At this they were in disagreement with Sir Edward Holden, head of the London Joint City and Midland Bank, who would have remodeled the Bank of England after the pattern of the Federal Reserve act of the United States.

EDWARD BRUSH DEAD.

Edward Brush, Vice President of the American Smelting and Refining Co., and for more than forty years actively engaged in the metal business, died yesterday at his home in Greenwich, Conn. Born in Greenwich in 1854, he was graduated in 1874 from the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University. He was Secretary of the Consolidated Kansas City Smelting and Refining Co. from 1888 until 1898, when he served in the same capacity and later as Vice President of the American Smelting and Refining Co.

Edwin F. Howell.

Edwin F. Howell, founder of the Land Bank of the State of New York, died last night at his home, 9 Arlington Place, Brooklyn. He was 65 years old. Mr. Howell was born in Newfoundland. He was brought to New York by the Western Union Telegraph Company and for several years was chief operator in their New York offices.

Edwin W. Shields.

Edwin W. Shields, a member of the Advisory Board of the Grain Trade during the war, died on Saturday at his home in Kansas City. He was 55 years old. Mr. Shields was the President of the Simon-Shields-Lonsdale Grain Company, a member of the New York Stock Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade.

"Crested Jayhawker" of Congress.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 6.—Word received here today announced the sudden death at Garrard last night of John D. White, former representative in Congress from the Eleventh Kentucky District.

Mr. White served several terms in Congress, where he was known as the "crested jayhawker."

The Rev. Rufus B. Tobey.

RIDDLEBORO, Mass., Jan. 6.—The Rev. Rufus B. Tobey, who founded the Boston floating hospital, in which infants of the poor are taken for relief from the heat of tenement districts in the Summer months, died here today.

FEAR FOR NATION'S SCHOOLS

Eastern Education Officers Tell of Grave Lack of Teachers.

That the schools of the country are today facing a crisis as a result of the exodus of thousands of teachers from the classroom into more lucrative fields was the unanimous testimony of public education officials from nine of the Eastern States in a conference held yesterday at the Hotel Astor. In the program for the relief of the situation they urge substantial increases in salaries.

One of the most striking conditions was pointed out that hundreds of schools uty State Commissioner of Education of New York. He said that 1,000 rural communities in New York had been forced to close the schools last year and contract for the education of their children in other towns, because of the lack of teachers. The closing of these rural schools, he added, had resulted in abandoned farms as their tenants moved to larger communities where their children would be assured an adequate education, conditions being especially deplorable in the Adirondacks and Sullivan and Ulster Counties.

Theatrical Notes.

The opening of "Frivolities of 1920," which was to have taken place last night at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, has been postponed until tomorrow.

Mary Nash and Holbrook Blinn will be costarred by William A. Brady in "Man and Woman," a play from the Spanish, by Benjamin F. Glazer and Carlos Bonhomme. Rehearsals are now under way.

George M. Cohan, following his presentation of "The Celebrated Chums," will produce a musical comedy by Otto Hauback and Louis A. Hirsch.

The Provincetown Players will offer a new program on Friday night in their theatre at 133 Macdougal Street. On the program will be "Money," by Irwin Granich; "An Irish Triangle," by Djuna Barnes, and "The Eldest," by Edna Ferber.

Another children's matinee of "Abraham Lincoln" will be given at the Cort Theatre on Wednesday of next week under the auspices of the Drama League.

Kyro, a dancer, has been added to the Century Midnight Whirl.

Individual Responsibility

By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.

"These things are axiomatic," says Mr. Frank E. Campbell, founder of The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street. "Water cannot rise higher than its source."

The result of the great success of The Funeral Church lies in the fact that no one in this great city of ours has an organization of men and women so devoted to their work, hence so efficient, as has Frank E. Campbell.

A funeral arrangement once placed in the hands of Frank E. Campbell relieves the bereaved of every responsibility. If there is anything that could enhance the beautiful service, that could lighten the grief and sorrow of the stricken, I do not know of it.

Relatives and friends of those who were served by the Campbell Institution avail themselves of the Campbell service when necessity arises. They have seen what "Campbell service" means. They have heard the bereaved comforted. They have watched the materials supplied and are convinced that no one outside of Frank E. Campbell can give such exceptional values for so little money.

How has all this been accomplished? Through the individual responsibility of Frank E. Campbell. Nothing escapes his experienced eyes; nothing remains undone that should be done; nothing is ever omitted that could enhance the memory for the demised or that could please those left behind.

Individual Responsibility has made The Funeral Church what it is today—the Nation's Institution for Burials and Cremations, New York's Own Undertaking Establishment.

HARBOR SHAFT HERE TO HONOR NAVY MEN

Daniels Accepts Gift of About $30,000 from Britain as Memorial to Dover Patrol.

FREED CHANNEL OF U-BOATS

Our Forces Played Important Part in Insuring Safety of Troops, Says Secretary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—"As a tribute to the part played by the American forces during the war and to the happy comradeship which existed between the navies," Secretary Daniels announced today, "a sum of £6,000 has been allocated to the American people from the fund recently raised by popular subscription in Great Britain to perpetuate the memory of the Dover patrol and the part it played in safeguarding the English Channel during the war. Acceptance of the generous offer by the Navy Department has been forwarded through the State Department."

The memorial will take the form of a large monolith, erected near the entrance of New York Harbor in plain view of incoming and outgoing vessels.

"The offer was made to the American Ambassador to Great Britain," Secretary Daniels's statement continued. "A committee, headed by the Lord Mayor of Dover, called on him and made a formal tender of the sum with no restriction as to the use to be made of it. The memorial there to the Dover patrol will take the form of monuments erected at Dover and Calais, respectively, as a tribute to the English and French forces.

"The work of this famous patrol was the chief factor in making the Channel the graveyard of so many U-boats and in keeping the stream of troops and supplies moving from England to France. The important part played by the American forces in this was the work of the naval air forces, which from Dunkirk and Killingholme did its share of the patrol work in all sorts of weather, hourly on the lookout for the elusive submarines."

The JORDAN Silhouette Five

EVERYONE knows that the carry-all days of bulk and extravagance in motor cars are passing. The day of the handy-quick-about open car and dominating enclosed type is here.

The world is ready for a really high-grade, compact, lightweight, good-looking, perfectly balanced, rattle-proof, comfortable, and economical motor car with rare ability to perform, and built to serve the owner satisfactorily over a period of years.

This new Silhouette is a brawny, alert companion for those custom style leaders which have made dominant the Jordan good name.

It is a car for the experienced owner who has acquired a sense of real motor car value.

Women with a natural appreciation for comfort, atmosphere, and poise will find this car irresistible in its compelling colors and fashion, comfortable to a delightful degree.

In common with the other new Silhouette models it possesses a new power unit—designed and built exactly to suit such an ideal car. It is a six—assuredly—because that is the world trend of motor design. The six furnishes the greatest power for its weight and simplicity, with the least vibration.

This new Jordan possesses the same sturdy and substantial appearance of the finest heavy cars with the beautiful contour, lightness, lowness and balanced character of the trim, thoroughbred racing job.

In fact every feature—every detail of this car—was determined after an exhaustive study of all cars built in America and abroad.

The passenger capacity of the Silhouette Five is in accord with the average size of the American family, which is five persons.

With such a motor car you may drive as fast as you dare and you experience the sensation of driving quietly within the law. Sit all day at the wheel and you return without fatigue, ready to go again.

This is the first American light car in which Quality dominates Price. The broad general impression one gets driving this Ace of Light Cars is Quality—unstinted and sustained.

For, this is the recognized Jordan ideal.

SENATE DEMOCRATS SPLIT OVER LEADER

McCOOEY FORSAKES MURPHY

Brooklyn Chief Backs Boylan, Hearst Nominee, Against Walker, Tammany Candidate.

THREE SENATORS ABSENT

Republican and Democratic Assemblymen Elect Floor Leaders Without a Hitch.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Confronted with a livelier fight than they had expected against the proposal to elect Senator James J. Walker leader of the Democratic minority in the Upper House, the Democratic Senators, in caucus here tonight to choose minority leader, were forced to adjourn until tomorrow forenoon without accomplishing what they set out to do.

The fight brought about a lineup which reveals a break between Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy and his erstwhile Brooklyn lieutenant, John H. McCooey. William R. Hearst is cut in open opposition to the election of Senator Walker, and McCooey, according to general belief here, due to the promptings of Mayor Hylan, took sides with Hearst against the Tammany leader.

The Democratic Senators from Brooklyn, with one exception, Senator Loring M. Black, Jr., took their stand against Senator Walker and in favor of Senator Daniel J. Carroll of Kings. Mr. Hearst is backing Senator John J. Boylan, who is a Tammany man.

When the Democrat Senators went into caucus tonight nine out of a necessary eleven were lined up with Senator Walker, while the remaining nine present were divided between Senators Carroll and Boylan. There were three absentees. The alignment follows:

For Walker—Senators James J. Walker, Loring M. Black, Jr., of Kings, Peter McGovern of Queens, Herman A. Metz, Irving Abraham Kapsen, Joseph D. Kelly, Salvatore A. Cotillo, and William C. Dodge of New York, and Samuel J. Ramsperger of Erie.

Against Walker—Senators Daniel J. Carroll, Kenneth P. Sutherland, Daniel F. Farrell, Jeremiah F. Twomey and John Charles E. Russell of Kings, John J. Boylan of New York, John J. Dunnegan of the Bronx, John A. Lynch of Richmond and John J. Mackrell of Rensselaer.

There was only one vote taken at the session of the caucus tonight and that was on the question of a recess. The motion made by Senator Sutherland of Kings was adopted by eleven affirmative votes, Senator Walker refraining from voting.

The supporters of Senator Walker assert that the votes of the three absentees will be cast for Senator Walker. Senator Walker, himself, however, did not appear too confident when seen after the session. He said he had no comment to make.

Soon after the recess tonight messages were sent out over the long distance telephone by friends of Senator Walker in order that pressure might be brought to bear on the opposition.

An appeal was made also to President Pro Tem of the Senate J. Henry Walters, who, though the fight from a party point of view is none of his concern, is known to favor the selection of Senator Walker. Later in the evening Senator Walker had a talk with Senator Carroll in an effort to induce him to withdraw as a candidate, but with what result is not known.

Senator Carroll is scarcely looked upon as a serious aspirant for the responsible position of minority leader. Senator Boylan said tonight:

"I am in this fight to stay. I am determined to see it through. I have stepped aside too often in the past. At the last session I was acting leader of the Democratic minority in the Senate all through the protracted illness of Senator Foley. There is no reason why I should be sidetracked now."

The absence of three Democratic Senators from the caucus when it was understood that a fight was to be made on the candidate whom they ostensibly favor was not regarded by their colleagues as a mere coincidence. The opponents of Senator Walker declared tonight that but for the fact that the issue against Senator Walker had been raised by Hearst Boylan would have won.

"As the matter stands the main question involved is whether Hearst is to control the Democratic Party in New York City, and we are bound to see it through," said a Tammany Senator tonight.

The Republican Senators held a conference tonight at which resolutions were adopted providing for a revision of Senate rules to limit debate and to leave less opportunity for protracted filibusters. Under the rules proposed it would be impossible to prolong debate upon any measure beyond seven or eight hours.

On the Assembly side all was serene in the caucuses. Thaddeus C. Sweet of Oswego, one of the Republican aspirants for Governor, was unopposed for the Speakership, and the Republicans renamed Simon L. Adler majority leader, while the Democrats re-elected Charles D. Donohue of New York.

Both factions joined in a reception to the three new Assembly women, Dr. Elisabeth Van R. Gillette of Schenectady (Democrat), and Miss Marguerite L. Smith of New York (Republican).

The only change in the personnel of the Assembly forces is the naming of Edwin Van Cott of Albany official stenographer in the place of Samuel Bruckheimer, also of Albany.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OPENS ALBANY FIGHT

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 6.—The "Dry" lobby established its base of operations for the session at the Capitol tonight when William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, and Robert G. Davey, counsel of the State branch of the league, arrived on the scene.

Mr. Davey said that the Anti-Saloon League had prepared an enforcement bill which in all probability would be presented to the Legislature when it reconvenes next week, or as soon as an introducer for the measure can be found. The spokesman of the league are looking for a lawmaker of influence and ability to handle their legislation this year, but they have some difficulty in finding the sort of man they want, for the victory of Speaker Thaddeus C. Sweet in the fast election against strong opposition by the league and "Wet" victories in some other localities in the local skirmish had the effect of making legislators less eager than they were to become sponsors for Dry legislation.

In the meantime there is much speculation among incoming lawmakers with regard to prospective recommendations by Governor Smith in his annual message with reference to prohibition enforcement. The Governor has refused so far to give the slightest inkling with regard to what he has to say upon the subject.

160,000 Recruits for Army; Infantry Over One-third Full

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—During the last eight months the American Army, according to revised figures made public today, has obtained 159,843 recruits. Those enlisting for one year number 79,978 white and 5,981 colored, while for three years the number enlisting has been 60,854 white and 4,030 colored. The total enlisting for service in the infantry is 58,203, or only 36.4 per cent. of the total needed. In other branches the proportion is much lower.

BLOCK MOVE TO KILL COAL SETTLEMENT

Lewis Rules Out Proposal for Miners to Vote on Finding of Wilson's Commission.

GREEN DEFENDS OFFICIALS

Asserts That Wilson's Letter, If Made Public, Would Have Made Continuing of Strike Impossible.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 6.—Defending himself and Acting President John L. Lewis before the convention here for accepting President Wilson's settlement of the soft coal miners' strike, Williliam Green, International Secretary of the United Mine Workers of America declared the only other alternative was "disaster and defeat for the miners' organization."

"We could have whipped the coal operators but we could not if we had wanted to whip the strongest government on earth—our Government, which had just finished whipping Germany.

"If we had not accepted President Wilson's proposal the powers of the Federal Government would have been turned loose on us with greater ferocity than anything we have ever seen," Green continued. "We knew we had reached the limit," he asserted, as the delegates, with loud applause and cheering, voiced approval of what he said.

"With every mining community in the country honeycombed with Federal agents, gathering evidence against our men, our funds tied up and women and children freezing and facing starvation, how, in the name of God, could we go on with the strike?" Green asked.

Green's speech followed an attempt on the part of some of the delegates, led by Robert H. Harlin, President of the State of Washington miners, to defeat the purpose of the motion by Philip H. Murray of Pennsylvania, to approve the action of the officers by requiring the award which is to be made by the President's commission to be submitted to a referendum vote or to a reconvened convention of the United Mine Workers.

Secretary Green and Acting President Lewis warned the delegates that to do otherwise than to accept the proposal would not be keeping faith with the President's proposal and that the commission might not make any award if the miners should decide to reserve the right to a referendum on the commission's findings. Lewis turned Harlin's amendment out of order.

Both Lewis and Green declared that acceptance of the President's proposal meant that the miners agreed to abide by the decision of the President's commission. Lewis declared the public and the commission are entitled to know whether the operators and the miners will abide by its decision. "If they do not agree to abide by the decision then there can be no arbitration," Lewis said. The President's proposal, Lewis added, was predicated upon his belief that it would be accepted by both parties.

The debate over the Harlin amendment and the speech of Secretary Green clarified the convention situation and developed the real point of the convention, which is to accept or reject the President's proposal to arbitrate. Lewis will address the convention tomorrow and then the delegates will vote on the motion to affirm the action of the officers.

It was made clear to the delegates that the officers of the international organization, the international executive board and scale committee have already accepted the proposal after being convinced of the futility of carrying on a strike which, they declared, had resolved itself into one "against the Government and not against the coal operators."

The decision to give up the fight to carry out the policies laid down by the Cleveland convention was reached at the Washington conference with Attorney General Palmer and Secretary Tumulty, Green said.

"A letter prepared by the President was read at that conference," said Green, "which, if it had been given out to the public would have resulted in such a rising tide of public sentiment against the mine workers that the public would have applauded if we had been taken out and shot. We knew what the Government meant and we knew when we had reached our limit.

"We were told that if the miners would obey the requirements of the Federal Government the President would see to it that a fair commission was appointed to consider our case and that he would guarantee that equal justice would be obtained.

"After Dr. Garfield got mad and quit his job because he didn't like the President's proposal, I knew we had made no mistake in accepting it."

Green charged that former Fuel Administrator Garfield had been "serving the operators faithfully and well," and do not believe he would have resigned unless he had seen dynamite in this proposal," he continued. "Garfield told us more than a year ago when we asked for an increase that the operators could not afford to pay it out of their profits, but when backed into a corner he admitted that they could stand a 14 per cent. advance out of their profits without increasing the selling price of coal."

Green said he hoped the commission, which now has all the powers of the former Fuel Administrator, would find the profits of the operators were so high that they could grant a further increase without increasing the price of coal to the public.

WANT GOVERNMENT AID IN WHISKY DISPOSAL

Distillers Don't Know What to Do with 60,000,000 Gallons in Bond.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 6.—George F. Deiterle, Cincinnati distiller, has been authorized to appoint a committee to go to Washington and discuss with the Federal officials the problem of disposing of the bonded whisky in the United States. This was announced at the close of a meeting of one hundred distillers from all sections of the country here today.

Of the total of 60,000,000 gallons of bonded whisky in the United States 35,000,000 gallons are in warehouses in Kentucky. No way of disposing of this immense quantity of liquor, valued at hundreds of millions of dollars, has been provided by Congress, except by exportation, and even that will be prohibited after Jan. 16.

COURIER'S LETTERS ASSAIL RIGA REDS

HELD UP BY "COMRADE"

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

RIGA, Jan. 4.—The following extracts from letters from the Russian courier to Moscow throw considerable light on the workings of the Bolshevist machine for the spread of propaganda.

The first letter, sent a few weeks after his arrival, was, he states in a later communication, opened and read by a loyal comrade to whom he intrusted it and withheld by him—to be finally seized with other documents—in consequence of the writer's criticism of the local organization. The letter runs:

"I arrived all right after a very difficult journey owing to the fact that the guides did not know the way. We crossed the river successfully, but after that the guides knew nothing. Neither they nor we [the man refuses information regarding the other members of his party] had the slightest idea where we were and only luck saved us.

"They said, too, there was an information post on this side of the river, but there was nothing of the sort. You must get other comrades as guides who know the way properly and must also smarten up the whole organization and see that they are able to give proper information. It is also necessary to pay more attention to the question of the couriers themselves. No one should be sent on moonlight nights and only light baggage should be taken. They must have better and warmer clothes and should be well supplied with funds, not less than 2,000 Czar rubles apiece as a minimum. This would also support the courier if he got delayed. I have seen several here in this position.

"For instance, Comrade Anna Osol. She has been twice arrested and put in a concentration camp, but secured her release through the influence of Comrade ——. Now she is hungry and ill-clad and cannot get work. Some of these blackguards here have insulted her and said it is her own fault she cannot get work. It's really horrible that comrades should so insult a comrade. I tell you these facts in order that you should set matters right.

"In Riga our brethren are slack and there is much dissension among them, which stultifies all effort. They cannot even get permits to Libau, not to speak of more important things. I have now been here six weeks and not advanced owing to their inefficiency. I am now trying to get a pass for myself and expect to leave in a few days, as there is nothing I can do here."

A second letter runs:

"I have the following information to communicate to you. Our comrades in Riga are very surprised. They won't help us who come from Russia and tell us to go to hell. They avor that comrades from Russia are no good, but their real reason is that they are afraid of 'agents provocateurs.' It is quite true, as I know one very clever one operating here. The result is that many comrades from Russia have fared badly here and some of them are in prison.

"All the same, it is too bad the Riga comrades do not give better assistance. It is necessary that you should protest this matter with a view to bringing about a better state of affairs and also you should make considerable changes in personnel.

"The above information I got first hand from an absolutely reliable source and have already sent a letter on the subject to Rezziza."

Rezziza is the chief town of Letgalia, the eastern portion of Latvia still in the hands of the Reds. It has long been known to be one of the chief centres of the propaganda news and courier service between the outside world and Soviet Russia.

A third letter says:

"Circumstances here are very difficult, as there is a strong reactionary feeling at present. [This was written shortly after the Bermondt affair.] But that is not all. There are terrible intrigues and dissensions among our brethren here, with consequent stoppage of all useful activity. I do not even know whether you receive my letters, so bitter are the internal quarrels. I know my first letter was opened and read by a local comrade to whom I gave it for transportation and he promptly withheld it.

"You see, during the siege here many of our comrades were arrested and their places taken by others, old members of the party but new to such work. They began quarreling among themselves. And then, too, most of the old members of the party are known to the police and their activities are consequently limited. But they are jealous of others and will not allow any one else to do the work which they are unable to perform themselves. The result is stagnation even in local work, not to mention the sort of activity we require.

"I met —— here, who is also going to New York. We expect to leave together in a few days for Libau, where I will arrange passage for him on a ship to New York."

I may add that to date —— has not been apprehended, but the local authorities believe he is still in the country.

G. B. SHAW PROTESTS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The Daily News publishes a letter from George Bernard Shaw with regard to the reference in that paper to "the article by Mr. Shaw published in The New York American, in which he condemns Federal evolution as an inadequate solution of the Irish problem."

Shaw complains that the English press paid no attention to the article when it originally appeared in Horace Plunkett's weekly review, The Irish Statesman, and adds:

"But now that, as I have just ascertained, some enterprising pirate has sold it as a novelty to The New York American, which no doubt believed that it was dealing with me, it is quoted under a sensational headline as a contribution by me to a hostile newspaper."

Shaw laments that another article by him has been attracting attention since it was republished in a Viennese paper and says:

"In future when I wish to impress English opinion I shall send my views to foreign newspapers."

Clemenceau Tells Nitti He Will Accept French Presidency if "Boosted" Into It

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—La Victoire declares today that Premier Clemenceau told Premier Nitti of Italy that he would accept the Presidency of France. This newspaper hears that in reply to Signor Nitti's question, M. Clemenceau answered:

"I have not presented my candidacy, but if I am boosted into the Presidency I shall accept."

In the meanwhile workmen are busy preparing the stage at the Palace of Versailles for the election, which will take place Jan. 17, on that day the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies will meet in joint session to name the new chief of the republic.

DECLARES GERMANY HEADED FOR FAMINE

Former Food Chief Predicts Starvation for Berlin, Dresden and Leipzig.

BLAMES THE GOVERNMENT

Berlin Authorities Talk with Ebert About the Potato and Flour Shortage.

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—Germany is heading for famine, despite reassuring statements made by the Government, it is asserted by former Under-Secretary von Braun, who five years ago was directing the official National Food Bureau. He predicts a repetition in Germany of the tragedy which is now being enacted at Vienna, and that Berlin, Dresden, Leipsic, and the western industrial section will witness the same rate of mortality unless the Government puts a halt to the heedlessness which characterizes the whole Food Administration.

Herr von Braun sees relief only in the direct union of producer and consumer, as the Government, in his opinion, is unable to solve the situation. He charges that official declarations are mischievous, in that they are misleading abroad, and create an especially wrong impression in the United States.

"We are heading directly for an abyss which will prove the graveyard of millions, unless we turn about," is the warning he issues.

The municipal heads of Greater Berlin called on President Ebert today to inform him of the threatened collapse of the flour and potato supplies of the capital, which, during the last week, were considerably curtailed, owing to the difficulties of transportation. The Ministers of Economics and Agriculture and an official of the Food Bureau, who were present at the conference, gave assurance to the city authorities that the Government was cognizant of the situation, and was taking active measures to forestall a curtailment or shortening of bread and potato rations.

They asserted that sufficient deliveries had been vouchsafed to protect the populace until the middle of February. They also expressed the hope that the payment of an added premium for wheat deliveries would prevent in the future the necessity to alter the established ration.

The threatened general food strike throughout Germany, fixed for today, was postponed, but the negotiations with the Government have made no progress. The hotel and restaurant keepers in Berlin, however, are forming an organization of all the hostelries in Germany to prepare for the general strike, according to the National Zeitung.

Several restaurants have been closed because they sold white rolls without cards, and the Government in other ways has thrown back the gauntlet cast down by the strikers in December. The Ashinger restaurants are beginning to close their branches. Within a fortnight five will be closed, and others will be closed later in groups of five if conditions do not improve. Each group shut down means nearly 300 managers and waiters out of work.

APPEAL TO AMERICAN WIVES AND MOTHERS

Baron Eichoff Begs Them Not to Let 7,000,000 Souls in Austria Perish.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—"The last recourse of Austria is to appeal to the American people not to leave seven million souls to perish most miserably," said Baron Eichoff, head of the Austrian delegation, today.

"I wish to say to the wives and mothers of America, in behalf of the wives and mothers of Austria, whose pride always has been large families, that they today stand in terror of maternity because of the agonizing conditions under which the new generation is being born. Still-birth is welcomed in Austria as a Providential deliverance from the woe of infancy and from a miserable future.

"Austria appeals to American wives and mothers, to every woman who hopes some day to be a mother, and to every man who hopes to be father, not to let the children of Austria be born to starve or to a life of wretchedness."

"This is not an appeal to charity. Austria will pay every cent of a loan, with interest. All she asks is for a chance to exist.

"Austria, living on half rations, can exist until the end of January. The question now is, Are the people to be allowed after that date to perish in the most frightful anarchy the world has ever seen?"

The Baron said the American Government had not refused a request for credit necessary to buy food, but he had been given semi-officially to understand that the Government was unable to do anything without Congressional authority.

Transportation delays are making the coal situation in Vienna daily more acute, according to advices from the French minister in that city.

Relief trains intended to relieve the shortage have been held up by heavy snowfalls, so that Vienna is now completely cut off from the rest of the world. Three thousand French cars are being sent to Czechoslovakia in order to insure the delivery of coal to Austria.

VIENNA, Jan. 5 (Via Geneva).—The leader of the Hungarian peace delegation, Count Apponyi, passing through Vienna on his way to Paris, stated to me that consideration would have to be given to the question whether the conclusion of peace was possible with America, the latter having withdrawn from the conference, or whether a separate peace would not be necessary with that country because America was not adhering to Wilson's principles.

He added that the moral obligation of America, however, was not extinct, and expressed keen regret at her withdrawal.

PAPER SHORTAGE

There are many trees in the forests but insufficient labor and machinery to convert them into paper pulp. The result is a shortage of newsprint paper.

Advertisers are asked to reduce space so that the announcements of all may be accommodated.

Because of the scarcity of newsprint paper The New York Times must restrict the number of pages, in consequence of which 37 columns of advertising are omitted today.

SPLIT ON RETURNS IN CUMMINS BILL

EACH SIDE ORGANIZES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Section 6 of the Cummins Railroad bill, now in conference in Congress, has divided the ranks of the railway executives of the country, one faction opposing the fixed rate returns and excess profits reduction provisions, and the other favoring them. As a result, two groups of railway lawyers will appear before the conference Committee.

Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio, and Howard Elliott, President of the Northern Pacific, took opposite sides at a meeting of the general conference of railroad executives here yesterday.

Mr. Willard spoke for the section, saying it was constructive legislation, and that if it was not accepted Government ownership would be probable.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. Elliott stipulating that the Chairman of the Association of Railway Executives appoint a committee which would confer with other organizations with a view to obtaining harmonious procedure in the legislative situation. Robert S. Lovett, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Union Pacific, offered an amendment, which was adopted, specifying that no railroad should be affected on the question of excess earnings without its consent.

A meeting of the general counsel of the railroads in the executive association was called today by A. P. Thom, general counsel for the association, to organize for combating Section 6, and a committee was appointed for this purpose, headed by Colonel S. C. Neale. When the session was over another conference was called to organize a body which would support Section 6, headed by Hugh L. Bond, Jr., general counsel for the Baltimore & Ohio.

IRISH MAGISTRATE REPULSES RAIDERS

Exchanges Shots, Wounding One, Who Is Arrested—Forty Sinn Feiners on Hunger Strike.

DUBLIN, Jan. 6.—At Scariff, County Clare, Magistrate Hibbert's house was raided by armed men last night. A maid was wounded. The Magistrate exchanged fire with the raiders, wounding one, who later was arrested.

The police barracks at Roundstone, Galway, were attacked last night, but the raiders were repulsed, with two wounded.

DUBLIN, Jan. 6.—Great excitement was caused in Dublin tonight by the news that Bartle Kelly, brother of Peter Kelly, who keeps the halfway house at Ashtown, had been arrested this afternoon. It will be remembered that on the day when the attack on Lord French was made Martin Savage, who was shot on that occasion, had been drinking a glass of port in a public house just before Lord French's train arrived. The public house itself stands at the cross roads where the attempt was made to hold up Lord French's motor car. A military lorry containing two detectives and a soldier drove up to the public house this afternoon. Bartle Kelly, who assists his brother in business, was in the house at the time and was taken away by the detectives in the lorry.

The police this morning arrested James J. Hooey, Superintendent of the New Ireland Insurance Company, which company's offices were raided on Saturday afternoon.

Cornelius Omahoney of Aghiohill, County Cork, has been sentenced by the district court-martial to six months' imprisonment with hard labor for having seditious documents in his possession. Among these was a copy of the official organ of the Irish Volunteers which her responsible Government that the state of war between this country and England shall be perpetuated until the foreign garrison have evacuated our country. All those engaged in carrying on the English administration in this country must be made to realise that it is not safe for them to carry on in opposition to the Irish Republican Government and the declared wishes of the people. In particular, any policeman, soldier, Judge, warder, or other official from the English Lord Lieutenant downward, must be made to understand that it is not wise for him to distinguish himself by undue zeal in the service of England in Ireland nor in his opposition to the Irish Republic."

"It is the will of Ireland expressed by contained the following passages:

So much has this city been at the mercy of night marauders that a section of police chief business men have decided to follow the example set by the farmers of West Limerick, who are adopting the plan of employing civil patrols to protect their properties pending the organization of special constables for the city, which work is being carried out as rapidly as possible.

Dublin property owners representing large interests have, under the auspices of the City Improvement Association, combined in a campaign of self-protection against the numerous burglaries which are being committed throughout Dublin.

An influential deputation, with Sir John Irwin as Chairman, waited today on the authorities, and a specific plan of campaign was approved and arranged and will be put into operation forthwith in the area which includes the western section of Cornell Street and its adjoining thoroughfares, where there are numerous important business firms, several of which have been lately receiving attention from gangs of expert burglars.

It is expected that similar action will be followed by the property owners in other sections of terror, as well as southern areas of the city. Residential portions of Dublin are badly in need of some such protection. It is of interest to note that in all sections Sinn Feiners, Nationalists, and Unionists, are in this new combine to combat night prowlers who have spread terror among householders in outlying districts.

CORK, Jan. 6.—Forty Sinn Fein prisoners in the Cork Jail began a hunger strike today, as a protest against the discrimination shown by the authorities in the ameliorative treatment promised them. Some of these prisoners already have been tried, while others are awaiting trial.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—British temperance advocates appear to be much more alarmed by the threatened campaign of the American Anti-Saloon League in this country than the brewers and distillers, although these latter are girding up their loins for what they recognize will be a stiff fight. One of the leaders of the United Kingdom Alliance, who is sanguine enough to believe that England can be converted by 1930, insists that the worst thing that could happen to the cause would be a hurricane campaign financed by American dollars. He says it would provoke opposition that might easily kill the whole idea of advanced temperance reform. Personally, he thinks all intoxicating liquor is poison, but the last thing the average Englishman wants, he says, is American advocates or American dollars to teach him what to drink or when to drink it.

In the next Parliamentary session the Government is expected to produce a new licensing bill which temperance men hoped would be useful to their cause, but they now fear political expediency will limit the bill's restrictions. Meanwhile, among comments grave and gay evoked by the reports of American intentions, pride of place must be given to an article in The Morning Post by a special correspondent, who writes:

Cites Bolshevism as Dry Result.

"Were it not that the United States of America has herself gone dry, it might be thought that the fund of £10,000,000 was raised there to inflict all the horrors of drought on this British empire. The Ottoman Empire was run as a dry institution. Now, after the most tediously protracted funeral rites the final interment of that dry empire is close at hand. The unhappy Russian Empire, in an outburst of war patriotism, went dry and Bolshevism took the place of vodka.

"At one time the wizard of Wales contemplated prohibition as a war measure in Great Britain, but promptly took that measure out of mothballs. Robert, with all his faults, he really did want to win the war. But seeing that the United States—with what reason we know not and may only guardedly accept the tentative explanation that Mr. President Wilson is enough of a drive not to drink—has herself gone dry, her campaign to make the British Empire dry cannot fit in with the theory that she is seeking to take our life unless it is that she is so madly in love with our beaux yeux that she contemplates we should commit suicide together and together leave this wicked world. It is probable that for the real reason one must go back to Aesop and his eternally true fable of the tailless fox. It is easy to understand that the nation which is dry should aspire to make other nations dry. It must be cruelly annoying for a fox without a tail to see the brushes on other foxes.

Links Drink With Prosperity.

"If America undertakes the hopeless cause of her prohibition fanatics in putting down dollars to make the British Empire a dry State they do so because this is the key position. Precisely as the British Empire is the great home of the moderate drinker and the place of welcome for all good drinkers of the earth, also it is the most efficient and most prospering national organization. Just as the Turkish Empire is the most inefficient and derelict. Indeed, the association between nations which use alcoholic liquor wisely and gain prosperity and between the nations which take to opium, bhang, cocaine, Bolshevism, morphia or any other of the alternatives and misery, is so close and so constant that it is hard to imagine any nation in its senses deliberately incurring the threatening perils of drought.

"It is possible that a dry nation can hold its own very obligingly while another State is trying the experiment, but one must have grave misgivings in view of the records of history and of what we know of physiological science. It seems to be almost the only certainty in a universe when so few things are certain and even a straight line is more or less an illusion, that human nature in going to some mild stimulant, now some mild sedative. Alcohol comes to man carrying both in its amphora. It can give a fillip to our tired energies. It can give rest to our jagged nerves. True, it is like a mercenary force which should be employed with precaution and never allowed to assume mastery or to camp. But used wisely it is one of man's most valuable servants and there is as yet no record of a civilization built up without its aid. Let us wait a hundred years and see how dry America fares."

ITALO-BRITISH PARLEYS ACHIEVING RESULTS

Belief Expressed in London That Considerable Progress Has Been Made.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Premier Nitti, Foreign Minister Scialoia, and the Italian Ambassador in London met Premier Lloyd George, Earl Curzon, and Andrew Bonar Law at 10 Downing Street this morning. Although the discussion was more in the nature of an informal conversation than a conference, such progress was made that it is now certain that Mr. Lloyd George and the Italian plenipotentiaries will go to Paris Thursday. There the clear-cut proposals brought by Signor Nitti for the solution of the Fiume difficulty will be put before the Interallied Conference.

Although no agreement arrived at in London is necessarily binding on the Paris conference, the exchange of views here is understood to have cleared the air. Before d'Annunzio's coup the proposal that Fiume should be placed under the League of Nations for a term of years found favor both with Italians and Jugoslavs as a temporary expedient, and it is probable that some arrangement of this kind will be agreed to in Paris, thereby removing the whole question from the realm of controversy for a period after which the doctrine of self-determination may be brought into play.

LUDENDORFF PREDICTS RUIN

Not Only to Germany, but All Europe, from Allies' Treatment of Foes.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Disaster threatens Europe "as a result of the policy adopted by the allied nations," in the opinion of General Ludendorff, former Commander in Chief of the German armies, an interview with whom is printed in today's Matin. General Ludendorff refused to talk on the internal situation in Germany created by the Versailles Treaty, when asked to do so by the newspaper's Berlin correspondent.

"After the shameful treatment which Germany has endured from the Entente," he said, "I must refuse to publish anything in the Entente press. If in our final ruin, which is coming, the Entente nations are dragged along with us they will have some to blame except themselves. Sooner or later a terrible catastrophe will strike Europe, and it will be because of the short-sighted policy of the Entente."

All Barcelona Papers May Suspend.

BARCELONA, Jan. 6.—All the newspapers will suspend publication on Jan. 15, if the situation regarding the shortage of paper does not improve in the meantime.

Americans Head Berlin's List of Late Enemy Tourists

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—The United States is first on the list of former belligerents represented in the tourist statistics at Berlin, where in the month of December 357 Americans registered. France is second with 280, and England third with 218. Foreigners to the number of 112,171 reported to the police last month.

THREE POLICEMEN ACCUSED IN A DAY

Police happenings yesterday included the arrest or the arraignment of two policemen and the suspension of a third, each charged with an offense against the law. Joseph Sweetnan, acting detective sergeant, attached to the Union Market Station, was brought before United States Commissioner McCabe in Brooklyn and held in bail on a charge of having impersonated a Federal officer. The charge was based on a report that the detective had volunteered his willingness to accept $500 in return for agreeing not to gather evidence regarding the ownership of three demijohns of rum and two cases of gin. Policeman William Knote of the Poplar Street Station, Brooklyn, was suspended from duty pending the investigation of a charge that he literally had held up an automobilist and demanded money. The third policeman in trouble was John Torney, also of Brooklyn, who was accused of having feloniously assaulted his wife.

Sweetnan was arrested by United States Marshal James M. Power. According to the story told by the Federal officers and others, Sweetnan stopped an automobile at Ninety-sixth Street and Madison Avenue and demanded from Arthur Clark and Benjamin Friedman of Greenwich the name of the owner of the liquor which the car contained. Friedman said it belonged to his brother-in-law, J. G. Felman, of 357 Third Street, Brooklyn. The information did not satisfy the policeman and, Friedman said, it was decided to return to that Borough and have Felman corroborate the story.

On the way back, Friedman said, Sweetnan said he was a Federal officer. Friedman also said the detective intimated that the trouble could be avoided by the payment of $500. Friedman determined to pay the money, but said he explained to Sweetnan that he would have to get it from his brother-in-law. The trio drove to Brooklyn. Felman promised to get the money, Friedman said.

Felman Sees Federal Prosecutor.

Instead of going out to get the money, however, Felman went to United States District Attorney Leroy W. Ross and told him of the policeman's alleged demand. United States Marshal Power, some of his aids, and a representative of the department were called into conference, and Felman was instructed to go back to the store and give Sweetnan the money. Instead of giving $500, however, he was instructed to put a marked five-dollar bill in an envelope.

Followed by Federal agents, the merchant went back to Third Street. There he met Friedman and Clark, he said, who told him in detail just what had happened. Then he went out to the car where Sweetnan was sitting. The Federal officers came across the street.

Sweetnan denied that he either had accepted or demanded money. He explained that he really was a policeman and that he was acting in the line of his duty. He said also that he never had said he was in the Federal employ. The marked $5 was found on the floor of the car.

Sweetnan is 25 years old and lives at 828 Hart Street, Brooklyn. He has been in the Police Department for several years and before going to Union Market station was attached to the Madison Street station and the automobile squad. No evidence was brought out as to how he came to stop Clark and his automobile in Madison Avenue.

Alleges Demand for Money.

The complainant against Policeman Knote was Moses Finkelstein, owner of a radiator repair shop at 259 Bridge Street, Brooklyn. He said that on Sept. 11 last Knote, in civilian clothes, stopped his automobile and demanded money. Finkelstein said he arranged with the policeman to meet him next day at his shop. They met, he said, but he again put off making payment. The next day there was a detective in the room when he met Knote. A marked five-dollar bill had been put in an envelope, but Knote refused to accept it. Both the complainant and the detective agreed on this.

In his defense Knote denied the charge. He has been on the force for two years, and formerly was a ttached to the staff of Inspector Thomas V. Underhill on the east side in Manhattan.

Patrolman John Torney, who lives at 243 Kemp Street, Brooklyn, was held in $1,000 bail for a hearing Jan. 9 by Magistrate Fish in the Bridge Plaza Court, Brooklyn, on a charge of felonious assault. The complaint was made by his wife, Mrs. Mary Torney, who alleges in her affidavit that he beat her with a blackjack and seized her by the throat.

She made application for a warrant for his arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct. While the warrant was being made out she fainted and some of the court attendants revived her. It was then noticed that she was badly bruised and the charge was changed to felonious assault.

BENEFITS FOR PARIS CHORUS

Opera Workers Announce Performances to Aid Their Strike Fund.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Following the example of the New York theatrical strikers, the chorus of the Paris Opera announces a series of performances during their strike at the labor headquarters auditorium. The receipts of these performances will go into the strike fund.

The Opéra is still closed, as the musicians and mechanics went on strike in sympathy with the chorus girls. The chorus was promised a wage increase on the first of January, but the Chamber of Deputies cut the appropriation out of the Government's financial program, and when the chorus did not get its new year increase it walked out.

PROTOCOL SIGNING SET FOR SATURDAY

TREATY IN FORCE MONDAY

Supreme Council Has Some Hopes of Making It Effective as Early as Saturday.

A PLEBISCITE DIFFICULTY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—The Supreme Council announced today that the Treaty of Versailles would be put into effect next Saturday. Today had been set for the ceremony, but the negotiations with the Germans could not be concluded in time.

The hope of the Council to stage the ceremony on Saturday is based upon Baron von Lersner's statement that he will sign the protocol, since the Allies have reduced their demands for the Scapa Flow payment. No official reply has been received from Berlin; but Baron von Lersner is confident that he will be supported.

General Legrond for the Allies, and Herr von Simson for the Germans, have agreed on almost all the plebiscite arrangements, and both von Simson and von Lersner said this morning that they believed the treaty could be put into effect Saturday. At any rate, it appears likely that the protocol can be signed on that day.

The Supreme Council adjourned today until Thursday afternoon, by which time Baron von Lersner said he expected a final reply from Berlin authorizing him to sign the protocol and deposit Germany's ratification of the Peace Treaty.

The Supreme Council this morning received a communication from Germany asking that the allied forces to be sent into Upper Silesia to arrange for a plebiscite be reduced by 25 per cent. in order to lower the cost to Germany. Marshal Foch advised the Council to reply that this request would be met, inasmuch as the American forces which were to have constituted 25 per cent. of the allied troops in Upper Silesia would not go. Nevertheless, these soldiers will be held on the Rhine as part of the American Army of Occupation, and Germany will have to pay for their upkeep just as if they were sent to Silesia.

At the request of Czechoslovakia, some of whose nationals are concerned, the Council instructed the allied military commission in Budapest to intervene in behalf of certain "moderate Communists," who have been sentenced to death for their participation in Bela Kun's reign of terror in Hungary. A good many executions have taken place, and hundreds more are said to be scheduled. It is understood to be the contention of the Czechoslovaks that the present Government in Budapest was overzealous in punishing men said to have been Bela Kun's lieutenants, and that injustice has been done. The Allies ask for delay pending an investigation.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—It is reported in diplomatic quarters that, while it will not be impossible for the exchange of ratifications to take place Saturday, the date tentatively fixed by the Supreme

YANKEES' TERMS SATISFY BABE RUTH WHO WILL SIGN LATER

BABE RUTH ACCEPTS TERMS OF YANKEES

Fans in Hub Resent Transfer of Home Run King—Frazee Gives Explanation of Sale.

Babe Ruth, the Colossus of Swat, has signed his name to a document promising to play with the Yankees next season. Manager Miller Huggins, who went to Los Angeles to sign the player, wired President Jacob Ruppert yesterday that he had talked with Ruth and that the home run slugger had signed an agreement to play here. Manager Huggins's message also said that Ruth was very much pleased with the transfer that brought him to New York and would be delighted to play here next Summer. Huggins left California last night for New York.

Just what agreement Ruth has signed is not known by the officials of the New York club. That he has not yet signed a contract is certain from Huggins's telegram. It is believed to be a tentative agreement that he will sign a contract at a certain time. Ruth expects to leave for the East next Monday, and his new contract probably will be signed in New York. He demanded a contract calling for $20,000 a year from Boston and this figure will undoubtedly be the basis of the new contract which the Yankees will give him. According to Huggins's message, however, there is no question that Ruth is pleased with the change and is glad to join the New York club.

The purchase of Ruth for the record price of $125,000 was the topic of conversation along Broadway yesterday and baseball fans of all ages and sizes already see a chance for the Yankees to land the 1920 pennant. Manhattan's fondest dream of having a world's series at the Polo Grounds between the Giants and Yankees now becomes a tangible thing and that is the big event which New York fans will be rooting for all next Summer.

The two Colonels—Ruppert and Huston—were praised on all sides for their aggressiveness and liberality in landing baseball's greatest attraction. If the club strengthened by Ruth and by other players the owners have in mind, does not carry off the flag, it will not be the fault of the owners.

As Boston Views Deal.

Boston is duly shocked at the sale of Ruth and there is a wide difference of opinion about its effect on the game in the Hub. The newspapers yesterday had cartoons showing a "For Sale" sign on the Boston Public Library and on the Boston Common. They also picture Fenway Park, the home of the Red Sox, in darkness, with a sign "Building Lots for Sale."

Two Bostonians prominent in Hub baseball in the past, Fred Tenney and Hugh Duffy, are quoted as saying that the sale of Ruth is a good thing for the Red Sox and that it will be a better club without him. Tenney says: "I agree with Frazee, for he knows his own business. A team is as strong as its weakest link. A player that fits an organization is of more value than any star not working in harmony with his club. With the passing of Tris Speaker the fans at the outset figured his loss would be fatal to the Red Sox, but the club went along winning ball games. No ball player is indispensable to a team."

Hughey Duffy says: "A star not fitting in and working in harmony with his mates is of less value to a club than two or three high-grade players even though none had the ability of the big luminary. Star ball players do not make a winning team. Players of ordinary ability working for the interest of the club are greater factors in the winning machine than the individual."

Boston's Royal Rooters are pretty badly disturbed over Ruth's sale. Johnny Keenan, leader of the Royal Rooters, had this to say: "Ruth was 90 per cent. of our club last Summer. It will be impossible to replace the strength Ruth gave the Sox. The Batterer is a wonderful player and the fact that he loves the game and plays with his all to win makes him a tremendous asset to a club. The Red Sox management will have an awful time filling the gap caused by his going. Surely the gate receipts will suffer."

Frazee Discusses Sale.

In a statement given out in Boston President Frazee tells why he sold Ruth: "Ruth had become simply impossible and the Boston Club could no longer put up with his eccentricities," said Frazee. "While Ruth, without question, is the greatest hitter that the game has ever seen, he is likewise one of th most selfish and inconsiderate men that ever wore a baseball uniform. Had he possessed the right disposition, had he been willing to take orders and work for the good of the club like the other men on the team, I would never have dared let him go. Twice during the past two seasons Babe has jumped the club and revolted. He refused to obey orders of the manager."

Ruth's case in Boston is something like that of Carl Mays. Often players remain with one club too long and all that is needed is a change. When Mays joined the Yankees he was a different ball player and never caused any trouble. It will probably be the same with Ruth for a change is probably just what he needs.

Frazee says that the Yankees were the only ball club which could have bought Ruth. "Had they been willing to trade players," says the Boston owner, "I would have preferred the exchange, but to make a trade for Ruth Huggins would have had to wreck his ball club. They could not afford to give me the men I wanted. Ruth's great value did not appeal to all the club owners. I could not get Joe Jackson for him in trade and I know of at least two other stars that Ruth could not have been traded for."

The Boston Post is deeply touched by the sale of Ruth and says editorially: "The sale of Babe Ruth to the New York Yankees will be a tremendous blow to the army of loyal fans who have stuck to the Red Sox through thick and thin, through good seasons and bad. Boston fans are bound to be disgruntled. A great star today is, generally speaking, above a mere purchase price. The Red Sox roster today contains very few men whose services are sufficiently in demand to warrant other clubs giving up tried and true players in barter. What few players of this calibre are now numbered among the Red Sox must, it would surely seem, be retained if the club, now that Ruth is gone, is to keep from crowding the Athletics for eighth place in 1920. This is not the first time that Boston baseball has been shocked by the sale of a wonderful player—Young and Tris Speaker went their ways, much to the disgust of the faithful, but the club did not suffer materially. But Ruth is different. He is of a class of ball players that flashes across the firmament once in a great while and who alone bring crowds to the park, whether the team is winning or losing."

Should Reserve Judgment.

The Boston Herald asks the Boston fans to reserve judgment on the deal. It says: "Stars generally are temperamental. This goes for baseball and the stage. They often have to be handled with kid gloves. Frazee has carefully considered the Ruth angle and believes he has done the proper thing. Boston fans undoubtedly will be up in arms but they should reserve judgment until they see how it works out."

Just as soon as Ping Bodie, the centre fielder of the Yankees, read about the Ruth purchase he hurried over from the New Jersey shipyard where he is working and wanted to know all about it. "I suppose this means," said Ping, "that I will be sent to China." Bodie hasn't signed his contract for next season and he made it known yesterday that he would like a boost in salary to meet the advance in cost of everything in general.

HUGGINS ON WAY HOME.

Huggins said that he and Ruth had come to satisfactory terms, and everybody was satisfied. He declined to state just what sum was paid to the Boston club for Ruth, but said it was about $125,000.

Ruth, according to Huggins, had expressed his satisfaction with the change, and said he would try to break his batting record this season for New York.

SCOTT PERRY COMING BACK.

Boxman Who Left Athletics Last Season Will Rejoin Club.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 6.—Scott Perry, the Franklin, Pa., bushelman, who hurdled the Athletics near the close of last season, has decided to make another jump. He's going to jump back into the American League from the tailor circuit. No more sewing on buttons and other odd jobs about a tailor shop for Perry.

Perry received a 1920 contract from Connie Mack, who figured he might as well waste a 2-cent stamp on Perry. It has developed, however, that it was not a waste of postage to mail a contract to Perry. The former pitching ace has communicated with Mack. Result, Perry received so much encouragement from the leader of the A's and the pitcher in turn showed so much interest in the matter of returning to the big show that he decided to come to see Mack.

Discussion of the Babe Ruth deal was more agreeable to Mack than any mention of the Perry case.

"The sale of Ruth to the Yankees is a good thing for baseball all around," said the sage of Lehigh Avenue. "Ruth is just the man the Yankees needed to put the necessary punch in their battle array to make them a real contender for the pennant.

"Ruth will be a more valuable man to the Yankees than he would have been to the Red Sox. As a matter of fact, New York needed him more than Boston. The Red Sox are well fortified with outfielders. They have a well-balanced club. The fact that Ruth made such unusual demands on the Boston Club would indicate that he had tired of playing there. It was better to get rid of him than have him remain in Boston a dissatisfied player. Without doubt, he's the greatest slugger of all times, and Boston, of course, will miss his wonderful hitting."

NAVY BASEBALL SCHEDULE.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 6.—Excellent sport is promised by the baseball schedule arranged for the Naval Academy nine for this season. All the games are to be played at Annapolis, beginning with Princeton on April 3 and ending with the Military Academy on May 29. A feature of special interest will be the visit of the Harvard nine during the Easter vacation. Harvard will play here on April 21 and another game may be arranged for April 24.

These are the games:

April 3, Princeton; 7, Penn State; 10, Boston College; 14, Mount St. Mary's; 17, Lafayette; 21, Harvard; 24, open; 28, Catholic University of South Carolina; May 5, Washington and Lee; 8, University of West Virginia; 12, Maryland State; 15, Swarthmore; 19, Ursinus; 22, Dickinson; 26, Villanova; 29, United States Military Academy.

DISAGREE ON BOUT.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 6.—Officials of the New Haven Pastors' Union said tonight that they would take no action against the proposed Benny Leonard-Johnny Dundee fight, which is scheduled for the New Haven Arena Jan. 16, for the lightweight championship.

The union has investigated the bout and one of the officers said tonight:

"Both boxers have records which entitle them to consideration by the public. Leonard had a ring career during the world war of value through his instruction of soldiers in self-defense. The members of the Pastors' Union believe that boxing is a desirable and manly accomplishment, and they have no definite knowledge of factors which should lead them to protest against the proposed bout. We regard that as a matter for police supervision."

No report has yet been filed by the Civic Federation Committee, which was appointed to investigate the bout.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 6.—A citizens' committee formally protested to Mayor David E. Fitzgerald today against the proposed Leonard-Dundee boxing match here on Jan. 16. The allegation was that while announced here as a boxing match, it was advertised outside Connecticut as a "championship match of twenty rounds to a decision."

Counsel for the committee declared that such a fight as was proposed would be a violation of the law and that an injunction could be sought with every hope of success. Chief Smith, who granted the permit, was called in by Mayor Fitzgerald, who said he had every confidence that Chief Smith would uphold the law in every particular.

This committee is independent of that named by the Civic Federation. It was headed by Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Goodenough.

HARVARD WELCOMED HOME.

Football Team Gets Rousing Reception on Arrival in Boston.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The triumphant Harvard football team was given a rousing reception by several hundred gridiron enthusiasts on its arrial at the South Station late tonight after its long journey from Pasadena. Formal ceremonies were reserved for the annual football banquet to be held later, and the tired players hurried to Cambridge and bed.

The train was stopped for a few minutes at Natick, where the whole town turned out with red fire and bands to greet th warriors. Natick is the home town of Captain Murray of the Harvard team, Coach Mahan, Trainer Donovan, and Eddie Casey, the sturdy back.

RUTGERS TO MEET DETROIT.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 6.—The Rutgers football team will invade the West next Fall for a gridiron battle with the University of Detroit on the latter's home grounds. The game will be staged on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 25, an. will be the first Western game played by Rutgers. The season has also been extended for this game, as it has been customary to close the Saturday before Thanksgiving. Three games have been scheduled with Western teams, as Indiana will play in New Brunswick and Nebraska in New York.

Brock Gets Decision Over Brown.

TACOLA WINS PURSE OVER MUDDY TRACK

Scores Easy Victory Against Good Field in Feature Event at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 6.—The stretch of fine weather with which racing has been favored here for several weeks was interrupted today when a heavy rain fell. The track became heavy with mud and as a result there was a general form reversal and numerous scratches, which reduced the fields in most of the events. Though it may not have been due entirely to the condition of the track, six of the seven favorites were defeated, although the choices were generally close up. The victories were all scored with considerable ease and there were no thrills in the stretch racing.

The inclement weather did not have much effect on the attendance, despite the fact that no really important features were offered on the card. The Bayou St. John Purse, at one mile for four-year-olds and upward, was the most important event on the program and resulted in an easy victory for Mrs. O. B. Pott's Tacola, which won by two lengths from Brother MacLean, with Jim Heffering, the odds-on favorite, taking third.

Much of the competition was taken out of this race by the scratches, due in the main to the condition of the track. Only five went to the post, while such as Chief, one of the best performers here at a mile, Ballet Dancer and Sailor were withdrawn. Jim Heffering was made the choice at 4 to 5 and was well played, but did not seem to like the going and was so badly outrun in the early part of the race that he had no chance against the winner, even though he made a courageous finish.

Going Suits Tacola.

Tacola, on the other hand, seemed to revel in the muddy going and had the race all to herself after going less than half a mile. Brother MacLean was sent to the front at the start with Tacola in close pursuit. Jockey Garner moved up with the latter, after making the first turn, assumed the lead and began to draw away until he had a lead of four lengths when he was making the far turn. It was just a romp for Tacola from there to the finish, and, as Garner neared the end, he eased up his mount and still had plenty to spare. Brother MacLean ran a good race and finished strongly, but was losing ground to Jim Heffering in the stretch. Duchess Lace and Tom Brooks, the other starters, were never in the contest from the start and the latter kept dropping back until he was fifty lengths away at the end.

The Whirl Handicap, at six furlongs, for which only four had been named originally, became a two-horse race when Marie Miller and Mahony were scratched. Rapid Traveler took the measure of War God by two lengths. War God was the choice at 4 to 5. Robinson sent War God to the front at the start, but dropped back with him after going a quarter of a mile. As War God was carrying 117 pounds to 103 for Rapid Traveler, the latter began to show to advantage in the heavy going and rushing to the front drew away to a lead of four lengths. War God moved up determinedly in the stretch, but was too late to make up lost ground.

There was a lively scramble in the first event, the Mohawk Purse for maiden two-year-olds, in which there were some entries that were starting for the first time. The race went to Charles A. Byrne, which had been seen under colors twice before and which had finished second to Eye Opener in a race here. The winner took the measure of a pair of youngsters owned by Harry Payne Whitney. These were Loyal Sweeper, a colt by Whisk Broom II., and Whippet, a colt by Broomstick. These ran second and third, respectively, and would have made a much better showing but for the fact that both raced greenly and showed the need of more experience.

An Improved Race.

Charles A. Byrne ran an improved race and revealed the advantage of schooling since he first started here. He ran close to the inner rail, and, moving into a good lead at the start, had little difficulty in winning. Loyal Sweeper, with Ambrose up, went wide at the first turn, and then continued to swerve in the stretch, losing so much ground that he was never in a position to catch the leader. Whippet ran very greenly. He bolted as the barrier went up, and Troxler had to pull him up to a standstill. He finally got under way and showed real flash of speed, catching up with the field and finishing only a head back of his stablemate. The action of the Whitney youngsters was a disappointment, for they had been made the choice by the players and went to the post at 1 to 2. Whippet ran so impressively that it appeared the price was justified providing the colt had run straight.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For maiden colts and geldings; two-year-olds; purse $700; three furlongs. Charles A. Byrne, 118 pounds (Butwell), 6 to 5, even and 1 to 3, first; Loyal Sweeper, 118 (Ambrose), 1 to 2 and 1 to 5 and out, second; Whippet, 115 (Troxler), 1 to 2, 1 to 5 and out, third. Time—0:37. Buddy Gean, Freddie, Get 'Em and Plus Ultra also ran.

SECOND RACE—For three-year-olds; maidens; purse $700; six furlongs. Big Idea, 109 pounds (Thurber), 8 to 1, 3 to 1 and 6 to 5, first; Cormoran, 114 (Troxler), 8 to 5, 7 to 10 and 2 to 5, second; Barenka, 109 (Robinson), 7 to 2, 7 to 5 and 7 to 10, third. Time—1:18. DAISY LEADS ICE YACHTS.

Wins Two Events on the Shrewsbury by Comfortable Margins.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Jan. 6.—In two trial races for ice yachts sailed here today to pick defenders for American and State class championship pennants, for which challenges from the Long Branch Club were accepted at the annual meeting of the North Shrewsbury Yacht Club, held tonight, George W. Bray's Daisy, piloted by Oscar Brand, captured both. Oliver Haviland tended sheet.

In the first race, a sixteen-mile event, the Daisy, carrying a brand-new mainsail, overtook Henry Applegate's Whim by outpointing her, and won by 1:45. Andrew White's Brownie was third. A pretty ten-mile race was sailed as the second event, six yachts starting. Daisy jumped away in the lead and was never headed, winning by 2:28. There was a nip-and-tuck race between the Whim and Thomas Irving Brown's Say When throughout the course, the Applegate yacht beating out the Say When by 10 seconds. The Brownie was fourth.

At tonight's meeting the club decided to hold a carnival on the North Shrewsbury here Saturday, with three ice yacht races and six amateur skating events, morning and afternoon.

Imp Outsails Jack Frost on Ice.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Jan. 6.—Captain E. W. Price's Imp outsailed Captain J. M. O'Brien's Jack Frost today in the ice yacht race for the Price Patterson Cup, covering the fifteen-mile course in 39:12. The Jack Frost's elapsed time was 39:43. The X L N C was third in 39:50, the Princeton fourth in 40:08 and the Drub fifth in 44:41. The Hazel L. withdrew early in the race.

'BABY' RACERS IN DEBUT AT HAVANA

Fiction Wins Close Decision in Quarter-Mile Dash for Juveniles.

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 6.—The "baby" racers, making their first appearance of the year, held sway in the opening event at Oriental Park today, and in a good finish Fiction, a long shot, proved to be the best. She was well schooled, and ran true and gamely, but she was tiring some at the end, and won only by three-fourths of a length from Maricusa, with Little Pointer third. Maricusa, coupled with General Agramont, was made an odds-on choice at 1 to 3. She was very unfortunate right at the start, when she was knocked back and her winning chances were ruined. She stuck gamely to her task, and, closing with a rush, was wearing the winner down at the end. The quarter mile was run in 0:23.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—Purse $600; for maiden two-year-olds; two furlongs. Fiction, 106 pounds (Smith), 12 to 1, 5 to 2, and even, first; Maricusa (Pickens), 1 to 3 and out, second; Little Pointer, 100 (McIntyre), 2 to 1, 2 to 5, and out, third. Time—0:23. Dorothy, General Agramont, and Whiz also ran.

SECOND RACE—Purse $600; for four-year-olds and upward; claiming; six furlongs. Brizz, 113 pounds (Crump), 9 to 5, 1 to 3, and 1 to 6, first; Buster Clark, 107 (Koppleman), 10 to 1, 5 to 2, and 6 to 5, second; Shoddy, 110 (Kederis), 8 to 1, 2 to 1, and 7 to 10, third. Time—1:12 2-5. The Snob, Prince Direct, and Arthur Middleton also ran.

THIRD RACE—Purse $600; for three-year-olds; claiming; five and a half furlongs. Bardera, 107 pounds (Finlay), 5 to 2, even, and 1 to 2, first; He's a Bear, 106 (Taylor), 4 to 1, 8 to 5, and 4 to 5, second; Incinerator, 110 (Watson), 6 to 1, 5 to 2, and 6 to 5, third. Time—1:07. Punctual, Diomed, Bayionian, and Steve also ran.

FOURTH RACE—Purse $600; The Uruguay Handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; five and a half furlongs. Hamilton, 109 pounds (Kederis), 3 to 1, 6 to 5, and 2 to 5, first; Top o' the Morning, 106 (Chiavetta), 3 to 1, 6 to 5, and 2 to 5, second; Cromwell, 124 (Mountain), even, 2 to 5, and 1 to 5, third. Time—1:06 1-5. Hoonir, Diversion, and Different Eyes also ran.

FIFTH RACE—Purse $600; for three-year-olds and upward; claiming; one mile and a sixteenth. Woodthrush, 109 pounds (Mangan), 8 to 5, 4 to 5, and 2 to 5, first; Lariat, 109 (Crump), 8 to 5, 3 to 5 and 1 to 3, second; Mudstill, 106 (Carmody), 8 to 1, 3 to 5, and 3 to 5, third. Time—1:47 1-5. Guide Post, Homan, War Tax, and Galaway also ran.

SIXTH RACE—Purse $600; for four-year-olds and upward, claiming; one mile and fifty yards. Maricusa, 93 pounds (Kederis), 7 to 2, 7 to 5, and 7 to 10, first; Circulate, 99 (Carmody), 5 to 2, even, and 1 to 2, second; Big Smoke, 104 (Koppleman), 5 to 1, 2 to 1, and even, third. Time—1:43 1-5. Plantagrede, Zole, and Baby Cal also ran.

APPEL BEATS GOULD IN SQUASH TOURNEY

Court Tennis Champion Has Walkover in Second Set, but Succumbs in the Final.

HARVARD CLUB STILL TIED

Holds Leading Place Along with Ellis in League Tourney by Victory Over Columbians, 4 to 1.

The Harvard Club squash tennis players remained on even terms with their Yale rivals at the top of the ranking list in the Metropolitan League yesterday by defeating the representatives of the Columbia University Club on the courts of the latter by a score of 4 to 1. As the Yale Club simultaneously won its home match from the Princeton-Squash combination, by an identical score, the relative positions of the leaders remained unchanged. The Tigers dropped below the 500 mark and the tail-enders added to their already long list of ciphers.

Harvard's victory yesterday afternoon was featured by one of the best and closest individual matches of the season, in which John W. Appel, Jr., the national amateur champion, defeated Jay Gould, world's court tennis champion, and the squash title holder of his club, in three games, 15—8, 2—15, 15—10. There was almost equal excitement in the battle between former national champion Eric S. Winston and Frank Kidde, who holds the New Jersey State title, the former winning in straight games, 18—14, 15—8. P. M. Morrison, a newcomer to the Harvard team, kept up the Crimson's winning streak by disposing of Kenneth Bulkley, 15—8, 15—10, while A. E. Ellis was hard pressed to add a fourth tally with a close decision over R. L. Strebeigh, also making his first appearance of the season, by scores of 16—8, 9—15, 18—17. F. S. Keeler accounted for Columbia's only point by getting a default from W. Prentice Sanger, who was too ill to play.

Both Appel and Gould were in splendid form when they took the court for the big match of the day, the former being a little quicker in striking a winning stride. But once the court tennis expert got started he was almost unbeatable, smashing his way through the second game with amazing speed and control and giving the champion the worst beating he has had in many a day.

In this sensational exhibition Gould performed the feat of blanking Appel for twelve hands in two series of five and seven, allowing him only a pair of tallies between these rows of ciphers. He continued this remarkable work by holding the title champion scoreless for the first eight hands of the rubber, making fifteen zeroes in actual succession. It was only by the most strenuous uphill play, with the deciding game running to twenty-nine hands, that Appel was finally able to claim the victory.

R. L. Strebeing, appearing in his first competitive match of the year, made a remarkable showing against A. E. Ellis, one of the leaders of the Crimson array at present. After losing the opener, 15-8, he suddenly found his form and squared the count by practically the same score. The rubber was a tremendous battle, the points alternating up to 13 all, andst ickling close together even in the extra session. With the score a tie at 17, and the entire match depending on one rally, Ellis succeeded in placing one on the corner which Strebeigh could not quite reach, and another point was placed in Harvard's credit column.

F. S. Morrison's defeat of Kenneth Bulkley was impressive, as he also has done no tournament playing as yet this season. The Crimson representative won in straight games and was extended both times, but he kept his lead secure up to 15-8 and 15-10. The summary follows:

Harvard, 4; Columbia, 1.

John W. Appel, Jr., Harvard, defeated Jay Gould, Columbia, 15—8, 2—15, 15—10; Eric S. Winston, Harvard, defeated Frank Kidde, Columbia, 18—4, 15—8; F. S. Keeler, Columbia, won from W. Prentice Sanger, Harvard, by default; P. M. Morrison, Harvard, defeated Kenneth Bulkley, Columbia, 15—8, 15—10; A. E. Ellis, Harvard, defeated R. L. Strebeigh, Columbia, 15—8, 9—15, 18—17.

YALE CLUB PLAYERS WIN.

Defeat Princeton-Squash Club Combination, 4 to 1.

By winning from the squash tennis team representing the Princeton and Squash Clubs on its own courts yesterday afternoon, the Yale Club held its share of the top rung of the Metropolitan League Class A ladder, in a tie with the Harvard players, who defeated Columbia. Both matches were scored at 4—1. With only one more day of play in the series, next Tuesday, it is quite possible that the deadlock between the Blue and the Crimson will remain unbroken. The former still has the tail-end Columbia team to meet, while Harvard faces the somewhat harder proposition of disposing of the Princeton-Squash Club combination.

Yesterday the latter was limited to the alumni of Old Nassau, not a single star of the Forty-second Street courts appearing against Yale. If such men as Charles M. Bull, Jr., and Royal E. T. Riggs were added to the lineup, neither of the leaders could afford to take liberties with the resulting team.

Harold Tobey was Princeton's only winner yesterday, triumphing over Alan L. Corey in straight games, 15-8, 17-16. But Harold D. Harvey gave Livingstone Platt a big scare by almost taking the second game of their encounter, after having the first to his credit at 18—17, and Jesse Hoyt was on even terms with C. J. MacGuire most of the way in another three-game session. Although the two remaining matches went to the Tigers in straight games, Dr. H. R. Mixsell put up a great fight against Auguste J. Cordier, recent winner of the national handicap tournament, while E. C. Olds carried E. J. Clapp to extra points in their second game.

The summary:

YALE (4), PRINCETON-SQUASH (1).

Auguste J. Cordier, Yale, defeated Dr. H. R. Mixsell, Princeton, 18—12, 15—10.

Harold Tobey, Princeton, defeated Alan L. Corey, Yale, 15—8, 17—16.

Livingston Platt, Yale, defeated Harold D. Harvey, Princeton, 17—18, 17—14, 15—10.

C. J. MacGuire, Yale, defeated Jesse Hoyt, Princeton, 18—15, 16—18, 15—6.

E. J. Clapp, Yale, defeated E. C. Olds, Princeton, 15—9, 18—14.

Real Competition Expected at Brooklyn Heights Casino Today.

The indoor club tennis tournaments at the Brooklyn Heights Casino are getting under way very slowly, in spite of the fact that the draw was made three days ago. No matches have actually been played as yet, the only shifting of names being by the default route.

With the understanding that the first round of both the men's and the women's singles must be completed by the end of this week, it is likely that some real competition will be seen today or tomorrow. Charles M. Bull and Hugh Kelleher both dropped out yesterday, the former defaulting to A. C. B. Foster and the latter to A. W. Chauncey in Class A. R. M. Gilmore was a winner in the second round by the default of Dr. Humpstohe. In the women's event Miss Adele Bull advanced in similar fashion. But such competitors as F. B. Alexander, Dean Mathey, Kashio, H. S. Parker, Mrs. Mallory, Mrs. Weaver, Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Candee have expressed their full intention of playing until they are defeated, and the courts should therefore show plenty of action before another week begins.

CLEVELAND PICKED FOR CLASSIC SHOOT

Cleveland, Ohio, will be the scene of the next Grand American Handicap of the American Trapshooting Association. Decision to that effect was reached unanimously yesterday at a joint committee meeting at the general offices of the association, 460 Fourth Avenue. The committee also took action defining amateur and professional status in the trapshooting game, and received assurances that the United States would be represented in the Olympic trapshooting events at Antwerp. The division of the United States and Canada into zones for the better facilitation of the activities of the association and the adoption of rules regarding the holding of registered tournaments during 1920 were other matters that occupied the committeemen during a long session.

The joint committee had a complete representation present. Of the Amateur Committee there were in attendance J. Clark, Jr., of Worcester, Mass; M. D. Hart of Richmond, Va.; Samuel S. Foster, Mason City, Iowa, and E. P. Mathewson of Anaconda, Mon. Representing the Executive Committee of the association were E. R. Galvin of Wilmington, Del., President; Stoney McLinn of New York, Secretary; Tom A. Davis of New York, Treasurer; T. H. Keller, New York; F. G. Drew, New Haven, Conn., and Leonard Clark, New York; C. W. Hymer, Wilmington, and L. J. Squier, Cincinnati.

There were five cities originally in the field for the Grand American Handicap —Cleveland, St. Louis, Chicago, Toledo and Atlantic City—but Toledo withdrew before yesterday's meeting was held. The committee decided that the time was not yet ripe to bring the event East, the interests of the association as a whole requiring for the present a more central location. The shoot will be held at Edgewater, Cleveland's municipal park, early in August, the exact date to be decided by the President and Secretary of the association. An effort will be made to avoid conflict with the Grand Circuit races, which are to be held in Cleveland in August.

A team to compete in the Olympic events in Antwerp is definitely assured, but details of the arrangements for sending it to the other side have not yet been completed. A committee, representing the amateur branch of the association and consisting of J. Clark, Jr., R. L. Spotts, and E. P. Mathewson, is now working on a plan with the General Olympic Committee.

Division of the association in this country and Canada was made into five zones, each governing the following territory:

Eastern Zone—Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, and Vermont and the Province of Ontario as far west as Port Arthur, Province of Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces, Canada.

Prairie Zone—Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas and the Provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Pacific Zone—Arizona, California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wyoming and the Provinces of Alberta and British Columbia.

BOXING DATES CHANGED.

National Amateur Tournament to be Held in Boston April 5 and 6.

The national amateur boxing championship tournament, which was awarded to Boston at the last annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union, will be held at Mechanics' Hall, that city, under the auspices of the Boston A. A., April 5 and 6, instead of April 12 and 13, as was previously specified in reports from Boston. The change in date became known yesterday, when Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary-Treasurer of the A. A. U., issued a list of national championship fixtures for which postive dates have been announced by the organizations to which the events were awarded.

Competition for the national championship wrestling titles will be held at Birmingham, Ala., April 12 and 13. The national championship basket ball tournament will be held at Atlanta, Ga., during the first week in March, and the national tug-of-war title test will be held in connection with the national senior indoor track and field championships at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, March 13.

The various clubs and athletic organizations which have been awarded indoor aquatic championships are arranging for these events, which, according to A. A. U. rules, must be held between Feb. 1 and April 30. The organizations which have settled on their dates and the events they will hold are as follows:

Men's Junior Class—220-yard swim, Cleveland Y. M. C. A., April 17; 500-yard swim, Minneapolis A. C., March 10; fancy dive, Chicago A. A., March 8.

Women's Junior Class—100-yard swim, Cleveland A. C., Feb. 20; 100-yard back stroke swim, Greensburg (Pa.) Y. M. C. A., Feb. 18.

Easy Victory for Jack Britton.

SERVATIUS TAKES PAIR OF VICTORIES

Beats Neustadt by 150 to 130 in Class C Billiards and Langdon by 150 to 126.

Louis A. Servatius, veteran Class C billiardist, registered two victories yesterday in the N. A. A. B. P. national Class C championship balk line tournament at Lawler Brothers' Academy in Brooklyn, his most notable success being recorded in the afternoon session when the veteran forced Joseph Neustadt, present title-holder, to taste of defeat after an interesting struggle. Servatius's margin of victory in this match was measured by 150 to 130, the victor completing his string in forty innings for an average of 3 30-40, and returning a high run of 22. Neustadt made the highest run of the match, a cluster of thirty buttons, which he gathered in his first trip to the table. The defeated title-holder's average was 3 10-40.

The consistent playing of Servatius gave the veteran a triumph over the champion, who appeared off form and unable to collect the ivories for appreciable runs. In his first inning Neustadt gave flashes of Class A form when he clicked off thirty points before missing. His play thereafter deteriorated, however, and Servatius, plugging doggedly away with small clusters, soon cut down his rival's advantage and then developed a nip and tuck struggle which did not end until after the thirty-fourth inning.

Servatius recorded his second victory in the first of the evening matches, when he sent J. R. Langdon down in defeat in a score of 150 to 126. Servatius's play in this match was similar to that of the afternoon contest, with the exception that the veteran led from start to finish. The victor finished his string in forty-one innings, for an average of 3 27-41 and had a high run of 23, which he made in the twenty-ninth inning. Langdon's highest run was 14 and he averaged 3 3-41.

The other evening clash resulted in a victory for Frank W. Boyd, over Charles J. Steinbugler, by the close score of 150 to 146. This match was the keenest of the day. The lead alternated constantly, both players showing consistency, and the result was in doubt right up to the final point. Boyd had a high run of 11 and averaged 3 15-47, while Steinbugler's best efforts netted him a high run of 17 and an average of 3 8-46.

HOPPE IS DOUBLE WINNER.

Beats Petersen Again in Balkline Exhibition at Brooklyn.

The balk line phase of the professional billiard tour, which is beginning in Brooklyn, ended yesterday with Willie Hoppe, the champion, scoring a brace of victories over Charles Peterson of St. Louis, at the National Recreation Academy. The matches, played in afternoon and evening sessions, were not up to the standard expected of Hoppe, who required fourteen innings for his afternoon victory and eleven for the evening conquest.

The scores:

Afternoon Match.

Evening Match.

Hoppe—8 111 12 22 4 36 34 52 16 1 4—300. Average, 27 3-11; high run, 111.

Peterson—0 0 14 1 27 10 17 2 47 0—127. Average, 12 7-10; high run, 47.

RUNNERS JOIN MILLROSE.

Sid Leslie and Charles Blush Transfer from Other Clubs.

The Millrose A. A. track squad was strengthened yesterday by the addition of two prominent local middle-distance runners, who transferred their local A. A. U. registration to the Wanamaker organization. Sid Leslie, former Long Island A. C. and Thirteenth Regiment crack, and Charles Blush, who formerly competed for the Knights of St. Antony in Brooklyn, are the two additions to the Millrose club. Leslie, a former junior national cross-country champion, who returned from overseas duty last year with the 59th Artillery Regiment, transferred from unattached, and Blush, who said in his application that he had not competed for a club within the past year, changed from the Knights of St. Antony. Both runners are eligible to compete for their new club immediately.

BROOKLYN POLY IS WINNER OVER GREEN

Dartmouth Again Tastes Defeat in Basket Ball, Losing Close Game, 25 to 22.

Dartmouth College's basket ball team suffered its second defeat of its metropolitan tour last night when the fast and aggressive Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute quintet conquered the wearers of the Green in their clash on the Brooklyn team's court, by a score of 25 to 22. The contest, as the score would indicate, was keen throughout, the contending teams alternating in the lead until a few minutes before the final whistle, when the Brooklynites caged their winning goals.

Nelson, a Brooklyn forward, led his team to success, and, with Bachrach, shared the honors of the victory. The former was a potent factor in every play undertaken by his team, and was particularly strong on the offensive. His accuracy in shooting gave Nelson the distinction of being the highest individual scorer of the fray, for he caged three field goals and nine from the foul line for a total of fifteen points. Bachrach also played strongly on the offensive and in addition upset many of Dartmouth's attempts at scoring, when the Polytechnic five was forced to guard its own territory. Bachrach further contributed to his team's success with three field goals.

Kopf, a forward, was the main cog in the Dartmouth machine, and scored the most points for the defeated collegians. He caged one field goal and nine from the foul line.

The line-up:

POLYTECHNIC(25).		DARTMOUTH (22).
Specht	R. F.	Kopf
Nelson	L. F.	Tulli
Stewart	C.	Sample
Bachrach	R. G.	Browne
Kurtzman	L. G.	Shulting

Substitution — Dartmouth: McDermott for Kopf.

DEMPSEY MAY BE IGNORED.

French Promoters Get Sam Langford for Bouts Abroad.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 6.—A cabled offer of Messieurs Vienna and Decoin, French promoters, to bring Sam Langford, negro heavyweight, to Paris for a series of bouts was accepted today by Howard Carr of Chicago, Langford's manager. Carr was here conferring with F. F. Steinel, Milwaukee representative of the French promoters. According to the plans the series of bouts would lead up to a battle with Georges Carpentier.

Steinel said that the Langford plans indicated a possibility that Jack Dempsey may lose his chance for the quarter of a million dollar purse offered him for a bout with Carpentier.

Fresh Discussion of Credit Outlook Causes Fall of Stocks —New Financing.

The speculative community had another chill yesterday, resultant, like others in the last few months, from reiteration of the Federal Reserve Board's attitude toward the use of credit. Stocks broke downward in precipitate fashion, the active metal, petroleum, motor shares, and a number in the class of specialties declining from 2 to 7 points. Cotton, too, was subjected to heavy selling. Late in the session traders regained a little confidence, but prices were decidedly irregular in their process of recovery, and many substantial recessions were noted in the final quotations. The observations of Governor Harding of the Reserve Board at the conference of bankers in Washington reached the Street before noon, and while his suggestions that credit should be conserved for commercial purposes were not new, they were taken to heart. The purpose of the conference was to discuss and check the tendency of banks to attract deposits through the upbidding of the interest rate on balances, a practice which has been tending to cause the rediscount rates of the Federal Reserve Banks to rise. The stock market, however, paid less attention to this phase of the meeting than to Governor Harding's general comment on the need for safeguarding credit and to his intimation that further increases of rediscount rates at New York might soon occur. The unfavorable showing of the Federal Reserve system, and of the New York bank particularly, in respect to the ratio of cash to note and deposit liabilities last week had already bespoken this possibility, but it remained for authoritative opinion to be directed to the matter before the stock market was really awakened to the situation.

As far as the money market of the day was concerned, there was little to disturb traders. The renewal rate for demand loans was 8 per cent., compared with 10 per cent. the day before, and offerings were large enough to carry the quotation down to 6 per cent. early in the afternoon. Time funds considered in meagre supply, however, and it was realized in speculative quarters that the sizable output of new securities this week, with the promise of more, was bringing an element into the credit market which would have to be reckoned with for some time to come. Many corporations, which have to pay out much cash for income and profits taxes, are finding it necessary to obtain an offset through drafts upon investment money. Also the extraordinarily high cost of doing business nowadays makes the expansion of industrial organizations difficult without an abundance of working capital. An interesting item of yesterday's new financing was the proposed sale of $12,000,000 preferred stock by the Union Tank Car Company, once a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The detailed figures on our foreign trade in November showed among other enlightening facts, that imports from Asia totaled $112,848,000, compared with $59,459,000 exports to that continent. In the eleven months ended with November imports from the Far East were $928,700,000, while exports from the United States were $640,800,000. These records show clearly enough why gold and silver have been moving eastward in quantity, and suggests a reason why the gold situation is being studied afresh in banking quarters.

BANKS WOULD END BIDS FOR DEPOSITS

NEW MEETING IN CHICAGO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Bankers representing clearing house associations in all parts of the country meeting here today at the call of the Federal Reserve Board failed to take final action on the question of interest rates on bank balances, but decided to hold another conference, at which it is expected an agreement may be reached to put a stop to competitive bidding between New York and inland cities for out-of-town deposits.

At the request of the bankers, the Federal Reserve Board issued a call tonight for a second conference to be held at Chicago Jan. 23, and to be attended by three representatives from each Federal Reserve District.

The purpose of the Chicago meeting, as stated in a resolution adopted by the bankers, will be "to consider the whole question of interest on balances in order that some basis may be agreed upon that will be mutually satisfactory, conducive to conservative banking, and benefit the entire business and banking community."

In opening the meeting today, Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board served notice that the board did not consider itself bound by any agreement of clearing house associations whereby the interest rate on deposits would be advanced or reduced automatically in line with increases or reductions in rediscount rates of Federal Reserve banks, but would act "freely and independently" in taking any necessary action to meet the financial situation in various parts of the country.

Governor Harding predicted that a raise in the rediscount rates would be necessary, and appealed to the bankers not to "make a scramble for deposits" by advancing interest rates on balances. He protested against a tendency to turn deposits into investment funds.

After hearing Governor Harding, the bankers went into executive session. William Woodward of New York was chosen Chairman, Festus J. Wade of St. Louis Vice Chairman, and John R. Washburn of Chicago Secretary.

A resolution adopted by the conference gave the following propositions as the "opinions" of the meeting:

That the present "sliding scale" for advancing or reducing interest rates is not satisfactory.

That existing regulations should not be abrogated until more satisfactory regulations are adopted governing rates of interest paid on deposits.

That the Federal Reserve Board should always be free to establish the rate of discount without reference to any clearing house regulations as to the payment of interest.

That payment of high rates of interest on bank or commercial balances is unsound and is bad banking, and that every effort should be made to avoid such practice.

"While we have turned our backs on the period of war financing," Governor Harding said, "we cannot expect in the immediate future a condition such as was considered normal under pre-war standards. We will reach normal only when the obligations of the Government are greatly reduced and the remainder absorbed by the investing public.

"Unessential loans should be discouraged. Federal Reserve banks must be kept in condition to meet industrial and commercial demands and ready to provide for any emergency. In ordinary times a raise in rediscount rates is the natural corrective of undue expansion, but now we cannot add to our gold holdings by raising rates, nor must we do anything to discourage production."

General Motors Holders Favor New Issue and Trading Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 6.—At a meeting of the General Motors Company held in this city today, the proposal to issue 7 per cent. debenture stock and to exchange ten shares of common stock of no par vaule for one share of common stock with a value of $100 was approved.

There were 94,850 shares of preferred stock, 1,345,898 shares of common and 489,770 shares of debenture stock represented, and all of this was voted for the proposal though twenty shares of debenture stock was voted against it.

The exchange of common stock will be made about May 3. Under the new plan there will be 56,100,000 shares of stock divided as follows: 200,000 shares of preferred stock of $100 par value, 900,000 shares of 6 per cent. debenture stock at $100 par value, 5,000,000 shares of 7 per cent. debenture stock at $100 par value and 50,000,000 shares of common stock with no par value.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

"Unessential Loans."

When Governor Harding of the Reserve Board says that "unessential loans" should be curtailed Wall Street immediately jumps to the conclusion that he is referring to stock market loans, guardedly, perhaps, but none the less pointedly. And possibly he is. But, according to the Wall Street contention, a good deal of the "unessential" stock market loan account has been liquidated since the hectic week in November when the Governor and the Vice Governor of the Reserve Board called in New York and intimated their displeasure at the then prevailing situation. Further, Wall Street contends that there is still a lot of unessential loans elsewhere which have not undergone liquidation, or even serious curtailment, these last two months, and from this it extracts what comfort it may.

Gold Exports.

There are rumors in parts of the financial district that the Federal Reserve Board is not so certain of the benefits to be derived from maintaining a free gold market as it was, say, a month or six weeks ago, and is, in fact, considering what advantages might accrue from limiting—temporarily, of course—the outflow of the metal. As an expedient for conserving the reserve system's reserve position this might have its appealing points, but measured by the broad economic rules it would have most positive disadvantages. If there is serious consideration by the board of a reimposition of the licensing system of exports—and some usually well-informed persons insist there is—it must be purely on the ground of temporary expediency—a thing to be adopted simply to hold reserves where they are or to allow them to come back. Last week's consolidated statement of the reserve banks showed gold reserve of $2,062,615,000, less by some $140,000,000 than the high record for 1919, made on June 6, and this amount surely will further diminish if unrestricted exports are continued.

Foreign Trade.

The foreign trade display for November showing the movement of goods by countries and grand divisions falls rather dismally to reflect the predicted falling off in exports and great expansion in imports. There was some of the latter, but not any of the former. The United Kingdom, for example, sent us $5,588,000 more merchandise during November than during October, but took from us $55,181,000 more in November than in the earlier month. France made a rather better comparison. Against an increase in exports to us of $5,517,000, she took from us increased imports amounting to $5,007,000, about a paid-off. Italy worked the other way around, for, as compared with an expansion of 3,691,000 in our imports from Italy, our exports to her expanded by $5,328,000. With Japan it was the same story. Our imports from Japan increased $8,351,000 and our exports to her increased $14,780,000. Imports from Germany mounted $1,070,000 in the month, while exports to that country increased $2,861,000.

Sentimental Exchanges.

According to a leading dealer in foreign exchange, that market has now become highly sentimental—when any one wants to buy it goes up, and when any one tries to sell it is very apt to go down, and to move rapidly in whichever way it may be going. This, said the dealer, is especially true on the buying side. Frequently, for no reason other than the supposed urgency of the buyer's need, prices are run up sharply, and then almost immediately melt away again. And this the dealer calls sentimentality.

Rails a Disappointment.

The railroad shares as a group proved a disappointment again yesterday. Such standard issues as Union and Southern Pacific, Reading, Canadian Pacific, and Atchison eased off following the publication of that part of Governor Harding's statement regarding unnecessary loans, which would be construed upon by the Federal Reserve Board, as this was interpreted to mean loans for speculation. In addition there was little in the railroad situation to make for improved sentiment with November earnings showing a big drop and the results of the joint Congressional conference on railroad legislation still in doubt.

Preparing for Private Control.

The corporate managers of the railroads are proceeding to reorganize their forces so that operation of their properties when the President returns them to private control may be reassumed with a minimum of friction and lost motion. Many new Presidents have been elected and many old Presidents and other officers who entered Government service during the war have been reappointed and re-elected to their pre-war posts. That there will be many similar preparations is generally expected. There is also a general feeling that when the roads are turned back they will go into the hands from which they were lifted by the President at the close of 1917.

Shipping Shares Decline.

As a group the shipping shares reflected the so-called "money scare" yesterday by substantial declines. Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies sold off more than 4 points and then in the last hour regained a part of the earlier loss, while International Mercantile Marine common lost more than 2 points and recovered fractionally before the close. Pacific Mail, on a comparatively small turnover, lost a fraction, and United Fruit, also on a small volume of business, sold off more than 5 points, but regained a fair part of that loss in the later trading.

N. Y. Air Brake Dividend Gossip.

Despite the fact that rumors have been circulated through the financial district recently that Directors of the New York Air Brake Company will probably declare the regular dividend out of the company's substantial surplus, the stock eased off in yesterday's market on a small turnover. The market is apparently discounting other rumors that the 10 per cent. dividend had not been earned in the last year.

Eastern Crude Oil Advances.

The advance in Pennsylvania crude oil and other Eastern crudes is directly attributable to the scarcity of this grade of oil. Development work has been carried on extensively but this has not served to offset the decreasing supply and in such circumstances it was perhaps only natural that there should be an advance in price to the highest levels that have ever been touched. The Eastern crudes are especially desirable for their refined products.

U. S. Rubber.

The Directors of the United States Rubber Company are scheduled to meet tomorrow and at that time there may be some action taken regarding an extra cash disbursement, or even a stock dividend, according to rumors in circulation yesterday. The stock dividend prospects, however, are not as bright as could be wished, this mainly for the fact that the Supreme Court has not yet handed down its decision regarding the taxability of such disbursements. However, it has practically been promised that there would be an extra disbursement of some sort early this year and it is argued by holders of the shares, whether speculators or investors, that there is no time like the present. In the last two weeks the stock has had a rise from the 120 level to near 140.

Tropical Oil.

Tropical oil has been showing activity among Curb shares recently. This company, according to rumor, is to be taken over by International Petroleum, a Standard of New Jersey subsidiary. The latter stock has been one of the strongest of the Curb issues all during the year and recently jumped forward to new high levels. Tropical, however, on the other hand, while connected with International in rumor, has as yet responded only in a small way in the market.

ADVISE $12,000,000 INCREASE IN STOCK

Directors of Union Tank Car Company Recommend Project to Stockholders.

TO BE VOTED ON JAN. 27

New Shares, If Issued, Will be 7 Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred. Without Voting Power.

An increase of $12,000,000 in the capital stock of the Union Tank Car Company has been recommended by the Directors, and a special meeting of the stockholders has been called for Jan. 27 to vote on the proposal. The increase, if granted, will be in the form of 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, without voting power. The entire issue has been underwritten by the Equitable Trust Company.

Holders of the common stock of the company will have the right to subscribe for new stock on the basis of one share of preferred for each share of common stock held by them. The subscription price will be at par, $100. Payments for the preferred stock may be made, at the option of the holder, either in full on or before March 1 or in four equal installments, payable March 1, April 1, May 1 and June 1. If the latter plan of payment is adopted, the stock will not be issued until June 1, and dividends will accrue from that date. Interest at the rate of 6 per cent. will be paid on installments received prior to June 1.

The money derived from the sale of stock will be applied on the purchase price of 5,500 steel tank cars, which are to be delivered this year, at a cost of about $17,000,000. It is pointed out by the company that heretofore expansion has been financed out of earnings, but because of present Federal taxes and "existing conditions," with consequent need of working capital, it is deemed advisable to increase the capital by the preferred issue. Up to the last quarter of 1918 the company owned 20,584 cars.

The Directors have declared a quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the capital stock, payable March 1 to holders of record Feb. 5. This is an increase of 25 cents over the previous dividend, and places the stock on a 7 per cent. annual basis.

Wholesale Retirements Denied.

In recent days there has been a considerable amount of gossip circulated in the financial district to the effect that several of the heads of the more important and largest of the railroad companies had become so discouraged over the outlook for the railroads that they would soon retire to enter other lines of endeavor. A canvass of several of the local corporate offices yesterday failed to show that any requirement was being contemplated. In authoritative quarters it is reported that there may be a few resignations of Presidents and Vice Presidents, but almost without exception these are attributable to a desire on the part of those resigning to retire from further active business life.

Would Increase Vanadium Stock.

Stockholders of the Vanadium Corporation will meet on Jan. 16 to vote an increase in the capital stock from 200,000 to 500,000 shares. Part of the increase will be used for the purchase of the Primos Chemical Company, a large manufacturer of steel alloys. Vanadium stockholders will have the right to subscribe to 93,334 shares of the new stock at $45 a share.

Banking Frontiers for American Trade

In the early days of the development of world trade it was the pioneering trader who pushed forward the frontiers of civilization and opened the remote regions of the world to outside intercourse. Then banking followed commerce—today commerce follows banking.

By providing banking frontiers for American world trade the American Foreign Banking Corporation is building the foundations for large development of the nation's business in the important markets of the world.

We shall be pleased to receive your inquiries and answer all questions on trade and credit information.

ORGANIZE TO BLOCK TRADEMARK PIRATE

AUTOMOBILE MEN TO ACT

Changes in Patent Law Declared to be Imperative to Put an End to Fraud.

Several definite steps to block the attempt by Manuel da Silva Carmo, a Portuguese, to register trademarks of forty-six American automobile manufacturers and by thus taking advantage of a peculiar twist in the patent laws of European countries to control the export trade of the American companies, were taken yesterday by a conference of manufacturers and lawyers with patent and international trade experience. The meeting was held at the offices of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, 7 East Forty-second Street.

Stirred by the necessity for acting within ten days, when the period for filing objections to Carmo's applications will terminate, the manufacturers have engaged a Lisbon attorney to make the legal fight for them. Coincidently diplomatic action will be taken by this Government if Secretary Lansing heeds the petition of the automobile manufacturers, made yesterday in a telegram to Washington. The telegram will be followed up by resolutions which will be passed today by the Board of Directors of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Representatives of the Chamber would not divulge the other steps which they have taken.

The automobile manufacturers were sanguine yesterday of the defeat of Carmo's attempt to pirate the trade marks. At present their fight is solely against Carmo, and not against the system by which he was enabled to threaten our automobile export trade. The question of a fight to change the system itself was also discussed at yesterday's conference, but no definite action was taken looking toward an attempt to change the patent laws.

Such changes in the law are the only sure means of putting an end to present abuses, Albert E. Parker of the international patent firm of Marks & Clark said yesterday. Mr. Parker said that under present conditions the American manufacturers had no protection of their trade marks rights, even though they took steps to forestall attempts at piracy by applying for registration themselves.

MERGER PLAN COMPLETED.

International Motor Truck Ready to Take Over Aircraft Plant.

It was announced yesterday that the plan of the International Motor Truck Corporation to take over the New Brunswick (N. J.) plant and other assets of the Wright-Martin Aircraft Corporation, amounting in value to approximately $8,000,000, has been consummated, and that the temporary certificates covering the first and second preferred and common stock probably will be issued within the next few days. These certificates will be sent out by the Equitable Trust Company to Wright-Martin shareholders who have deposited their holdings with that company.

When the consolidation of these companies is completed the International Motor Truck Corporation will have a capital of approximately $10,900,000 in first preferred, $5,350,000 in second preferred and about 80,000 shares, of no par value, common stock. An application, it is said, is shortly to be made to have all three classes of stock listed on the Stock Exchange.

Bank Merger Approved.

Stockholders of the Bank of Manhattan Company and the Bank of Long Island voted yesterday in approval of the proposed merger of the latter with the former. At the same time the increase proposed in the capitalization of the Manhattan Company from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000, which provides an additional 50,000 shares of stock to be exchanged for the stock of the Bank of Long Island, was also approved.

RUSH BEGINS TO PAY STATE INCOME TAX

The rush to pay the State income tax already has set in. New Yorkers are showing no disposition to hang back, now that they are confronted with one more tax burden, and the offices for Manhattan at 120 Broadway, for Brooklyn at 180 Montague Street, for Queens at 2 North Washington Street, Jamaica, and for the Bronx at 161st Street and St. Ann's Avenue already are thronged daily with taxpayers.

Mark Graves who, under Controller Travis, is directing the entire collection of the tax from Albany, has placed John J. Elliott in charge of the New York City district. Mr. Elliott has 102 clerks working under him at the various offices and tabulating the returns and receipts as they come in. The blanks are sent each night to Albany and the receipts are deposited nightly in banks.

This being the first time the tax has been collected there is much work to be done in the way of perfecting the State's machinery, but the various offices report that thus far things are running fairly smoothly. There is an ample supply available of the two principal forms used, No. 200 for personal returns including wages and interest on stocks, bonds and bank balances, and No. 201 for business men, with spaces for income from various sources, including rent, royalties and stocks. Within a week or so the State's forms for fiduciaries and for partnerships will be ready for distribution.

Considerably less difficulty than was anticipated has been experienced thus far by the tax officials in their dealings with the public. This they attribute to the liberal education taxpayers have gained during the last few years owing to their contact with the Federal revenue law; particularly as the State act was modeled closely upon it.

One feature in which the State collections differs radically is in not permitting the payment of the tax in installments. As a result the whole task will be over on March 15, by which time all who wish to avoid penalties must have made their returns and paid their taxes.

BOXBOARD MAKERS TO UNITE

Robert Gair Company to Head New Combination of Manufacturers.

The Robert Gair Company of Brooklyn will head a combination of a number of the largest boxboard manufacturers in the East. It will absorb the Haverhill Boxboard Company of Haverhill, Mass.; the Pierpont Paper Company of Pierpoint, N. Y., and the Thames River Specialty Company of New London, Conn. The companies will operate under the name of the Robert Gair Company, but each plant will retain its present name as a branch organization.

Stockholders of the Robert Gair Company have authorized an issue of $3,000,000 first preferred stock and $7,000,000 Class A preferred stock, without voting power, and 400,000 shares of common stock of no par value. The present outstanding issue of $3,000,000 preferred stock is to be exchanged for the new first preferred, share for share, and the present $5,000,000 Robert Gair common stock is to be exchanged for 243,500 shares of the new common. This, it is believed, will provide a working capital of $9,000,000.

The acquisition of the three companies to be absorbed by the Robert Gair Company will be arranged through an exchange of their shares for the new Class A preferred and the remaining new common shares not already exchanged for Robert Gair common stock. In furtherance of the transfer, the Gair Realty Corporation has been formed, the stock of which will be held in escrow for the protection of the preferred stockholders of the Robert Gair Company.

We summarize as follows from letter of Mr. N. A. Macleod, President of the Company, and the report of Messrs. Arthur Young & Co., Certified Public Accountants:

BUSINESS. Atlantic Fruit Company and its predecessor companies for many years have been engaged in growing, shipping and selling bananas, cocoanuts and other tropical fruit. It now acquires from interests identified with The Cuban-American Sugar Co., by payment in Common Stock, two sugar plantations in Cuba aggregating 63,000 acres, and adjoining its present estates. By 1921 it should be producing raw sugar from its new mill.

PROPERTY. Upon completion of plans now to be carried out with the proceeds of this financing, the Company will own approximately 153,500 acres of land in Cuba, suitable for the cultivation of fruit, cocoanuts, sugar cane and other products, 24,000 acres of plantations in Jamaica, 132,000 acres of undeveloped land in Nicaragua, a 300,000-bag sugar mill in Cuba, about 35 miles of railroad, wharves, docks, warehouses, etc., and a fleet of 12 ocean-going steamships, with additional steamships under charter.

MANAGEMENT. Those who have been responsible for the success of the Company since 1915 will continue to operate the property without substantial change in policy. They have associated with themselves strong financial, shipping and sugar interests which will be represented on the Board of Directors by W. A. Harriman of W. A. Harriman & Co., Inc., Marine Securities; H. O. Havemeyer of Havemeyer & Elder, Inc.; Thomas A. Howell, Vice-President, The Cuban-American Sugar Co.; Sir John Pringle, K. C. M. G., Jamaica, W. I.; P. A. Rockefeller, 26 Broadway.

EARNINGS. Operating profits as certified to by Messrs. Arthur Young & Co. for the four years and nine months ended September 30, 1919, have averaged over $1,470,000 per annum. For the last nine months of this period operating profits were $2,641,720, and for the calendar year 1920 are estimated at approximately $3,500,000 without allowance for any return in that year on the money to be invested in sugar properties. This would leave a balance after provision for interest and taxes of about $5 per share on the outstanding Common Stock.

SIXTY-BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

CITY-OWNED TROLLEY URGED FOR DETROIT

Mayor Recommends a $15,000,000 System to be Independent of Urban Company.

PLANS 218 MILES OF TRACK

If the Council Favors the Project It Will Go to the Voters in April.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Jan. 6.—Mayor Couzens today recommended the institution of a complete system of street railways to be built, maintained, owned and operated by the city. Mayor Couzens is favorable to the installation of Ford gasoline driven cars, it is understood, as a result of a recent conference with Henry Ford.

The system is to include 218 miles of trackage, acquired in three ways, by building, ousting the D. U. R. from non-franchise lines, and by terminating day-to-day agreements in effect at present. Construction of 400 cars and 100 trailers and the investment of $1,000,000 in shops and equipment also are planned.

Fifteen millions is the estimated cost, to be paid by the issue of public utility bonds. Interest on the bonds and their final redemption, under the charter, will have to be paid from the earnings of the system.

The question in its entirety will be placed before the Common Council at its meeting tonight. If it passes it will be placed on the ballot at a special election to be held April 6, 1920, where it must receive a majority of 50 per cent. of the entire vote cast.

A system in no way dependent on the D. U. R. is contemplated. No need for negotiations with the company in any manner exists, the Mayor was careful to point out.

The city system is to be built about two downtown lines, the Fort Street line and the Woodward line from the river to Milwaukee Avenue. The D. U. R. will be asked to abandon nine day-to-day agreement lines.

ARGUE ON FARM LOAN ACT.

Supreme Court Hears Discussion on Constitutionality.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Arguments on the constitutionality of the Farm Loan act were begun today in the Supreme Court and will be concluded tomorrow. The appeals resulted from dismissal by the Federal District Court of injunction proceedings brought by a stockholder to enjoin the Kansas City Title and Trust Company from investing its funds in Farm Loan bonds issued by Federal Land Banks and Joint Stock Land banks.

The proceedings are the first involving the validity of the act to reach the Supreme Court, and in order to make them a test case the Federal Land Bank of Wichita, Kan., and the First Joint Stock Land Bank of Chicago were permitted by the lower court to become parties to the suit. Under permission of the Supreme Court the Government also filed a brief in support of the act.

Constitutionality of the statute is contested on the grounds that no authority existed under the Federal Constitution for its enactment or the creation of land banks, that the issuance of farm loan bonds was unauthorized and that provision exempting such bonds from Federal and State taxation was also invalid.

OIL DEPOT FOR BELFAST

At a meeting of the Board of the Belfast (Ireland) Harbor Commissioners, the Chairman stated that, as oil would probably be the most important development of the time in regard to power, preparations had been made for the establishment of a great oil depot in Belfast, with wharfage facilities to accommodate oil tankers ranging up to 20,000 tons.

The depot will be near the Belfast Corporation's new electric station, giving the Municipality an opportunity of using with equal economy either coal or oil. In the course of his remarks the Chairman referred to Lord Fisher's statement that the future of the British merchant marine lay in internal combustion engines.

THE FINANCIAL FORECAST ANNUAL
of one hundred selected active unlisted securities.

The country has passed through the first throes of reconstruction, which is always most critical. An excellent gauge of future merit and ability to override adverse conditions can be had by reviewing the strength or weakness of the various industries during the dangerous period of 1919.

The annual review has been carefully prepared with the viewpoint of bringing attention to the developments which will have an important bearing on future activities of the various companies. Charts and company statistics, high, low records and other reference data included in this 64-page review.

As with an army, where all is dependent upon its base of supplies, so with an electric light and power property, the location of whose stations and substations is a determining factor in its success or failure.

As indicated on the chart, the stations and substations of the Penn Central Light and Power Co. are located in positions of great strategic importance.
Close to sources of supplies and centers of population, they can operate with a minimum of expenditure and maximum return.

Transfer Agent: THE CORPORATION TRUST COMPANY, New York

Advance Candy Manufacturing Corporation is organized under laws of Delaware, and has taken over entire business and assets of Advance Novelty Candy Manufacturing Company, New York, which Company has been successfully engaged in candy manufacturing for the past seventeen years, the business showing continuous and substantial growth. The products have comprised every description of candy, including the "Celebrated Advance Brand Wild Cherry Drops," upon which brand the Company has spent nearly $100,000 for advertising during the past five years, and the sales of which have now reached very large proportions.

Total sales and the net earnings have increased steadily since the inception of the business.

Owing to lack of space and facilities the Company has been unable to execute orders amounting to nearly $1,000,000 during the past year, particularly since the coming of Prohibition, and finds its present plant inadequate to its rapidly expanding business.

The Company has now acquired on very favorable terms a plot of land in New York City upon which it is about to erect at once a modern factory thoroughly equipped with every facility for candy manufacture on a large scale and economical basis. This new plant will permit an enormously increased output for both domestic and export business, in which latter branch the Company has already had extensive sales.

Conservative Estimates Based on Past Sales and Unfilled Orders Indicate That the Company Will Do a Business of Over $2,500,000 Annually in Its New Plant.

BRILLIANT STORY OF OUR BOYS IN EUROPE.

COTTON MARKET REACTS SHARPLY

OPERATORS ARE ALARMED

A reaction in the Liverpool market and the remarks of Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, anent the desirability of liquidating "unessential" loans, caused the cotton market to react very sharply yesterday. The uncertain opening at Liverpool and the subsequent selling there sent our market off about 40 points at the opening. After that for a short time there was a climb back, which took January 10 points above Monday's closing price and the rest of the list to within about 15 points of the Monday closing level by 11 o'clock. But then the break came.

Telegraphic advices from Washington, where the Reserve Board was in conference with representatives of the various Clearing Houses around the country, quoted the Governor of the board as saying that the situation was anything but pleasing to contemplate, and insisting that nonessential loans should be cut down considerably, if not eliminated altogether. This sort of talk was what the cotton market has been fearing for some weeks. It is admitted that the speculative position in the staple is greatly extended, and the threat of drastic action, of which the raising of the rediscount rate at the Reserve Banks may be only one factor in the program, considerably alarmed cotton operators yesterday.

The selling around midday was general. Both the ring operators and the trade sold, and with them the Wall Street houses and the local commission houses joined in. The break extended to more than 100 points in some months, notably January, where the maximum span was 120 points, and to 90 points in October, the least adversely affected option of all. On the dull spots there were some rallies, but none of them got far, and at the end of the day the market was down 70 to 80 points not on the session.

The local spot market remained unchanged, but some of the Southern spot markets lost part of their gains of Saturday and Monday. Galveston and Memphis were down 50 points each, while Savannah and Houston were down 75 points. The Liverpool spot market was down 62 English points, while futures there closed at losses ranging from 115 to 40 points.

Exports for the day were light, amounting to only 6,969 bales, most of which were out of Mobile for the United Kingdom.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

EGGS—Receipts yesterday, 7,264 cases. A more acute shortage in fresh gathered eggs developed Monday and offerings were considerably below the urgent needs of the trade. Prices continued strengthening and a number of sales were made above the price quoted earlier in the day. Yesterday the shortage continued and the conditions were reflected by a further sharp advance in the bidding on exchange, where small sales of firsts were made at 77@78c, with no bid for more than could be obtained. At the close the few lots coming in were clearing promptly and the market was unsettled, with values not clearly defined. Buyers were willing to pay up to 80c for desirable western firsts, and the sales of the day ranged chiefly from 78@80c, with exceptionally fine qualities placed higher. Undergrades irregular. Held fresh were still moving slowly. Storage eggs of fine quality were in pretty good demand and slightly lowering feelers on undergrades still urgently offered at reasonable bids. White eggs advanced sharply in sympathy with the general scarcity and firmness. Fresh gathered, extras, a dozen, 83c; extra firsts, 81@82c; firsts, 78@80c; seconds, 74@77c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy charges paid, 55@56c; firsts, 52@54c; seconds, 47@51c; undergraded, 50@53c; sterilized, 55@60c; airties, 35@42c; checks, 30@33c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western henneryy whites, extras, 80@80c; firsts to extra firsts, 76@77c; undergraded, 72@83c; gathered whites, firsts to extra firsts, 84@91c; pullets, 72@73c; Pacific Coast whites, express, extra firsts to extras, 86@86c; firsts, 79@85c; pullets, 68@75c; other Western and Southern gathered whites, 72@80c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby henneryy browns, fancy, 69@70c; gathered brown and mixed colors, fancy, 62@63c; fair to choice, 59@61c.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Losses of from 2 to 8 points registered at the minimum in the active list of steel, equipment, marine and motor shares and some of the specialties on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday. American Woolen and Cuba Cane Sugar were last hour features, the first named with a net advance of 8¾ to 165, and of 1⅞ to 54¼ in the last named, despite the general weakness.

Abe Millman Says

"Some wise men said, in effect, that imitation is a form of flattery. A higher form of flattery is expressed by the fact that more dealers come to me as the originator of the smock, than come to my sincere flatterers."

Joan of Arc SMOCK

TODAY'S SPECIAL OFFERING

Here again do I demonstrate the seemingly impossible. This smock at $21.00 a dozen, inspired by one of the Parisian illustrations of Zalud, challenges comparison.

For beauty of model and material, it ranks supreme. Made of Baroness linen—a special Joan of Arc fabric—in sizes from 8 to 20, all in the widest variety of colors, as follows:

IVORY FLESH
BISQUE BLUE DAWN
ADRIATIC APRICOT
ORCHID BERMUDA
SILVER GRAY COPEN

21 00 PER DOZ.

SPECIAL ASSORTMENTS

Order by wire or mail our special assortments in $300 and $500 lots, in prices ranging from $18 to $48 a dozen. Newspaper cuts and advertising matter go free of charge. Due to the unstable manufacturing conditions, and also the novelties these assortments comprise, samples cannot be sent out.

This line can be seen in our showrooms or in your city when our salesman calls.

Increase Collar Prices.

Following the increase put into effect at the beginning of the year, one of the leading collar and shirt concerns, the advance has been made general in the collar trade. Prices were put up to $2.25 from $2.10 a dozen. The new price was made to apply. It is understood to all collars formerly selling for $2.10 a dozen. The increase in cost of materials is held chiefly responsible for the advance. At the present time the demand for soft collars is featuring operations, and some of the manufacturers are understood to be turning down orders.

Gray Goods Prices Firm.

For the second day in succession a new high record price was paid for 39-inch 64-60 printcloths in the local gray goods market yesterday, when spot cloths of Eastern manufacture brought 22 cents. January deliveries of the same construction sold for 21½ cents, and 21 cents could be realized for shipments. Spot business was done on 37-inch 64-60s at 21 cents. January deliveries of 30-inch 68-72s were sold at 25½ cents. Sheetings sales for the day included five-yard goods at 19½ cents for March-May deliveries, and 19½c. for February and March at 19¾ cents.

Allotments a Hardship.

Even the large garment manufacturers express dissatisfaction with the allotment system used in the dress goods market. A leading manufacturer pointed out yesterday where it is very frequently necessary for him to go to jobbers for additional material in order to be able to see what the mill is willing to give him. His volume of business prevents him from dealing in small quantities, and consequently, some of the allotments made him fall considerably short of the supply he requires. Meanwhile the jobber is well aware he is the only source of supply and his prices are governed accordingly.

Good Orders for Ribbons.

Salesmen now on the road with ribbon lines are sending in good orders and the trade as a whole is described as being in a healthy condition. Production still fails to come up to what manufacturers desire, and the record prices of raw silk are giving a very firm tone to ribbon values. While the call from the bag trade is not as active as it was, the loss in this direction is more than made up by the business coming from the suit trade. Vanities are no longer separate articles, but are incorporated in garments, which accounts for the entrance of the suit manufacturers into the ribbon trade for the first time in several years.

Will Back Manufacturers.

The labor situation in the garment trade was explained to representatives of the National Garment Retailers Association at a meeting yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Meyer M. Getskay acted as chairman of the meeting and reviewed conditions responsible for the large number of strikes in the industry despite the agreement of the employers with the union. While no positive action was taken, those who represented the retail garment trade gave assurance of their support to the manufacturers if the arbitration committee appointed at Albany finds that the latter are justified in refusing the demands made on them.

Fur Sale is Postponed a Week.

The annual mid-Winter sale of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, which had been scheduled to begin in the Masonic Temple here on February 9, has been postponed to Feb. 16. In a statement issued yesterday by the association, the change is attributed to short catches of the leading fur-bearing animals throughout the United States and Canada, and the resultant slow arrival of the pelts in this market. The last date for receiving shipments has been changed from Jan. 17 to Jan. 31. One feature of the mid-Winter sale will be to facilitate the visits of foreign buyers to this market and their operations after their arrival here.

Program for Garment Convention.

The program of speakers at the convention of the National Garment Retailers' Association to be held on February 3 at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel has been designed to furnish expert merchandising counsel for the members who attend. Franklin Simon, President of the organization, will describe plans for the new season and a prominent manufacturer will give first hand information concerning conditions in the primary market. It has also been decided to call upon a well known Congressman to present to the association a subject-matter of importance, while the jobber is well aware he is the only source of supply and his prices are governed accordingly.

Silk Hose May Advance Again.

Reports from leading manufacturers of high-grade silk hosiery indicate a possible advance in prices, particularly on women's goods, before very long. Looking ahead to the Fall season, it was said yesterday, advances are sure to be general. Both the possible and probable advances are ascribed to the very sharp increases in the price of raw silk. Japanese raw silks and the steady upward trend of labor costs. Little of interest is taking place at the moment so far as the Spring season is concerned, and the lack of merchandise is still the outstanding feature of the present situation. Calls at the moment are very slowly materializing, it was stated, for wanted for evening wear. These are said to be especially scarce.

Jobbers Should Come Down.

One of the best-posted men in the city on ready-to-wear conditions asserted yesterday that an excellent chance existed at the present time for the jobber of this merchandise who had the courage to locate his place of business on the ground floor at some building in the garment-manufacturing district. While the high rent commanded by such a location is doubtless the chief deterrent to this, the man referred to maintained that the greatly increased business which would result from a ground floor location would more than make up the difference in rentals. Not only would dozens of buyers pass a place of this kind daily on their travels around the district, who ordinarily might not have it, but they would be willing to patronize it in order to cut out the efforts and elevator travel now necessary to reach most concerns in the business. The advertising value of a ground floor location, he asserted, would also prove a tremendous asset.

SERG

REAL ESTATE FIELD

W. Bourke Cockran and Clifford Pinchot, representing the estate of the late General Lloyd S. Bryce, sold yesterday to a syndicate represented by Taylor, Knowles & Hack, attorneys, a plot, 100 by 200 feet, on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Ninety-seventh Street.

The site will be improved immediately with an eleven-story fireproof apartment house and a five-story studio building involving a cost of about $1,000,000, including the cost of the land.

This will be the most northerly high-class apartment on Fifth Avenue and will equal in its fittings, layout, &c., the Seventy-second Street and Fifth Avenue apartments, at about half the rentals.

Only the 100 feet on Fifth Avenue and 100 feet of the Ninety-seventh Street frontage will be used for the apartment, which will be laid out in suites of two apartments to a floor, one of sixteen rooms and the other of fifteen rooms, renting from $9,000 to $15,000 each, according to location, from plans by J. E. R. Carpenter, who has built many of New York's finest apartment houses.

The remaining 50 feet on Ninety-seventh Street will be improved with a five-story studio building, 25 by 100 feet and a 25-foot garden between the two structures. Part of the finest apartments will be sold and the balance rented. Pease & Elliman negotiated the sale. Another transaction for a plot in the same vicinity is reported pending.

Negotiations are pending for the sale of the block front on the west side of Madison Avenue, between Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Streets. The property, which is owned by the Gallatin estate, has been held at $1,250,000. It is said that the prospective buyers plan to improve the site with an apartment hotel. The R. Livingston Beekman Company, which represents the Gallatin estate, stated yesterday that the transaction had not been consummated as yet.

Buy Site for Experimental School for Teachers College.

The General Education Board bought from Kline & Jackson the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and 102d Street, a plot fronting 100 feet on the avenue and 200 feet on the street. The site will be utilized by the board for a school building for the Lincoln School, at 646 Park Avenue. The Lincoln School was opened about three years ago as an experimental school for Teachers College. William A. White & Sons negotiated the transaction.

Morgenstern Bros. Syndicate Results Heights Apartments Held at $300,000.

The Morgenstern Bros. Syndicate has resold to an investing client of S. Nathan 547 to 555 West 184th Street, two six-story apartments on a plot 140 by 115 feet. The structures contain seventy apartments that show a gross annual rental of almost $40,000. They were held at $300,000.

Operator Busy in Insurance and Printing Districts.

Elias Cohen bought, through Camman, Voorhees & Floyd, from Gertrude Lyons the four-story building on a lot 25 by 75 feet at 23 Cliff Street. Mr. Cohen sold to the Pherns Realty Company the six-story building, 47 by 69, at 53-60 Fulton Street, to be remodeled for the Insurance Interests. Jacob Bloch was the broker.

Mercer Street Resale.

Charles F. Noyes Company resold for C. Sharum to the Lebertan Corporation 138 Mercer Street, an eight-story fireproof building on a plot 25 by 71. The property was originally mortgaged for $70,000, and this is the third sale of the same parcel made by the Noyes company.

Sale in Automobile District.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A broad trough of low pressure extends from the West Upper Lake region southwestward through West Texas and thence northeastward in somewhat more pronounced form through New Mexico, Arizona and West Colorado. Elsewhere pressure is high and is rising rapidly in the Northwest and extreme Central West. Cloudy and unsettled weather prevails except in the Pacific States, and there were quite general snows and rains in the Central Valleys, the Gulf States, and the West, except the Pacific States. It is considerably colder in the Central Rocky Mountain region and warmer in the East and South, although still quite cold in the latter section, except in Florida.

Unsettled weather will prevail during Wednesday and Thursday east of the Mississippi River, with snows and rains over the northern and rains over the southern districts.

It will be warmer generally on Wednesday and colder Thursday in the Upper Lake region, the Ohio and the Lower Mississippi Valleys.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Gulf Coast from Bay St. Louis to Carrabelle.

Winds off Atlantic Coast: North of Sandy Hook, moderate southwest winds, cloudy weather; Sandy Hook to Hatteras, moderate winds, mostly southwest, cloudy weather, rain by Wednesday night; Hatteras to Florida Straits, moderate northeast winds, except off the Florida Coast, rain; East Gulf Coast, fresh to moderately strong southeast winds over north portion with rain, moderate northeast and east winds over south portion with fair weather; West Gulf Coast, moderate variable winds, unsettled weather.

FORECAST TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York—Cloudy and warmer Wednesday, snow or rain by night and on Thursday.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Cloudy and warmer Wednesday, snow or rain by night and on Thursday.

Southern New England—Cloudy and warmer Wednesday, snow or rain by night and on Thursday.

Northern New England—Cloudy and warmer Wednesday, probably snow in Vermont; Thursday snow or rain.

Western New York—Snow or rain west, snow east portion, Wednesday, warmer; Thursday snow or rain.

Western Pennsylvania—Snow or rain Wednesday and probably Thursday, warmer Wednesday.

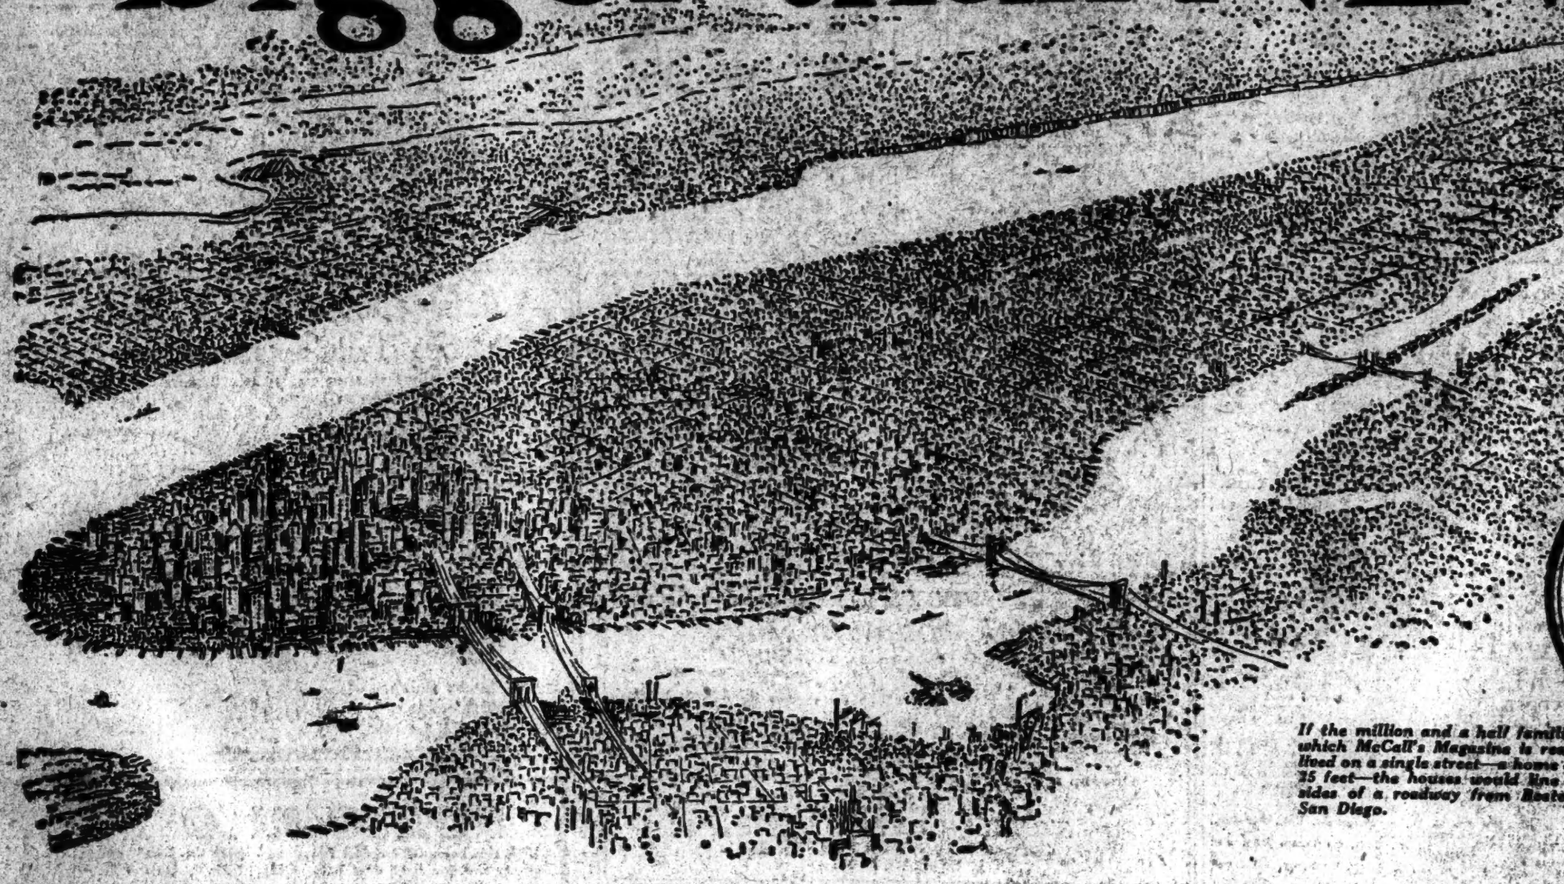
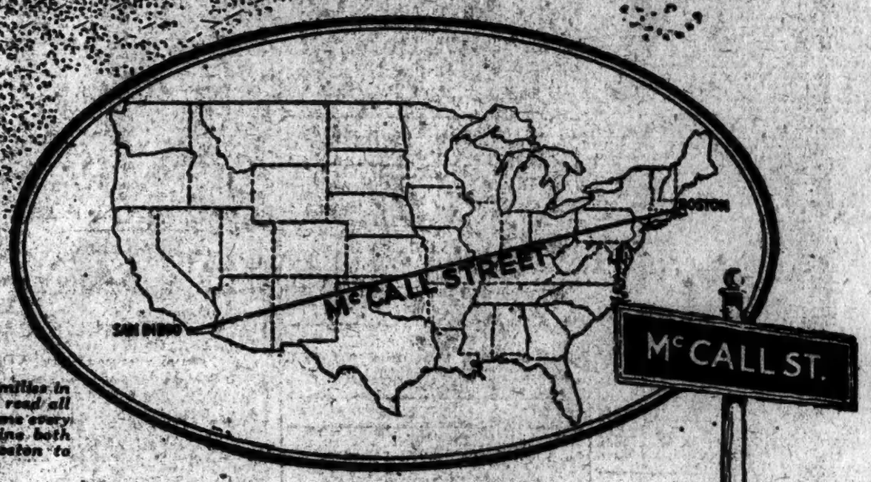
McCALL STREET -bigger than NEW YORK





If the million and a half families in which McCall's Magazine is read all lived on a single street—a home every 25 feet—the houses would line both sides of a roadway from Boston to San Diego.

McCALL STREET Housewives Spend One Hundred and Fifty Million Dollars a Month

New York City has 6,000,000 people. If all the 1,500,000 homes on McCall Street were in one city its population would be 6,750,000.

Bigger by three quarters of a million than the biggest city in the world! What a striking picture of McCall Street—that busy, prosperous street, which would extend in a straight line from Boston to San Diego, with a house every 25 feet on each side of the road.

Three quarters of a million more people than New York, but without New York's extremes of wealth and poverty, without New York's congested tenement districts, without New York's thousands who do not read English.

Standards of living are uniformly high in the homes of McCall Street — the 1,500,000 homes in which McCall's Magazine is read every month. There are no illiterates, no slums. McCall Street has 1,500,000 families of culture, education, refinement—families who are abreast of the times, who want the newest and best in everything they use or wear or eat.

These families of McCall Street expend more than a hundred and fifty million dollars a month for the things they use and wear and eat. Most of this vast purchasing power is in the hands of the women of McCall Street — the women who read McCall's Magazine.

McCall's Magazine is a welcome visitor in 1,500,000 homes because it not only entertains, but also instructs and advises the busy housewife. It enables her to design and furnish her home artistically. It keeps her fully posted concerning the latest fashions in New York and Paris. It helps her in her cooking and preserving. It gives her authoritative and invaluable advice regarding the care of baby.

Each one of the 1,500,000 housewives of McCall Street has her part in the spending of a hundred and fifty million dollars a month, for food and clothing and household requirements. And each one reads in McCall's the advertisements of the manufacturers who want the women of McCall Street to know about their goods.
